Quakes Now Total 60 In 'Frisco Area

People Begin To Lose Fear After Many Small Ones

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23 (UP) — San Francisco residents rode out the continuing aftershocks of their worst earthquake since 1906 Saturday with a patient calm that replaced Friday's shaky panic sometime during the night.

The aftershocks continued to rock and roll the city for more than 24 hours and seismologists said more could be expected.

Almost miraculously there were no serious injuries from the series which was capped by a 5.5 magnitude quake at 11:45 a.m. Friday. Property damage was in the millions but was mostly of a minor nature and so widespread that it would be weeks before an accurate figure could be determined.

WORST SINCE '06

The "Big Shake" Friday morning was the worst felt here since the 1906 quake set off a fire that levelled the city. That quake had an estimated magnitude of 8.25 on the Richter scale.

San Franciscans were admittedly scared by the big shock and by some of the more stern of the following tremblors Friday afternoon.

But by Saturday, when the total of shakes registered on the University of California seismograph had passed the 60 mark, the

Ike, British Chief Plotting For Defense

Two Differ On Best Method To Defend Europe

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda, March 23 (UP)—President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan tackled disagreements over how best to defend Europe at the final sessions of their summit conference here Saturday.

British sources at the secret three-day meetings said the chief executives were cordial but did not see completely eye to eye on joint defense of Europe against Soviet aggression, particularly on methods of withdrawing British troops from Germany for reasons of economy.

However, the White House emphasized the overall "gratifying" results of the conference. A final communique was being drafted for Mr. Eisenhower and Macmillan to approve after a farewell dinner Saturday night. The President will be host at the dinner in the Mid Ocean club.

TEXT DUE SUNDAY

Text of the communique will be issued Sunday morning (6 a. m. CST) before the President's departure for Washington at 10:45 a.m. (8:45 a.m. CST).

The White House announced that the President will fly home aboard the presidential plane Columbine III from Kindley Air Force Base. He decided against returning as he came, aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Canberra.

As the two chief executives went into their last intermittent sessions Saturday, British sources reported them still some distance apart on the most effective method of defending Europe.

Britain has been swinging to a complete nuclear defense approach against NATO advise, placing reliance less on manpower and almost entirely on nuclear weapons and guided missiles.

ARGUMENT DELAYS COMMUNIQUE

It was reported that the final communique being thrashed out by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd was delayed because of the argument.

Defense officials, including U.S. Air Secretary Donald A. Quarles attended a separate defense session which continued over from Friday. Dulles and Lloyd also attended, but the President and the prime minister did not. Complete secrecy was maintained at the defense discussion.

There was no indication what the final communique would state. Spokesmen refused to discuss it except to repeat that "it has been a satisfactory conference."

Blizzard Slams Central Plains, Rips Into Texas

HOME AT LAST . . . Emma Mae Poland

EMMA GOES HOME

Hearts And Purses Open To Little Girl

WINNSBORO, March, 23 (Special) — Generous folk of Louisiana opened their hearts to a little girl who has a congenital heart defect, and Emma Mae Poland is now at her farm home, 13 miles from Winnsboro.

On March 16, a Monroe Morning-World article told how the plucky 11-year-old girl, who has gradually gone down-hill with the incurable heart condition, was prevented from going home from the hospital, for lack of an oxygen tent.

Contributions of more than $600 have poured in to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Poland, who used up every cent in medical aid for the youngster, and had no means of purchasing the costly tank of oxygen for her each day, much less obtain an oxygen tent.

The tent and regulator have been loaned to the family, and the money will be used to buy medicine and oxygen for Emma Mae.

Mr. and Mrs. Poland were almost overcome with gratitude for the help which has come in. Many of their acquaintances have stopped by, not realizing before what desperate straits the family was in, and many anonymous contributions have been received.

Last Sunday, several churches sent their donations to the Polands and this week, neighbors have put gravel from the road, 200 yards up to the house, so getting in and out will be easier in wet weather. Other neighbors have plowed the family's fields this week.

"Our friends have done so many things for us, I couldn't even mention them all at once" Mr. Poland said.

Emma Mae is slightly improved and is able to sit up for a few minutes without the tank; but the minute the 11-year-old lies down, she must have continual oxygen.

The Polands, who live in a small house with five other children, take turns staying with Emma Mae, who must have someone in attendance night and day, and getting any work done is a difficulty for the parents.

Seven-Foot Drifts Clog Texas Roads

KANSAS CITY, March 23 (AP) — Hundreds of motorists were marooned by deep snow drifts today as a blizzard howled across the west-central Plains and the Southwest. Snowfall ranged up to 10 inches.

One death was attributed to the storm in Texas.

200 MISSING

National Guardsmen were called into the search for some 200 motorists stranded in western Kansas as nightfall approached. Two hundred other car travelers were believed stuck in Texas. Several buses were unreported near the Kansas-Colorado line.

In Nebraska, Gov. Victor Anderson authorized use of National Guard equipment in the Ogallala area where 200 to 300 autos were reported stuck in heavy snows.

Ogallala is in west-central Nebraska. The heaviest snows in that state were reported in the northwest corner where 10 to 12 inches had fallen in two days.

The storm extended from the Dakotas, western Nebraska and Kansas through the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandles, through New Mexico and as far west as Winslow, Ariz.

WIND 83 MPH

Ira Merrick, office engineer for the State Highway Commission at Garden City, Kan., called it "about the worst storm we've had since 1931."

Roads were closed in western Kansas, part of Colorado and New Mexico and in the western section of the Oklahoma Panhandle. Eastbound traffic was stopped in New Mexico and Colorado.

One bus en route from Garden City to Dodge City had not completed its normal one-hour trip more than two hours later. Mayor Gay Bowers of Garden City declared a state of emergency there, after a nine-inch fall since early morning.

BUS SNOWED IN

A bus bound from San Francisco to St. Louis was snowed in at Oakley, Kan., and its 15 passengers were being cared for at a hotel there.

Gusts ranging up to 80 m.p.h. blew out a store window and knocked down signs in Amarillo, Tex.

Two telephone repairmen were reported missing in eastern Colorado.

Roland Hill and an unidentified companion, both of Trinidad, were unreported after leaving Trinidad on an 80-mile trip to Kim to repair telephone service.

Kim, east of Trinidad, uses radio-telephone for communication. Trinidad officials were unable to make calls to Kim but one call came through from there. The

3,000 Students Turn Out For Music Festival

About 3,000 high school students participated in the two-day music festival on the Northeast State campus. The event, which closed Saturday night, was open to schools of various classifications, depending upon enrollment.

SIGHT READING

Ratings on sight reading and concert were announced Saturday, with other ratings to be published as soon as tabulations are completed.

Results in sight reading by students from "AA" schools are listed as follows: West Monroe choir, very good; Ouachita Parish girls, good; Ouachita Parish choir, superior; Ouachita Parish mixed chorus, very good; West Monroe girls glee club, very good.

Scores given for "A" schools included: Minden High School mixed chorus, excellent; Minden High School girls' chorus, very good; Jonesboro - Hodge mixed chorus, very good.

Ratings for "B" schools comprised: Winnsboro Junior High School girls glee club, very good; Tallulah High School mixed chorus, very good; Winnsboro High

Two Drivers, Four Cars In Collision Here

Four cars were involved in a single accident at 7:15 last night, but there were only two drivers.

Homer K. Craig of West Monroe, failed to stop for a red light at the corner of 5th and Washington, police said, and a pick-up truck, driven by Edward C. Young of 1710 DeSiard street, traveling east on Washington, rammed the Ford on the left side. The impact caused Mrs. Craig, who was riding with her husband, to be thrown from the car at the intersection.

The Craig car then jumped the curb, and hit two cars in a parking lot, damaging them slightly.

Mrs. Craig was taken to St. Francis hospital by Kilpatrick's ambulance, but x-rays revealed that she had no broken bones. She suffered abrasions and cuts on the left leg.

The front end of the Young truck was damaged, and both sides of the Ford were smashed in. Craig was charged with reckless driving.

BY SENATE PROBERS

Source Of Beck's $270,000 Sought

WASHINGTON, March 23 (UP) — Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) of the Senate Rockets Investigating committee said Saturday that $270,000 which Teamster Union President Dave Beck "took" from union's treasury was neither a loan nor a gift.

But McClellan declined, under questioning by reporters, to say just how Beck's transaction should be characterized.

"We know that Beck took from the treasurury some $270,000," he said. "There is no evidence of a loan or gift."

McClellan was asked whether he suspects that misappropriation of funds was involved and, if so, whether Washington state laws on larceny might apply to it. The Washington statute was read at the committee's hearings this week.

McClellan replied that such a possibility "engages the interest and attention of the committee."

FELONY IN MOST STATES

As to a legal inquiry, he noted that "theft, misappropriation or embezzlement" is a felony under the laws of most states.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the committee has "evidence to show" that Beck took the $270,000 even if Beck refuses to produce his personal financial

Red Premier Rejects Plea By Adenauer

BONN, Germany, March 23 (UP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin told West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in a note disclosed Saturday that the only way to reunite Germany is by direct negotiation with the East German Communists. Adenauer promptly rejected the idea.

Bulganin ignored Adenauer's appeal to 'set free" the 17 million Germans in the eastern zone of the divided country.

In his first brief comment, released by the Federal Press Office, Adenauer confirmed that there would be early talks as Bulganin proposed on cultural exchanges.

But he criticized the argument that only East and West German negotiations can settle the reunification issue. West Germany holds that only the big Four powers can settle the problem since East German Communist leaders are not freely-elected representatives of the people.

"The premises from which Bulganin starts are incorrect", Adenauer said.

Bulganin's 600-word note was delivered to Adenauer by Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov on March 20 and was dated March 18.

Some Rainfall Seen For Area

Today will be cloudy, with a possibility of some light rain. A cold front moved through the Twin Cities yesterday afternoon bringing temperatures down from the 70 registered during the noon hour.

By 6:30 p.m. Saturday, .27 of an inch of rain fell, and slightly more fell after that.

PLAYMATE BLAMED AGAIN

One-Eyed Boy May Lose Second Eye

MONTREAL, March 23 (UP)—A one-eyed boy was threatened with total blindness Saturday. His eye was injured by the same playmate who 10 months ago caused the other eye to be removed.

Last May, Kenneth Le Blanc, ran home screaming. He said Maruice Gibeault, 14, had been playing with a piece of wire and the end had struck him in the eye.

Last Thursday, Kenneth was engaged in horseplay with the same playmate in a grocery where Kenneth did odd jobs. Again Kenneth ran home screaming.

"The boy threw glass in my other eye," he told his mother. "He did it again, I can't see."

Doctors said the cornea was gashed. It will be a week before they know whether Kenneth will lose the vision in his remaining eye.

"I didn't do it on purpose," said the Gibeault boy.

The Le Blancs have sued the Gibeaults for $25,000 because of the May incident. The case is still before the courts.

Leo Le Blanc, the boy's father, who is a machinist, said the Gibeaults are "near neighbors with whom we've always been on good terms."

W.M., Neville Students Top Fair Winners

Grand champion awards for exhibits in Saturday's third annual Northeast Louisiana Science Fair were captured by Miss Rosemary White, of West Monroe High School, and Roger Klam, of Neville High of Monroe.

150 STUDENTS

About 150 students participated in the regional fair which was sponsored by Northeast Louisiana State under direction of a science faculty committee headed by E. C. Whatley.

Both individual and group exhibits were displayed in senior, junior and elementary sections. They covered the fields of botany, zoology, biology, chemistry, earth science, archaeology, electronics, physics, engineering, astronomy, social science, geology, mathematics, physics and engineering.

First, second, third and fourth places were open for displays prepared by individuals in both senior and junior divisions and for group exhibits. Elementary entries were for display only.

Awards in their order of rank in the senior division were granted to the following entrants for their displays in biology: Martha Riser, Neville of Monroe; Charles Martin, West Monroe; Frank Parrino, Jr., Neville; Marion Edwards, Ouachita Parish.

CHEMISTRY PRIZES

W. Monroyan Heads FBLA

ALEXANDRIA, Mar. 23 (Special)—John Eaves, a student at West Monroe High School, was selected state president of the Future Business Leaders of America at the annual convention meeting here Saturday, and a team of three girls from Ouachita Parish High School won first place in the state spelling relay.

Ouachita's spelling team was made up of Sandra Brown, Joyce McLaughlin, and Myrtis Sterling. The girls were entered in the state FBLA spelling contest after earning a superior rating in the North District elimination held in West Monroe.

Words used in the state contest were taken from several spelling textbooks and from a list of 1,000 words commonly used in the field of business.

Son Of O. Ridge Mayor Dies In Clinic At UCLA

OAK RIDGE, March 23 (Special)—Norman Lewis Files, 19-year-old son of Mayor and Mrs. J. M. Files, died Saturday morning in California after an emergency operation at the U.C.L.A. Clinic.

Norman had gone to the California clinic with his mother to have tests made about a month ago. When his condition was described as critical, last Wednesday, his father and brother flew to his bedside.

Survivors include his parents, one brother, J. B. Files, Oak Ridge, Mrs. F. W. Files, his paternal grandmother, and Mrs. P. P. Norman, maternal grandmother, and several aunts and uncles.

ACTIVE IN SCHOOL

He was active in school work. He was vice-president of the 1956 class at Oak Ridge High School, a member of the Student Council, the F.F.A., editor of the Oak Ridge annual, the Bantam and the school paper.

He was a member of the Baptist Church and the local Boy Scouts. He also was a charter member and past president of the Prairie Jefferson Society of the Children of the American Revolution.

Funeral services tonight were still incomplete but will be held in Oak Ridge with time and date to be announced later.

Jes' Ramblin'

Just to start the day off with a laugh, here are some jokes that were told at a banquet in Hotel Frances the past week.

A certain teacher had been wearied by one of her pupils a steadfast admirer of Patrick Henry. Every chance he got he would come out with this patriot's blazing appeal: "Give me liberty or give me death!" Finally the teacher decided that Willie, (that's his name), should write something in his composition that would be miles removed from his favorite. She told him to write about a sick mule that was suffering from colic. Here is what he wrote: "The old mule was badly off, for the colic had got him down. If he could talk he would have said, 'Give me liberty or give me death!' "

Another was where fear for some days of a tornado caused a country school to be closed down.

PRIVATE FIRMS

Egypt Preparing Own Canal Plans

CAIRO, March 23 (UP)—Egypt will propose a Suez Canal "users association" composed of interested private firms instead of western governments to help plan the development of the strategic waterway, informed sources said Saturday.

The sources said Egyptian President Gamel Abdel Nasser outlined the detailed plan for operating the canal to United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold at their meeting Saturday.

Saturday's talks were termed the most important since the UN chief arrived in Cairo Wednesday. They were held in Nasser's private retreat on an island in the Nile delta where the Egyptian leader made his decision last July to nationalize the Suez Canal.

AGAINST WEST'S PLAN

The sources said Egypt is not willing to accept a "user's association" of governments as proposed by the West during canal talks last fall. The western "Suez Canal users association" has 14 governments as members and maintains a headquarters in London.

The users' association favored by Egypt must be composed of private interests such as shipping companies and oil firms who use the canal, the sources said.

Egypt would pledge in writing to set aside a certain percentage of tolls for developing the canal, the sources added.

Disclosure of the Egyptian plan came as the Egyptian Suez Canal authority announced that ships up to 2,500 tons could use the waterway starting Sunday. The previous limit was 2,000 tons. The canal is scheduled to be cleared to all traffic in about three weeks.

PLANS ANOTHER CHANNEL

At the same time, informed sources said Egypt is planning to dredge another channel in the canal to permit two-way traffic under an expansion plan nearly completed.

Under the Egyptian private users' association plan, sources said Egypt will probably be willing to let any disputes on development be submitted to arbitration by experts — but not by governments or political bodies such as the UN.

This attitude, the sources said, was what Nasser meant in his statement last autumn that the Suez Canal would be "isolated from politics."

The sources said however, that "insulating" the canal does not mean allowing Israeli ships to pass through it. Nasser has already indicated that Egypt is still in a state of war with Israel and therefore will not permit such transit of Israel shipping.

Woman Gives Birth To Quints

ROOSENDAAL, Holland, March 23 (UP)—Quintuplets were born prematurely Saturday to a 26-year-old housewife. None of the infants survived.

The mother, Mrs. Cornelia Van Hassel-Htynen, who also has year old twin boys, was reported in good condition.

The quintuplets were born after a six-month pregnancy.

X-Ray Machine Promises Aid For Stomach Cancer

By JULIUS GOLDEN

SAO PAULO, Brazil, March 23 (AP) — A new X-ray machine may help stem stomach cancer just as chest X-rays diminished the danger of tuberculosis.

The new machine, invented in Brazil by a father-and-son team, permits the filming and televising of movements of internal organs. Several medical congresses have heard papers on the new device and the Philips Co. of Eindhoven, The Netherlands has begun producing it.

Similar machines are being developed in the United States.

According to internationally famous Brazilian medical men, the invention opens a new era for medical research and radiology. Besides being a help in the early discovery of stomach cancer, it also cuts the amount of dangerous X-rays to which patients are subject.

The new machine was perfected by Austrian-born Jose Jany, 59, who came to Brazil in 1920 as an immigrant, and his 33-year-old son, Erich Jose, totund and bald, a huge tumor on his neck giving testimony to years spent in research with dangerous X-rays, worked 25 years on the device. The Janys have patents in Brazil and patents pending in the United States and England.

The Jany machine looks much like standard X-ray equipment. But it has an electronic transmitting tube — the heart and brain of the device — which picks up the X-ray image, makes it 1,700 times brighter, and sends it to television or movie cameras. A 35-millimeter camera gives a second by second record on film of the movement of internal organs. Film can be preserved by parents and used years later for comparative purposes.

"It was obvious that advances were needed in the field of X-rays," he said. "For one thing, luminosity was weak. And radiographs showed only a still film of organs when observation of movement would have been a boon to medical science. Thirdly, the patient and radiologist were subject to injury by the X-rays. If you want an example, look at my tumor."

Jose Jany's first experiments — and those first feeble efforts lasted SIX years — were made without the electronic transmitting tube. Finally, in 1938 he began work on the tube which intensifies and transmits the image. An international priority on this tube was registered at Berne, Switzerland in 1943.

Jose Jany, who was graduated as an engineer in Vienna in 1926 after some study of medicine, and his son, who also is an engineer, continued working on the machine and presenting papers on their progress to medical congresses. In 1952 they were ready for a demonstration on television. Delegates to a labor medicine congress in Rio de Janeiro were treated to a view of internal organs in action.

"The picture was clear," Jose Jany said. "A thousand doctors watching a thousand television screens in widely separated areas could have observed the action of the organs of one patient. That was a very proud moment for me."

Since then, a Jany machine Manufactured by Philips has been installed at the medical school of the University of Sao Paulo. Dr. E. Vasconcelos, internationally-known surgeon and director of the medical school, has launched a campaign to get the Brazilian government to institute mass X-rays of the stomach for early discovery of stomach cancer.

"In an automobile, before you have a breakdown, you note irregular function of parts of the car," Vasconcelos said. "The story is much the same in the human body."

Vasconcelos said the wall of the stomach has a definite movement — the peristaltic movement — as the digestive process goes ahead. When cancer cells invade the stomach, the wall becomes rigid and thus the peristaltic wave changes. Generally the patient doesn't realize he has cancer until two or three years later. By then, death has a prior claim over medicine in most cases.

Jany's machine looks much like any other X-ray apparatus. But it uses 130,000 volts where 100,000 volts are required for the ordinary machine. By use of a fine focus tube — 0.3 square millimeters as opposed to the one square millimeter normal focus tube — a clear image is given the electronic transmitting device.

Every Y. M. C. A. board member is urged to be present.

Student Of Dr. Schweitzer Is Tech Speaker

RUSTON, March 23 (Special)— "Reverence for life, reverence for everything living" highlights the philosophy of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, a former student of the renowned French physician and theologist told an assembly of Louisiana Tech student's, faculty and townspeople of Ruston in Howard Auditorium here Friday.

Dr. Marion Mill Preminger, who three weeks ago visited Dr. Schweitzer on his 82nd birthday at the hospital he operates in equatorial Africa, said her former teacher "has no enemies" because of his philosophy.

"He is a mortal saint," the speaker said.

"His hospital, where he has been located for 43 years, does not have electricity and other modern conveniences but it stands as a lighthouse to all other hospitals. The medication of human kindness is a prime factor in the treatment of his patients.

"I have known Dr. Schweitzer to sit all night holding the hand of a dying leper woman because he thinks it is easier to die if someone is holding the person's hand."

In an emotional and tearful appraisal of Dr. Schweitzer's influence, Dr. Preminger concluded:

"There often comes a time when one's inner light flickers out and it must be set aflame again. Next to his dog, I am Dr. Schweitzer's most humble follower."

Professor Dies At Northwestern

NATCHITOCHES, March 23 (Special) — Funeral services for Alvin Good, 74, retired Northwestern State College sociology professor who died Thursday, will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow.

Last rites will be at the First Presbyterian church in Natchitoches with Rev. Earl Wiggins, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in the American Cemetery here.

Good is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. John T. Hood, Jr., wife of District Judge Hood, Lake Charles, and Mrs. Ben Poynor, of Corpus Christi, Tex.; a brother, Howard Good, Independence, Mo.; two sisters, Mrs. Charles Henderson, of Severy, Kan., and Mrs. Milo Flowers, of Cimmaron, Kan., and six grandchildren.

Good, author of a textbook in sociology (Sociology and Education, Harper's, 1926), was a native of Kansas, but had resided in Natchitoches since 1920, when he joined the faculty of Louisiana State Normal college, now Northwestern.

Very active in church work, he had been an elder in the Presbyterian church for 52 years.

He retired from NSC in the summer of 1952 after having served as principal and teacher in high schools in Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas (Little Rock). Before coming to "Normal" in 1920, he was professor of social science for two years at Hastings College, Neb.

Peasants Pay Final Tribute To Magsaysay

MANILA, March 23 (UP) — Weeping, barefoot peasants in tattered clothes joined representatives of world governments Friday to pay their last respects to President Raymon Magsaysay.

The body of the 49-year-old national hero was laid to rest in a tomb bearing an inscription as simple as the life he led: "Ramon Magsaysay, leader of the Philippines."

Magsaysay and 25 other persons were killed early Sunday when a twin-engine C-47 transport plane in which they were riding crashed on a jungle-covered mountaintop 22 miles north of Cebu City. Only one person — a Manila newspaperman —survived the crash.

FUNERAL STARTS

The solemn, six - hour funeral services began at dawn when the body of the late president was carried to the Luneta, Manila's big public park, where Archbishop Rufino J. Santos officiated at a pontifical high mass.

More than 100,000 people prayed in the park and then followed the procession back to Congress Hall, where they waited outside with bowed heads while new President Carlos P. Garcia eulogized his predecessor in state necrological services.

Representatives of the United States, Britain, Indonesia, South Viet Nam, Japan, Tailand, Australia and Argentina attended the services. Adm. Felix Stump, commander of the U. S. Pacific Fleet, led the American delegation.

Town Council Probes Street Repair Needs

OAK RIDGE, March 23 (Special) —A special meeting of the Oak Ridge town council was called Wednesday by Mayor J. M. Files to approve a report on street conditions.

In Oak Ridge's strive for community improvements, street conditions was considered to be one of the most needed projects. W. M. Nolan, alderman acting as street commissioner, with several consultants, made a survey and study of conditions. Their recommendations were sent to town officials. They said several streets are badly in need of repairs and resurfacing, and the cost will be approximately $5,000.

One of the most important recommendations made was for additional and better drainage of these streets where the work is to be done. All property owners are being asked for full cooperation in this project.

Prosecution Answers Pleas In Durbin Case

BATON ROUGE, March 23 (AP) — The prosecution replied yesterday to defense motions in the case of two teenagers charged with the murder of a 30-year-old sewing center manager last Dec. 21.

Charged with the slaying of Marion O. Durbin are William S. Rowan, 17, and Herbert Ray Mears, 16. Durbin was found dead in his car on a dead end street in a subdivision, robbed and beaten.

District Judge G. Caldwell Herget set April 2 for argument of objections by defense to the reply by Asst. Dist. Atty. Tom Pugh. No trial date was set, pending disposition of motions.

The defense was turned down earlier this month in a move to dismiss the charges, then filed a motion for more information on the charges.

The state's answer said it "was informed in statements and confessions made by the accused that the deceased had attempted to commit a crime against nature."

But it added the state was not required to prove that the deceased committee such a crime and had no positive knowledge of such an act.

Trial Of Four For Assault On Negro Slated

MAGNOLIA, Miss., March 23 (AP) —Circuit Judge Tom Brady today set Tuesday as the trial date of one of four white men charged in the kidnap-rape of a 16-year-old Negro girl last May.

The circuit clerk's office said a venire of 80 men was selected for the rape trial of Ernest Dillon, 29, of McComb.

Judge Brady said the cases of Olen and Duroa Duncan, 21-year-old cousins from Tylertown charged with kidnap and rape, and Ernest's 44-year-old brother, Ollie Dillon of Tylertown, charged with kidnap, were set for call Monday.

Last November, physicians at Mississippi State (mental) Hospital at Whitfield said a month-long examination of Ernest Dillon showed he was sane and able to stand trial.

Pike County Sheriff A. E. Andrews said the four men were accused of kidnaping the girl from her rural Walthall County home the night of May 13 and raping her in the Bogue Chitto River swamp in Pike County.

The four have been in Pike County jail since their arrest.

Engineer's Day Set For April 6

RUSTON, March 23 (Special)— Louisiana Tech will hold its 22nd annual Engineers' Day on Saturday, April 6. The program for the day, which is sponsored by the Engineers' Association at the college, will include the showing of exhibits in Bogard Hall, a barbecue at Woodland Park, and the crowning of the Engineers' Day queen.

Festivities get underway at 8:00 a.m. in Bogard Hall, when the engineers begin demonstrating their various exhibits. High school students from all over north and central Louisiana, visitors from surrounding cities, and Tech students are expected to tour Bogard and view the exhibits. The exhibits will be shown until 3 p.m.

The barbecue, which is for engineering students and faculty members only, will be held at Woodland Park at 5:15 p.m.

Highlighting the barbecue will be the crowning of the Engineers' Day queen. Each of the engineering organizations has selected a candidate, and an election will be held on Tuesday, April 2, when all engineering students will vote at a ballot box to be located outside the dean's office in Bogard Hall. Results of the election will not be revealed until the crowning ceremony on Engineer's Day.

Candidates for queen and the organizations sponsoring them are as follows: Ruth Cummings, Delhi, American Society of Civil Engineers; Anne Laffitte, Mansfield, American Institute of Electrical Engineers; Joan Morris, Shreveport, American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical, and Petroleum Engineering; Jo Jordan, El Dorado, Ark., American Society of Mechanical Engineers; and Buena Pittard, Grand Cane, American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

Family Loses All Belongings In House Fire

All the personal belongings of a Ouachita parish Negro family of eight were destroyed in a fire that left their home in ashes about 11 a.m. Saturday.

The house was occupied by Clarence Fuller, his wife, and six children including a set of 8 month-old twins and four others aged 11, 14, 16 and 17. It was located of highway 80 on the Hickory Bend Road a short distance west of the Claiborne community.

Clothing and supplies for the destitute family are being collected at the Claiborne Community Grocery and at F. B. Powell Mercantile Company in Claiborne.

The children 11 and 17 years old are boys, and the 14 and 16 year-olds are girls.

Onassis, Other Foreign Shippers Face Probe On Tanker Transfers

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE

WASHINGTON, March 23 (UP) —Rep. Herbert Zelenko D-N.Y.) is trying to build a congressional fire under Aristotle Onassis, fabulous Greek shipping magnate, in connection with "questionable" tanker deals with the government

Whether he is successful will depend upon what the House Merchant Marine Committee turns up. The committee opens a general inquiry Wednesday into transfer of American flag tankers and other ships to foreign registry.

Zelenko charged this week that Onassis, through "loopholes" in the law, engineered a $100 million ship and tax "windfall" for himself with approval of both the Department of Justice and the Maritime Administration.

CLAIMS DUAL CITIZENSHIP

Chairman Herbert C. Bonner (D-N.C.) said the committee will investigate to see whether any "improprieties" were involved. A committee spokesman added that a staff investigator was in New York looking into the charges "but so far we haven't put a finger on anything dubious."

Onassis, who claims dual Greek and Argentine citizenship, owns the world's biggest tanker fleet. He got into trouble with the government seven years ago for illegally acquiring war surplus tankers and Liberty ships which can be sold only to American citizens or American-controlled corporations.

On Aug. 10, 1956, Onassis and the Justice Department got together on a deal. The department dropped criminal and civil charges against him after he agreed to pay $7 million for the vessels, plus a $160,000 fine. He also agreed to transfer majority stock in four of his shipping companies to Grace National Bank of New York, as trustee.

HOODWINKED U. S.

It was further agreed that Onassis could take possession of 14 of the vessels he had acquired—12 tankers and two Liberty ships—but in exchange Grace National as trustee, must build for the government one 100,000-ton and two 46,000-ton tankers.

Congressman Zelenko asserted that this is where Onassis hoodwinked the government and is why he introduced a resolution for an investigation by Bosner's committee.

He alleged that Onassis used two of his minor children, who are American citizens, to give the deal an aura of legality. He said Onassis drew up a so-called "irrevocable trust" in which he was supposed to have turned over to the children forever title to the 12 tankers and the Liberty ships.

COST NEXT TO NOTHING

"The trust is full of loopholes," Zelenko said in a floor speech. "Under its terms Onassis still has substantial control and, by a number of devices and unreported agreements, he can revoke, modify, or amend the trust.

"Under the agreement the trustee has agreed to build three tankers which cost about $50 million. The project will cost Onassis practically nothing. He is to obtain a 100 per cent mortgage from American insurance companies which is guaranteed by the U.S. government.

"The other side of the deal, in which he supposedly relinquished title to the 12 tankers and the Liberty ships, provides that these vessels, now under American flag, be sold or be turned over to his own flag companies.

TAX RETURNS LOST

"By means of some high-powered bookkeeping these ships are being sold for about $13 million. They are worth about $50 million in the world market. The ships to be built may be completed in three years if the deal is permitted to proceed.

"The United States loses substantial tax returns from the operation of these ships. Onassis transfers them for a depreciated value of about $13 million, allowing one of his companies to write off millions in depreciation and tax deductions, while his other companies, to which the ships are being turned over, can sell the same vessels at this moment for $50 million—practically all clear profit under capital-gains taxation —if, in fact, any taxes will have to be paid to the United States at all."

"Not even a bond has been required of Onassis," he continued. "All the United States gets in event of a default is a damage claim limited to $8 million—if and when it can collect."

Ike Says U.S. Set To Boost Baghdad Pact

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda March 23 (AP) — President Eisenhower has told Prime Minister Macmillan the United States is willing to join the Baghdad Pact's Military Committee in a move to check the spread of communism in the Middle East.

The action - disclosed yesterday and hailed by the British—is sure to elate all the Middle East members of the five-nation pact.

It came as Eisenhower and Macmillan turned next to talks on plans to bolster Britain's atomic striking power to compensate coming reductions of military manpower dictated by economic necessity.

The President was expected to assure the Prime Minister during Mid-Ocean Club negotiations that the United States is prepared to help Britain develop a streamlined, atomic age force.

In advance of the Eisenhower-Macmillan session on that matter the President discussed related problems at a lunch with key military diplomatic advisers who flew in from Washington.

At the luncheon table with the chief executive were Reuben Robertson Jr., deputy secretary of defense, Air Force Secretary Donald Quarles, Chairman Lewis Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission and Robert Murphy, deputy undersecretary of state.

The American and British delegations joined in attempting to shroud the Eisenhower - Macmillan defense talks in secrecy, saying security was involved.

Spokesmen for the delegations announced there would be no news conference after the session on that matter—a departure from the procedure which has prevailed since the conference began yesterday.

As for U.S. willingness to join the Baghdad Pact's military planning unit, the decision highly pleased the British.

Foreign Office spokesman Peter Hope said: "Her Majesty's government warmly welcomes this development in United States policy."

In addition to Britain, the pact members are Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Pakistan. The alliance is designed as an anti-Communist defense shield across the northern tier of the Middle East.

Member nations have long been exerting much pressure on the United States to join the pact as a full member, or failing that, the military planning group. The United States already is a member of the Economic and Counter-subversive committees.

But the move to join the military unit also seemed sure to upset the Arab nations of Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Saudi Arabia, all hostile to the pact. It could also touch off Israel demands for parallel security assurances from the United States.

Okay Zwicker Promotion To Major General

WASHINGTON, March 23 (UP) —The Senate Armed Services Committee Friday approved the promotion to major general of Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker whom Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy had charged with lying to Senate investigators.

The vote was 12 to 0, with Sens. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) and Styles Bridges (R-N. H.) abstaining. Byrd said he was unable to attend all the hearings on the nomination. Bridges gave no reason, but he had questioned Zwicker intensively during two days of closed-door testimony.

McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, asserted that Zwicker "clearly lied" before the Senate investigations subcommittee during a 1955 inquiry that grew out of the Army-McCarthy feud hearings.

Zwicker, now assistant chief of staff of Army forces in the Far East, was commander of Camp Kilmer, N. J. He denied he gave secret information to a subcommittee investigator, C. George Anastos. The investigator and a subcommittee clerk, Mary Morrill, swore he did.

Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said the Armed Services Committee agreed in its report to include a statement that is approval of the promotion "did not necessarily imply" that Anastos and Miss Morrill had "sworn falsely."

Instead, he said, "the situation was so confused that there were reasonable grounds and abundant opportunity for any person to have made a mistake."

Zwicker's nomination for promotion to the temporary rank of major general and the permanent rank of brigadier general was included in a routine list of 64 nominations sent to the Senate by President Eisehower early this year. The committee approved all of them.

ASKS DRASTIC STEPS

Segregation Leader Blasts Eisenhower As 'Quisling'

RICHMOND, Va., March 23 (AP) —A leader in the fight against racial integration said last night "we must resort to drastic measures if we are to preserve the structure of our republic."

Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss) said in a speech prepared for a state convention of the Defenders of State Sovereignty and Individual Liberties that "we are obligated to resist tyranny no matter what form it may take."

"If we are true to ourselves, we must resist it even when it wears the sheep's clothing of judicial robes, if freedom is to be the legacy we leave to our children," Williams said.

"This crisis," he added, does not call for "timidity" but rather the "taxing of new reservoirs of courage."

"In the face of the Supreme Court's brazen usurpation of authority, its flagrant disregard of constitutional limitations, its willful flaunting of judicial precedents, its wanton contempt for the doctrine of states rights and recognized principles of established law, we must resort to drastic measures if we are to preserve the structure of our republic."

Williams criticized President Eisenhower for what Williams described as taking official actions not in harmony with previous statements on states rights.

Williams said "I think it can be said with reasonable accuracy that no president in the history of our great nation, in the discharge of his official duties, has more flagrantly violated his campaign promises or flaunted his publicly pronounced beliefs more than the present occupant of the house at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave."

"Where advocates of states rights and constitutional government thought they had a champion," Williams added, "they soon found a quisling to their cause."

Delegates from some 60 chapters of the defenders were present to map out more vigorous opposition on the local level to school integration in Virginia.

The two-day session is the first statewide convention of the organization, which was founded in Blackstone in 1954 and now claims a membership of 15,000.

Doctors Report Dallas Child Has Incurable Brain Disease

NEW YORK, March 23 (UP)—Medical specialists said Friday that a blind and paralyzed 4-year-old Dallas, Tex., girl, is suffering from an incurable brain disease.

The girl, Dixie Lee Lahood, was brought here by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lahood, in a "last hope" effort to save her life. The child was stricken two years ago and her condition has steadily worsened.

The diagnosis was made after completion of a series of examinations and tests at the Babies Hospital in the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center. The girl was admitted on March 13.

The specialists said that Dixie Lee has a "progressive generalized cerebral degernation." They said there was no known cause for the condition "nor any specific treatment for this illness known to modern medical science."

A spokesman for the hospital said the child will be discharged from the hospital on Sunday and returned to Dallas by her parents for "continued care."

The Lahoods went into seclusion after results of the examination were made known.

Mrs. Lahood had said earlier that she had been informed her daughter was "doing nicely" after an exploratory operation was performed Thursday. The parents have spent thousands of dollars trying to save the child's life.

New Star Rises In Mississippi's Political Arena

NATCHEZ, Miss., March 23 (AP)—A new star on the state's political horizon may be rising in the person of a north Mississippi district attorney already known for his "racket busting."

Ariris E. Hawkins of Houston, who helped send a former Benton County Superintendent of Education to prison on embezzlement charges, had a chance to test public reaction to his political wares this week.

Hawkins is one of those broad-shouldered, well-proportioned men whose height—well over six feet—somehow appears a natural accompaniment of authority.

Hawkins, 37, is District Attorney for the third district, comprising Chickasaw, Calhoun, Lafayette, Union, Tippah, Benton and Marshall counties. He's had the job since 1951.

If he seeks higher office—and he has not announced his plans for the future—odds are high he will campaign on a "clean government" platform.

Hawkins handled prosecution of Douglas Autry, the former Benton County Superintendent of Education who recently entered the state penitentiary at Parchman to begin serving a seven-year embezzlement term.

Several other men in Benton County were indicted, and some have been sentenced, on charges of working with Autry in mis-use of county school funds.

"The surest way for a nation to go to the evils is for the good people to sit back and do nothing."

Nations attacked from without may suffer defeat and return to glory, he said, but "there's no instance in history of a nation which rotted from within coming back to glory."

Corruption in high places, he said, is like a cancer which leaves the body politic with only two choices: "remove the cancer or be destroyed."

But that was only the dressing for the interest-getting details which followed . . . stories of county warrants issued for road materials never received, of "little ol' filling stations" being paid for thousands of gallons of gasoline never furnished the county, of a warrant for a truck which turned out to be a private car for a public employe.

Hawkins made clear he was talking about instances in his own part of Mississippi—but he was applying the lesson wherever it fits.

"If your lovely city becomes corrupted, if this grand old county sinks into a mire of lawlessness, it will be because the good people sit back and do nothing," he told his Natchez audience. "It is your solemn duty as citizens to take a responsible attitude toward our government.

"Your road won't be easy. You'll be harped at and criticized. But I'm proud to stand up beside those who believe in honest, clean government."

BARTER WITH REDS

Ellender Expects Senate Approval Of Trade Measure

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP)—Sen. Ellender (D-La) said today he expects the Senate to approve next week a bill that would permit barter and trade with Poland, Czechoslovakia and other Iron countries.

"There may be some opposition even though our committee approved it unanimously," said Ellender, chairman of the Senate Agriculture committee.

"I think it's a wise thing to encourage more trade and interchange between our country and these people," he said "I believe that will do more good for improving relations and preventing a hot war than any of the multi-billion dollar foreign aid programs."

The new authority, requested by President Eisenhower, is included in a bill that would raise from three to four billion dollars the authority for sales or barter of farm surpluses for foreign currencies.

Previously these deals, which have been expanding rapidly in recent years, have been limited to "friendly nations" in an effort to free them from dependence upon Soviet Russia and her satellites.

Ellender said this restriction would be eliminated under the new legislation and deals would be permitted with any of the European satellites.

"The president could authorize trade with any of these satellites if he found it in our national interest," Ellender said.

A Polish delegation has been in this country four weeks trying to negotiate for a program of loans and grants covering farm products, machinery and services. Estimates of the requests run from 300 to 500 million dollars.

Ellender said the Senate bill should help out on these negotiations and similar transactions.

"Soviet Russia now must depend upon military help from Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and other satellites," he said. "I know that many people in these nations despise the Soviet Kremlin leaders.

"One of the best ways to chip away dependence on the Soviet is to encourage trade with these peoples."

During recent years, Ellender has spent most of the congressional recess time visiting overseas nations, including two lengthy trips through Russia and the satellites.

Chief Reports No Fires From Earth Tremors

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23 (UP)—Chief William Murray of the San Francisco Fire Department said Saturday he knew of no fire, with one possible exception, that occurred Friday where the cause could be blamed directly on the earthquake or aftershocks.

The exception, he said, occurred at the Lowell high school where the temblor shook chemicals from laboratory shelves and caused a small blaze.

"The report that the major earthquake shortly before noon yesterday caused 50 small fires was erroneous," Murray said. "It is true we had many calls, but the calls had nothing to do with fires.

"Most of the calls," he said, "occurred when people became slightly hysterical and called upon our aid to look at chimneys, cracked cornices of buildings, or even wall cracks. The fires that occurred during the day were the usual average in a city of this size on a normal day."

BY SENATOR ELLENDER

Grave Danger To South In Rights Bills Cited

WASHINGTON, March 23 (Special)—Pending civil rights bills would "relegate the southern people to the status of "domestic Hungarians," Sen. Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana warned today.

The senator declared, "If enacted into law this legislation would relegate the southern people to the status of "domestic Hungarians," under the iron heel of a horde of Washington lawyers instead of Russian Commissars, subject to the whim and caprice of an appointed politician, instead of kremlin bosses, but captives of oppression, nevertheless."

Terming the bills a "gigantic fraud which power-hungry minority elements are attempting to perpetrate upon us," Ellender said the proposed legislation would strip citizens of trial by jury.

Proponents of the measures, according to the senator, "have no compunctions about declaring that they oppose provisions requiring a jury trial as a matter of right because they do not trust southern juries."

The senator called this attitude "not only unrealistic," but said "it documents the fact that this so-called civil rights legislation has as its sole purpose the reduction of our southern states to the status of satellites of an over-powering central government located many miles away in Washington."

Ellender asserted that no doubt King George III of England distrusted American juries during colonial rule of America and he pointed out that depriving citizens of trial by jury was one of the specific royal abuses cited in the Declaration of Independence.

Paying tribute to the Rep. Edwin Willis of St. Martinville, member of the house judiciary committee, the senior senator said Louisianans owe the third district congressman, "a debt of gratitude."

"Ed Willis is the only member of the Louisiana delegation serving on the house judiciary committee. He led the fight in committee to prevent approval of legislation which not only discriminates against southern states, but which also destroys such precious constitutional safeguards as trial by jury. Unfortunately, sheer weight of numbers prevailed over law, logic, and legal reasoning and I fear the legislation is enroute to a house vote this year."

Ellender said it is unfortunate the bill approved by the senate subcommittee on constitutional rights is so highly technical.

"The press and radio reports on the bill would lead one to believe that it deals solely and exclusively with protecting the right to vote. Unfortunately, it does not, but, rather, would permit a band of bureaucratic federal lawyers to go into federal courts in the name of the United States and prosecute a civil action against individual citizens for violations of an undefined class of so-called civil rights at the whim of whoever may occupy the position of attorney general of the United States."

Ellender said he hopes and prays," that the congress will awake to the dangers which these bills carry, and that they are never brought to the floor of either house for debate."

If they should, he vowed to "talk against them as long as I have breath in my body," thus using the "only weapon we have at this time — the filibuster."

Old World Game Bird Much Like Quail In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss., March 23 (AP)—An Old World game bird known to writers of the Bible has settled in Mississippi.

The Mississippi Game and Fish Commission said in the March issue of its magazine that the bird—known as Coturnix or Asiatic quail—has been found in the state.

Resembling small bobwhite, coturnix afford fine shooting, the commission said, adding, "it will hold well for a dog and hunting is much like shooting singles of Bobwhite."

The bird came to Mississippi from neighboring states where it has been released to determine whether the specie will stay. Releases have been made in Missouri, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama. Releases are planned for Arkansas, Nebraska and the Carolinas.

The bird, which was part of the diet for Genghis Kahn in 1275, is mentioned in the Bible in Exodus 16:13 and Numbers 11:31-32.

Weighing four ounces full grown, coturnix resemble the meadowlark in coloring but without the yellow throat patch and white outer tail feathers. Their eggs, eight to 15 in a nest, are speckled and mottled brown on a light olive background. Some eggs have a blue haze color.

The Mississippi commission said released birds have been banded and urged hunters to return the leg bands when found together withwhatever information hunters may have on the bird's habits.

Bossier City School Bond Election Set

BOSSIER CITY, La., March 23—(UP)—A $1,500,000 school bond election will be held here April 30 under a call of the Bossier parish school board.

Another $225,000 bond issue election will be held the same date on improvements of schools in district three, construction of two buildings at Haughton high school and changes at the Princeton consolidated Negro school.

The Bossier City bond issue, if approved, would provide for a new 24-room elementary school and a 28-room junior high school, as well as purchase of two additional school sites and additions to four other schools.

LSU Publishes History Book On M'Clellan

BATON ROUGE, March 23 (AP)—The Louisiana State University Press today announced publication of "Gen. George B. McClellan, Shield of the Union."

The biography by Warren W. Hassler Jr. of the history department of Pennsylvania State University, is scheduled for release Monday.

Negro Charged In Murder Try At Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE, March 23 — (UP) — The East Baton Rouge parish sheriff's office was holding a 19-year-old Negro today on a charge of attempted murder.

They didn't have to hunt for him. City police said Alvin Vernon Simms walked into the station yesterday and said he shot a man in an argument in Scotlandville, La.

He was turned over to the sheriff's office because the offense was outside the city limits.

Sheriff's deputies said the wounded man, Wilbert Besion, Scotlandville, was hit in the right shoulder, but was not seriously hurt.

John Adams lived longest of Presidents of the United States. He lived to the age of 90.

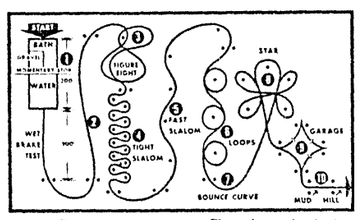
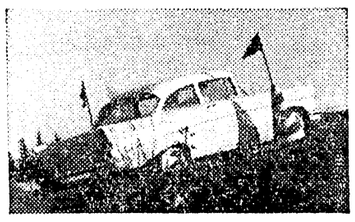
Chevy proved it's the champ in the world's first Auto Decathlon, certified by the NATA.* It showed how beautifully it handles, how quickly it recovers from emergency situations—like quick turns and stops—which can cause a car to lose its even-keel stance on the road.



Auto Decathlon course. Ten brutal challenges to driving qualities. Chevrolet has a field day!



Chevy shows its sure-footed way of going even on steep grades and bad roads.

Chevy waltzed through some of the roughest challenges ever laid down to measure how a car behaves when the going is tough. Everything else in the low-price field was left in the lurch as Chevrolet finished first! Chevy even beat the higher priced cars that were tested, too!

That's Chevrolet's sure and solid going for you. And it's combined with V8 engines that deliver championship performance. Chevy recently proved that at Daytona Beach by taking the top performance award. Come in and drive the winner.

KNOWLAND PREDICTS PASSAGE

Ervin Says South Making Progress In Fight Against Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP) — Sen. Ervin (D-NC) said today he feels opponents of the administration's civil rights bill have made "some headway." But Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) predicted passage of the legislation at the present session.

The measure is up for consideration at a closed meeting of the Senate Judiciary Committee called for Monday morning. A judiciary subcommittee approved it last Tuesday by a 4-2 vote.

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, told newsmen he hoped that the full committee would act on the bill in the coming week and that the legislation might be brought up for debate in the Senate before an Easter recess late next month.

However, judiciary committee members on the both sides of the civil rights fight said they saw no prospect of any final action at the group's meeting on Monday.

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), one of the chief sponsors of the administration bill, said he hoped the committee might at least begin consideration of some of the amendments proposed by Ervin and others.

At the judiciary subcommittee meeting last Tuesday, Ervin offered half a dozen amendments. All of them failed of adoption, including one to provide for jury trials in contempt cases growing out of civil rights enforcement.

Ervin, a leader of the Southern opposition, has been hammering away at a contention that the administration legislation provides for what he called "government by injunction." He also says it would deprive citizens of their constitutional right to trial by jury.

While Ervin said he thinks opponents have made headway with this argument, Knowland said he didn't believe administration forces would have to accept a jury trial amendment to get the bill through Congress.

Sen. Ellender (D-La) said tonight the bill would "make a shambles of the constitution and place basic individual rights at the whim of whoever may occupy the position of Attorney General of the United States."

In a speech prepared for broadcast over a New Orleans radio station, Ellender said, like other opponents, that the yegislation would destroy "such precious constitutional safeguards as trial by jury."

Under present law, the government can enforce civil rights only through criminal prosecutions. The administration bill would empower the government to sue for injunctions or to seek other civil remedies.

Other parts of the administration bill call for the creation of a presidential commission to investigate complaints of civil rights violations and for establishment of a civil rights division in the justice department.

Knowland predicted the measure would pass "eventually" at this session. But he said that if its consideration by the Senate is delayed until early June, when money bills and other legislation begin to pile up, it will be "highly vulnerable" to a possible Southern filibuster.

The House Judiciary Committee has approved a civil rights bill substantially in line with the administration's recommendations, but indications are that it won't be acted on in the House until after the Easter recess.

WITHIN NEXT 10 DAYS, EXPERTS CANTELL

Clouded Auto Picture Expected To Clear

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT, March 23 (AP)—The men who provide the nation's automotive transportation should know within the next week or 10 days whether 1957 can become another outstanding retail sales year.

All indications are total retail deliveries for this year's January-March quarter will come to 1½ million units. That is a good showing for the first three months, but second quarter volume must run higher if the frequently predicted 6½ million sales volume for 1957 is to be realized.

Traditionally a big upsurge in new car demand comes during the April-June quarter. The upsurge did not materialize last year, probably because of the almost fantastic total achieved in 1955. Retail deliveries that year came to approximately 7¼ million new cars.

The higher prices posted by virtually all the car makers with the introduction of their 1957 models do not seem to have greatly curtailed over-all retail volume. They may have caused some shifting from one price field to another. This is indicated in the higher unit volume being registered in the lower price field.

All of the factory-announced price advance is not being passed along to the new car buyer. Retailers appear to be competing in prices as keenly as they did at this time last year. The car retailers find the customer has become accustomed to bargaining for discounts.

They find also, in many instances, that after the buyer has obtained price concessions he goes in for more of the extra-cost optional items than he planned to buy.

Despite the enthusiasm of the car makers' sales executives, the piling up of sales volume at the retail level is far from easy. Certainly it involves more than the mere order-taking that marked the immediate postwar years. That was when there was a huge backlog of unfilled demand, piled up from February, 1942, through mid-1945, when no civilian passenger cars were built.

On top of the 6½ million unit prediction for this year, many of the industry's leading sales authorities are saying annual demand will mount steadily during the years ahead. Some say annual demand will require production of around eight million units a year by 1965.

Usually the experts cite normal population growth, normal obsolescence and junking of older cars and the steady growth of multiple car owning families to support predictions of steady annual increases in new car demand.

Over the years of mass production of automobiles the car industry has been plagued by peaks and valleys in output and retail demand. A year of record volume often has been followed by sharp declines for a couple of years.

The industry's record books show some interesting facts in this connection. In 1929 the factories turned out the then fabulous total of 4,455,000 passenger cars. That total was not exceeded for another 20 years. In 1950 came a total of approximately 6,666,000 cars.

In 1955 output built up to 7,920,186 cars. Last year 5,301,315 cars were assembled.

It probably is true that output and retail deliveries of the auto industry are on much higher plateaus now than they were in the immediate pre-war days. But the figures for recent years suggest the industry has not yet been able to completely level off the peaks and valleys of production and retail deliveries.

One-Year-Old Tot Is Injured

One-year-old Rickie Higdon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Higdon of 114 Pecan Dr., suffered abrasions of the right cheek and right side of his head Saturday afternoon, when the car which his mother was driving collided with an auto driven by Floyd Jones, Negro, 22 of 4303 Pippin street.

Rickie was riding in the Higdon car, when the crash occurred at the intersection of Barlow and Magee streets.

The youngster was taken to St. Francis Hospital by Mulhearn ambulance, where x-rays were taken, and he was given an anti-tetanus innoculation. He was not seriously injured, and was taken home. No charges were filed.

Lewis Carroll, author of "Alice In Wonderland," was really Charles L. Dodgson. He also was a mathematician and wrote several books on geometry and trigonometry.

Lincoln Woman Wins Honors At Baking Contest

A member of the Choudrant Home Demonstration club is second place winner in the bakorama baking contest in Lincoln parish. Mrs. Simmie Whitman was selected second in the contest Friday in Ruston.

As a prize Mrs. Whitman received a set of cooking ware. She submitted a lemon chiffon cake.

After the contest all cakes were sold and the proceeds went to the home demonstration clubs. The contest was sponsored by the Lincoln parish Home Demonstration Club Council.

Dear Mr. Hudson:

We were requested by Mrs. Alan Sugar to examine the building at 200 De Siard St. now occupied by Peacock's Jewelers.

We examined the building yesterday and again today. Mr. Emery of our office examined it with Mr. Sam Awl, City Building Inspector.

The walls have numerous cracks which are visible on the outside, and the walls are out of line vertically and horizontally as viewed from outside the building.

This building is undergoing failure, and while this can be a slow developement, we do not consider this to be a safe structure at the present time.

Very truly yours,

Personal Income In Louisiana Rises Fast

Louisiana residents have enjoyed a greater-than-average gain in personal income in the last quarter of a century. Other states in the southeast have shared in this jump in personal and per capita income, which is far greater than the national average in dollar volume.

By regions, the proportions of total income received in New England and the mid-east showed sizeable declines, whereas large increases accrued in the southeast and some other areas. As compared with the nation-wide increase of 254 per cent in the dollar volume of personal income from 1929 to 1955, the southeast showed an expansion of 364 per cent.

These figures are shown in a new report on "Personal Income by States Since 1929" released by the office of business economics,, U. S. Department of Commerce.

The real meaning of these figures is that the industrialized areas in New England and the mid-east are losing some of their industries to a rapidly-expanding southeast. Louisiana and the other southeastern states are developing industrially at a rate well above the average for the nation.

Louisiana ranks among the upper-half states in the southeast, placing sixth among the 12 states, with a percentage expansion in personal income of 352 per cent. Florida, still the boom state, ranked first with almost 700 per cent increase in personal income.

Figures by cities were not given in the release, but Monroe has ranked high in retail trade in Louisiana for a large part of those 25 years and this increase in retail trade is a reflection of the extraordinary boost in personal incomes.

In 1929 Louisiana's per capital personal income amounted to $415. In 1955 it had risen to $1,333 per capita, which means for each man, woman and child in the state. This is well above the total family income for many persons in 1929, which was before the big depression of the 1930s really got under way.

Anticipated further industrial expansion is looked upon as certain to push Louisiana's volume income increase to still higher proportions within the next few years.

Action Is Taken To Publicize Juveniles

A step toward turning "the bright light of newspaper publicity" on juvenile offenders, as advocated recently by J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has been taken in Arizona.

The state legislature of Arizona has enacted anew law opening all records of all juvenile courts to newspapers.

The purpose is to settle or prevent any disputes between juvenile courts and the press concerning publication of activities of juveniles by specifically making such publication legal. There had been some question as to whether state law legalized or banned publication of the names of juveniles involved in crime.

Two proposed amendments were defeated. One would have limited publication of news of juveniles in court to felony cases and other would have repealed an already existing law under which the records of juveniles sent to a reform school are destroyed two years after the juvenile is released from the school.

Hoover's proposal of publicity for juvenile delinquents as a necessary step in crime prevention made a tremendous impact on the nation, as all statements bearing on law enforcement by this veteran and able officer are given serious consideration. It will be of interest to see how many other states follow the example of Arizona in making legal the publication of names of juvenile offenders.

Louisiana laws have the effect of banning such publication, although no prohibition is imposed upon the newspapers. The law simply states that hearings for juveniles must be held behind closed doors in the chambers of the judges. Judges have taken this to mean that no information on juvenile offenders shall be given out, and other enforcement officers generally have followed the same practice. Opening of the juvenile courts and juvenile court records to newspapers, by legislative act, would put newspapers in a position to expose any gang type of offender, which is the objective sought by Hoover.

Such legislation could be proposed at the next session of the Louisiana legislature. In view of Hoover's support of such action, chances of enactment at the next session might be good.

Whole Nation Eyes Character Of Man Who Runs U.S.'s Biggest Labor Union

Through the McClellan investigating committee, the whole country today is getting a look at the character of men who run its biggest labor union. Big unions through their officials, have more power to enforce their will, than any other non - governmental group.

The International Teamsters' Union, headed by Dave Beck, could do to the nation's entire transportation system what the International Longshoremen's Union is now attempting through strikes to do to east coast shipping—and what Harry Bridges West Coast longshoreman have done in Pacific ports and Hawaii. That is to tie up completely the movement of cargoes, or in the Teamsters' case to stop all vehicle transportation of goods.

The fact that rank and file union members follow their leaders without question when strikes are called, even in times of national emergency, is disquieting, for a considerable number of the most powerful union leaders have shown a quality of ruthlessness which places their own interests above the national welfare.

Before the passage in 1935 of the Wagner Act, which President Franklin D. Roosevelt called labor's "magna Carta," all of the union leaders now under scrutiny were in sorry straits — their union membership at rock bottom, their funds low and their collective bargaining with management difficult. Since that act made collective bargaining mandatory, dozens of union leaders have become important national figures, deferred to by both management and government. Furthermore their union treasuries have become rich, and the unions themselves wield a power which has a marked influence on the country's whole economic structure.

As in the case of business and industry, this power in the hands of conscientious men would not be dangerous to the country. Proper government regulation would prevent abuses, and the welfare and rights of the union rank and file membership would be protected at all times.

The attitude of government toward organized industry and organized labor, however, offers numerous contrasts, in favor of labor. For example, the Teamsters union has organized labor groups engaged in occupations having only remote connection with transportation, but because their products must be carried on four wheels at some stage, the union has extended its jurisdiction to embrace them.

The result is that the Teamsters as well as many other unions are rolling in wealth, which their officials, as recent testimony has demonstrated, seem to make use of about as they please. If corporation officials were guilty of the same loose practices they would either be fired or go to jail.

Again, the anti-trust laws are administered by the Department of Justice to prevent large agglomerations of capital, though mergers are approved where they are not in restraint of capital or competition. But there is no law to prevent the officials of the Teamsters or any other union from recruiting or even forcing into membership the employes of any corporation, whether they be engaged in distilling mail order business, or egg candling. Nor is there any prohibition against unions buying enough stock of corporations to influence their management control.

For such unions, the McClellan investigation has come at a most disadvantageous stage. They have been trying since its enactment ten years ago to have the Taft-Hartley act repealed, to relieve them of the few restraints now placed on union organization. They are fighting in courts to invalidate limits placed on use of their funds, received from members as dues, in political campaigns.

Members of Congress learned from the last campaign that union supports or opposition is declining in effectiveness. The result is that members of both Houses who have resented union pressures are ready and eager to see the records of the men who exerted that pressure exposed to public view. Their fervent hope is that the union members themselves will move speedily to correct the abuses of which they are indirectly the victims. That would bring about a cleaner, more ethical and a more effective labor organization.

Older Working Women In United States In Minority

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Folklore: Although it's obvious that millions of women are working in our land today, the older working woman — in the 45 and 50-year age bracket — is naturally in the minority. Women in their middle and later years either don't have to or don't want to work . . .

Fact: Today, "The chances are about as good that a woman of 50 will be working as one of 20. In 1940, more than half of all employed women were under 25 and one fifth were over 45. Now, one fifth are under 25 and almost two fifths are over 45."

Folklore: Everyone knows that lots of married women are working but, of course, the single woman dominates the female labor force. The rarity still is the mother of children of school age who works . . .

Fact: About six out of every ten women now working are married, and five out of ten are over 40 years of age. Even more striking is the fact that nearly two out of every five mothers whose children are of school age are in the work force.

Folklore: The so - called career woman is a special sort of person whose ambition for work overwhelms her desire for marriage and children . . .

Fact: Most girls who do not marry grow up in the belief that they will; most who do not have children anticipate that they will; most who lose their husbands do not expect to. And so it is with the career woman. "Only a small proportion of the women who have neither husband nor children and spend all their adult years in paid employment were motivated from early childhood to realize their dreams and ambitions in work."

This week, I've had a wonderful time reading a fascinating 371 page report on "Womanpower," just presented to President Eisenhower by the National Manpower Council. The council — established at Columbia University in 1951 under a Ford Foundation grant — has spent the past two years studying the "distinctive nature of the country's resources of womanpower."

Now it has come up with its statistics, observations and conclusions — which will form the basis for a national conference this fall.

Perhaps the most stimulating aspect of the report to me is the seriousness with which it considers us as an "essential" as well as "distinctive" part of our manpower resources. This is no tract to spur political action. This is no tome pontificating on the social and psychological problems of the working woman.

This is one of the most authoritative, objective studies of women in the work force ever made. The few teasers with which I started this report just suggest its depth. To give you a few others:

Today, at least nine out of every ten women are likely to hold paid jobs during their lives and million of us — two fifths of all women over 14 — will be working.

The girl in school today may spend 25 years or more in work outside the home.

The huge economic impact of our earnings may be just suggested by the fact that in 1955 we received $42 billion in wages and salaries and the total of our pay is way above that now.

We dominate such fields as secretarial and nursing, but there's hardly an occupation you can think of — from atomic physicists to automobile mechanics — in which we're not represented.

Since 1950, we've come into the work force in numbers dwarfing the men. In the past six years, the female labor force has risen 3.1 million or 17 per cent while the male labor force has increased 1.2 million or 3 per cent.

I could go on and on, for every page of the report is loaded with information of importance to every woman and to every employer (male.)

Long ago, when I was beginning this column, I wrote rather wistfully that I'd believe we women had arrived when a story about a successful, happy working woman no longer came under the heading of "news." Today, after having read "Womanpower," it is with deep delight that I finally dare say it: We are not news. We have arrived.

Insurance Against Floods To Be Made Available Soon

WASHINGTON, March 23 (CQ) —Homeowners and businessmen fearful of floods will be able to buy insurance against them for the first time in history in a few months.

Up to now flood insurance has been unavailable at reasonable rates because private companies could not afford the heavy risk, so Congress last year, following disastrous floods in many areas, passed legislation setting up a cooperative Government - private company insurance plan.

The first of this insurance to be available will be sold this Spring or early Summer, reports Frank J. Meistrell, head of the Federal Flood Indemnity Administration, the agency set up to handle the insurance plan.

But in order for communities to remain eligible for the insurance after July 1, 1958, they must enact and enforce special zoning laws, and states must prepare to take over much of the Government's role by July 1, 1959.

Rates

Meistrell estimates a property owner would pay from $1 to $12 for each $100 worth of coverage, depending on the risk involved. In addition to this rate, the Government will contribute up to 40 per cent of the premium on each policy to increase the amount of the premium, while keeping the cost of an individual policy low.

Private casualty and fire insurance companies will sell the Federal flood insurance. Contracts with the Federal Flood and Indemnity Administration will set forth the company's commission and allowable expenses. Meistrell estimates about 5,000 companies could participate in the program.

Private companies have a big stake in the flood insurance program. The Act states that the Federal insurance agency must make a continuing study "of the feasibility of having private insurance companies take over, with or without some form of Federal financial support, the insurance programs authorized."

The most insurance available for one home will be $10,000 worth. If the home is wiped out by flood the owner could collect up to $10,000 minus $100 and 5 per cent of the remainder, or $9,405. The individual insurance limit for a person or government will be $250,000 worth. But each governmental unit within a state qualifies as a separate person, so it could buy the full $250,000 worth.

The agency can write $3 million worth of flood insurance, but the law gives the President permission to raise that ceiling to $5 billion.

Most of the wrinkles preparatory to starting the program have been ironed out. But setting the rates continues to be a problem. The 1956 Federal Flood Insurance Act only said that the premiums should "be adequate to produce sufficient proceeds to pay all claims for probable losses over a reasonable period of years."

New Concept

As Meistrell puts it, "We were asked to create a completely new concept. There is almost no credible experience on record for damage by flood. No one knows what the risks are. Our first task was to create a measuring rod that we could put alongside a piece of property and say: 'This is the risk we are undertaking'."

Besides setting premium rates, agency officials are worried over how states will react to the flood insurance program. Floods that killed 302 people and caused $99 million worth of property damage in 1955 convinced most state officials that some kind of flood insurance was necessary. But will they fulfill their legal and financial responsibilities under the Act?

The Act directs the flood agency to refuse to sell insurance in areas where the necessary zoning laws have not been passed. This provision was designed to encourage states to prohibit further settling of areas likely to be struck by floods. The flood zoning laws must be in effect, where necessary, by June 30, 1958, in order for the area to qualify for flood insurance.

States also must help pay the subsidies on policies held by its residents. Starting July 1, 1958, states will pay half the premium subsidies and the Federal Government the other half.

Meistrell says that "we thought that in view of the very real interest that various states have in the success of this program they certainly they should be willing to bear their proportionate share."

Some recent weather in Texas was embarrassing to Texans. Hailstones fell that were no larger than golf balls.

With few exceptions, when somebody gets something for nothing, somebody else gets nothing for something.

It is wished that Atlas, instead of Uncle Sam, were supporting the world, as Atlas did so long standing on the back of a turtle whereas Uncle Sam does so long standing on the back of the American taxpayer.

The thief who stole the entrance door to the Steubenville, Ohio, police headquarters must have been in dire need of a door.

The British have a keen sense of humor; otherwise they could not detect the small amount of humor in the typical British joke.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Husbands Do Not Accompany Women At Fantastic Winter, Summer Resorts

At a winter resort, what is most visible, apart from the ocean and fantastic hotels, are women, of all ages, sizes and profiles, sufficiently undressed so that all defects and imperfections are obvious to the naked eye. These women are of one color, brown. It takes real effort and considerable suffering to be burned by the sun's rays to an even brown. No blotches of Nordic white are permitted.

Where are the husbands? That same question might also be asked at a summer resort. The wives are on pension. They are amply provided with room rent so that they can stay at the zaniest hotels: they are given sufficient clothes allowance to be able to compete with any degree of nakedness current at the moment; they have enough pocket money to play gin rummy or canasta or whatever is the rage. But the husbands are not on hand. They are busy doing great deeds.

The puzzling question is when does the wife see the husband and for what reason. If the winter is spent at Miami Beach or wherever and the summer is spent in the Catskills or White Mountains, when do the wife and husband join forces to run a family?

Perhaps such questions should not be asked lest they disturb the hotel business. If women covered themselves like an Arab who would look at them? Under such circumstances a wife and a model might be equally unattractive. But who wants to dress like an Arab with a bed sheet covering the entire person?

Another thing that is queer about the Zoroastrians who inhabit the cabanas is that they insist that the browner one is the healthier one is. "Take the sun!" they say. So I see one of them baking in the sun until the back is red like a lobster. I am told that the red will turn to brown when it matures, like an apple is brown when it rots. It is all done for health.

It is like gals who fix their hair so it looks blonde, but the rest of them is olive-complexioned, now mixed with brown. Black hair would go well with such a complexion, but it is not this year's fashion. Altogether the lady looks like somebody you ought to know but cannot remember because she never looks the same twice. Even her grandchildren cannot recognize her on the rare occasions that she comes from the cabanas.

Of course, there must be plenty of money in all these resorts but how anyone can save any money in these days of high taxes and brutal enforcement is beyond the wisdom even of a Univac. However, it must be available in one manner or another or it would not be spent so freely. Maybe there are savings because so many hereabouts are on diets. A diet is a device invented by beauticians supported by the medical profession and the vitamin industry to take the zest out of man's oldest occupation which has been to eat.

I witnessed a man make a meal of sauerkraut and coffee. Sauerkraut and beer are related racially and linguistically, but sauerkraut and coffee is something else again. However, the gentleman in question was such an advocate of his aberration that he held a long discussion on its virtues with the counterman at the coffee shop which was the only comfortable room in this particular architectural monstrosity because it looked like a coffee shop anywhere else in the United States. There was nothing exotic about it, like, for instance, a palm tree growing inside a building or a wall made of spun glass or a swimming pool so constructed that the feet but not the faces of the swimmers may be gazed upon through the clear water. The coffee shop is a coffee shop where they sell lox on beigels as well as ham sandwiches to establish complete impartiality, toleration and love of mankind.

One thing is avoided and that is arguments. Who cares? So the world is going to hell. Did I make the world? It is the sun that makes everybody salubrious. If one is tempted to get interested in something, there is always gin rummy. Do you have to be an adviser to Eisenhower if Eisenhower positively don't want no advice from nobody at all?

PAUL HARVEY

Easter Is Cruel Time For Small Pets Of Children

In Los Angeles, Miss Claudia died last month, but in her will the spinster piano teacher had provided for her four pet hens.

She's set up a trust fund to save them from the stew pan. Enough to buy food for them because she didn't want her pets to be eaten.

Claudia DuVall, bless her heart, was 79.

I'll tell you something about that.

I have been convinced of the necessity for using laboratory animals for medical experiment but I have opposed, vigorously, the idea of taking animals from the streets or from the pound for the purpose. More because of what it does to us — than because of what it does to them.

I may not say this very well . . . but when man has domesticated a pet, taught the animal to trust him, then to betray that trust puts callouses on our individual — and ultimately on our collective — conscience.

Let the labs breed laboratory animals for controlled experiments.

And please spare me further protests from either extreme. Over the years I've heard all the arguments both ways.

I still say we can't teach an animal to love and trust us and then turn around and cut that animal up in little pieces without diluting our own human dignity.

After that it becomes easier and easier to be cruel until we, utterly desensitized, revert to the law of the jungle and, ourselves become animals.

I'm neither ahamed nor embarrassed to admit that any surviving pet in the Harvey family is, and always will be, provided for to the ultimate extent of our resources.

And another thing—

I notice that the City Council in Des Moines has voted, 4-1, against allowing the Easter sale of baby chicks, ducks, rabbits, etc., as toys for children. Good for them.

Of all the times of year when man should be cognizant of the terrifying potential of his own inhumanity, this season he has the crown of thorns to remind him. Yet each year I see mercilessly hot display windows filled with tiny live birds and animals subsequently sold into the hands of callous adults or careless children.

If your community has no law against the sale of such "novelties," I recommend agitation for one.

In your issue of March 17th Mr. H. K. Thatcher, in his article on the colorful past of the Ouachita river, says the price paid for the Louisiana territory was $15,000,000.

According to authorities the final payment amounted to $27,267,622. France's actual "take home pay" was $11,250,000. In addition to that sum the U. S. assumed the debt of spoliation of the French cruisers inflicted on American merchantmen in a little unpleasantness before the purchase.

At the time of the purchase, it is thought, there were a possible 80,000 residents in the entire territory.

In as much as the Negro question, especially here in the south, is about to "come to boil", this writer believes it would be a good idea to go back to the days when the Constitution was written and get a clear and correct look at the social and economic conditions of that time. In doing so we should disregard the "political" aspects of that time and the present time.

If my knowledge of the conditions following the Revolution are correct, slavery of the Negro was universal in the thirteen original states of the United States.

Of course there were quite a number of people known as "abolitionists" who objected to slavery, but the large majority was in favor of slavery.

Remember — that was the sentiment and ideas at the time the Constitution was written and adopted.

Why then do we so sanctimoniously claim "all men are born free and equal" when as a matter of history the Negro was not freed until 1863 during the Civil War.

If, as the constitution says, "all men are born free and equal," why was it that the Negro was not free at the time the Constitution was adopted rather than wait nearly a hundred years to do so.

However, when the Negro was freed in 1863 it was from a military necessity, not from a humanitarian motive. It is very plain, in this writer's opinion, that the Negro slave at the time the Constitution was written was not taken into consideration at all when the famous clause "all men are born free and equal" was written.

The Negro slaves at that time were not "men" but only a chattel, the same as horses, cows and other possessions of the individual, bought and sold on the open market, and therefore did not have a social standing as so many of our political "wiseacres" now claim.

We should look the facts in the face and not consider how many Negro votes may be obtained.

Attorney Gen. Brownell is driving nails in the Republican party's coffin. The colossal gains of the Republican party are now being torn down by this one man who is calling on Congress for powers to establish himself a dictatorship over our Democratic form of government. If Congress makes this mistake, then, sure as the sun rises tomorrow, it will be the forerunner of a Communistic form of government. Give those Liberals an inch and they will take a mile and hold it.

This is the way Hitler seized his power. He then forced the German people to follow him and he ultimately wound up in hell with his belly full of cianide poison, a blazing pistol in his mouth and his people in captivity. Brownell's dictatorship would be a national injustice which is certain to lead to internecine warfare and ultimately our downfall. It would give the Communist - dominated NAACP the green light to send in rabblerousers and thousands of fictitious informers would keep this nation in a fit of anger. Our friendship with our colored people would be completely wiped out.

Mr. Brownell's motto seems to be "blacker the berry, sweeter the juice." He seems to prefer the spurious bloc votes of the minority groups rather than the conscientious votes of the Eurafrican race. He reminds me of the farmer who was trying to hold three chickens. One of the chickens (a black rooster) got loose, then he threw down the other two chickens and took after the black rooster.

Goodbye Mr. Republican. We gave you our support all over the nation and you promise to give us vinegar. If this dictatorship is forced upon us it would give all states, North and South, a legal right to declare their independence.

STUDIED CRIMINOLOGY

MAN ADMITS 400 BURGLARIES

AMARILLO, Tex., March 23 (UP)—James Leslie Hurd, 22, a former airman from Ravenna, Ohio, told police Saturday that he was able to commit 400 burglaries in the eastern half of the United States during the last six months by making himself a student of criminology.

He was arrested Thursday in Tucumcari, N. M., and returned to Amarillo, where he was charged with 14 burglaries. Hurd said he picked only small businesses to break into and that his usual loot was $200 to $300.

He tripped himself up by buying a top for his 1948 convertible at an Amarillo seat cover shop. He paid $48.50 for the top but returned at night, broke into the place and left with $100 he found in the cash box.

Passing through Tucumcari, he stopped at another seat cover shop to find out whether he could get seat covers to match the top. The Tucumcari shop called the Amarillo shop to find out whether it har any more of the material.

The call made the owners of the shop suspicious and they brought in police. Hurd said he had started committing little burglaries to see whether he could. He has an intelligence quotient of 138, which puts him into the brilliant class.

He read police books and any book he could about police methods, so he would not leave any trial behind. Hurd said he used three different pairs of shoes. On one burglary he would take long steps. On the next, he would take medium steps and on the third short steps.

He always used gloves and his tools were a marking awl, a dentist's pick and a screwdriver. If he didn't find any money when he broke into a place, he left it as tidy as it was when he entered.

As a result, he said, the owners of many places didn't even know their businesses had been broken into. Hurd estimated that he robbed 25 or 30 places in Amarillo.

Bans Reports On Juveniles Before Trials

WHEELING, W. Va., March 23 (UP)— Juvenile Court Judge David A. McKee Saturday issued a verbal order forbidding publication by newspapers of juvenile crime until after a trial is held.

McKee's order, issued through the Ohio County prosecutor's office, stated that newspapers could publish juvenile crime news only after the court had acted and all the facts are revealed.

A meeting of Wheeling officials was called shortly after Judge McKee issued the order.

City Manager Robert L. Plumber, City Solicitor George Bailey and Police Chief William Thomas took issue with McKee at the meeting. They said that police reports of juvenile offenders will continue to be released to newspapers until Judge McKee issues a formal order to the contrary.

"I think that newspapers have every right to get their news from the police as it happens, rather than waiting until the conclusion of a trial for a news release to be handed out," Plumber said.

Bailey pointed out that while juvenile crimes are delicate matters for publication, newspapers must act as their own police force in deciding what details of juvenile crime must be published.

Plumber also said it did not 'seem reasonable" that reports of juvenile crime cannot be made public until after a trial.

"In many cases it is necessary for the public welfare that they be kept informed of crime as quickly as possible," Plumber declared.

Judge McKee explained his action by stating that "facts are established in court under oath and not by the conclusion of a policeman or a newspaper reporter.

"I have not denied publication of facts and it is the policy of the court to give out any and all facts other than the name, which the law forbids, after the facts have been establishtd," McKee said.

"Facts of children's wrong-doing should be made public and the law that forbids the use of their names is not conducive of correction or a deterrant of wrong doing of others, but that publication should be of facts established and not of mere accusation."

Reuther Raps Federal Tight Money Policy

WASHINGTON, March 23 (UP) President Walter P. Reuther of the United Auto Workers said Saturday the administration's tight money policy enables bankers to take "short-range killings" at the expense of the nation's economic health and security.

He made the statement in a letter to Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) promising "all-out support" for an investigation of price increases in the oil, steel, newsprint, auto and other industries. Kefauver is chairman of the Senate Anti-Trust and Monopoly subcommittee which will conduct the investigation.

Reuther praised inquiry and asked embarking on the inquiry anl asked permission to appear before the committee when it examines the extent to which price gouging on farm equipment, cars and trucks" has cut sales and reduced the real income of farm families. Reuther said his union wholeheartedly endorses Kefauver's declaration that American industry is headed toward a cartel pattern of restricted volume and high profit margins.

M'millan And Ike Agree On Aid To Poles

WASHINGTON, March 23 (UP)—President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan have agreed in Bermuda that a modest amount of economic aid should be supplied to Communist Poland, informed sources said Saturday.

A final decision on the size of American assistance may be made next week after Secretary of State John Foster Dulles returns from Bermuda.

A team of Polish negotiators now meeting with U. S. officials had asked the United States for ommitments totalling $300 million. This would include $200 million to finance surplus farm products, chiefly cotton and wheat, and another $100 million for coal mining and farm machinery.

The United States wants to help Poland to keep her on a course independent of Moscow. But American officials have not been thinking of supplying anything like $300 million.

Informed sources said the total aid likely to be made available is about $50 million.

There is some question whether the Poles will accept so much less than they are asking. Polish sources have hinted that it would not be worth the risk of provoking Moscow's wrath unless Poland gets in the neighborhood of $300 million.

Actually, U. S. funds available to help Poland now are limited. The authority to sell surplus farm products at cut rate prices under Public Law 480 is almost exhausted but Mr. Eisenhower is asking Congress to extend the authority in the next fiscal year.

The only other money available is in the President's emergency fund. Only $30 million of that can be supplied to any one nation.

Bargain Cited In Estate Sale

WASHINGTON, March 23 (UP)—Looking for a bargain in a house

The Chrysler estate in nearby Virginia is for sale for a million dollars. But that's the bargain. It was once valued at $10 million.

The 3,200 acre estate, North Wales, near Warrenton, Va., has been listed for sale with 10 real estate firms here, in New York and in Miami. It's owned by Walter P. Chrysler Jr.

It is not exactly a cozy little split-level. There are 60 rooms, 30 baths, seven sets of farm buildings, stables, a lake, a golf course, and a private air strip.

Chrysler's collection of early surreys, buggies, and autos does not go with the estate. What do you want for a million dollars

Paper Rates Up

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 23 (UP)—Effective tomorrow the Montgomery Advertiser-Journal will increase its subscription rate for daily and Sunday issues from 40 to 45 cents a week.

Publisher R. F. Hudson Jr. announced the rate boost to meet rising costs of producing a newspaper.

Joint Committee Study Of Atoms Plan Gains Favor

WASHINGTON, March 23 (UP)—Support mounted today for a move to have President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace program considered jointly by the Senate Foreign Relations committee and Senate members of the House-Senate Atomic Energy committee.

The plan, originally advanced in 1953, has been approved by 80 nations, including Soviet Russia. Senate ratification is necessary because of its treaty aspects.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Ia), ranking senator on the joint Atomic Energy group, said today he thought the hearings should be held jointly.

FAVORS SENATE HEARING

If not, he said, the Senate members of the atomic energy group should at least have the matter referred to them for consideration even though the Foreign Relations group has official jurisdiction.

Senate Democratic Whip Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), a member of the Foreign Relations group, told a reporter that "I think we ought to work in close coordination with the Atomic Energy committee" and especially with Democratic senators on it.

He pointed out that two Republicans, Hickenlooper and Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.), are members of both committees but that no Democratic Foreign Relations members are on the atomic panel.

IKE URGES APPROVAL

"I hope that an invitation will be extended to senators on the joint committee on atomic energy to at least sit in on the hearings," Mansfield said.

In a message to the Senate Friday Mr. Eisenhower urged it to approve U.S. participation in the plan for worldwide pooling of fissionable materials for peaceful purposes. The Foreign Relations committee has set no date for hearings. Apparently, however, the plan is in for a thorough examination. Mansfield said "the President can be certain we will give his views every possible consideration."

Schweitzer's Prize Goats In Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS, March 23—UP—A gift shipment of a prize herd of Nubian goats will arrive here tomorrow on the first leg of their journey to Lambarene in French Equatorial Africa, where they will be presented to Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

During a short stay in New Orleans, the herd of 12 pure-bred registered milk goats and two buck kids will be quartered in special pens built for them at Audubon park zoo.

Wednesday, the goats will be taken aboard a freighter for the 27-day voyage to Port Gentil, closest point to Dr Schweitzer's interior African hospital.

The herd was carefully selected from prize herds throughout the nation after Dr. Schweitzer, famed Nobel Peace Prize winner expressed a desire to have a few goats to provide milk for his hospitalized patients.

Because of the menace of the African tse-tse fly, cattle cannot survive in the humid climate.

Accompanying the herd on their trip to Africa will be Dr. Byron W. Bernard, chief zoological veterinarian at Cincinnati Zoo., animal collector, writer and movie-maker in Dr. Schweitzer's adopted land.

In addition to the herd, Dr. Bernard is also taking to Dr. Schweitzer $20,000 of pharmaceuticals donated by drug manufacturers.

Dr. Schweitzer, who in 1913 at the age of 38 had established a reputation in his native France as a brilliant architect, philosopher, theologican and musician, went to Africa to devote his life as a medical missionary. He is now 82 years of age and was proclaimed as the "Man of the Century" during a recent visit to the United States.

Airport Slated For Dedication

UNIVERSITY, Miss., March 23 (UP)—The University-Oxford airport will be dedicated May 6 in a special Army-Navy-Air Force day celebration that includes aerial entertainment.

Among the performances will be paratroop jumps and a helicopter square dance.

Gov. J. P. Coleman will be principal speaker.

'TAKE MY HAND'

Sen. Ives Sees Little Chance For Cuts In Budget

NEW YORK, March 23 (UP)—Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N. Y.) told newspaper editors and publishers Saturday that there was little chance for a major budget cut because of the obligations of this country in a world that is not truly at peace.

"In my opinion those who will eventually slash our budgets and our tax-rates are not necessarily the law makers," Ives said in a lunch adddress before the National Editorial Association.

"Expenses and taxes will be cut by the forces that bring good will and friendliness to this earth, the forces which will eliminate Communism as a costly menace; the forces which, under God, will assure us that we have no nation to fear," he said.

"When that millenium comes we shall be able to slash $40 billion in defense items from our budget without denying our people any of the benefits they derive from the government's social welfare programs," Ives said.

Ives said President Eisenhower's $71.8 billion budget was big "because the expectations of our people are big—their expectations of what the federal government will do for them. And, I might say, because this country is big. Its obligations to its own people and around the world are many, and this is not a world truly at peace."

The senator said the fact that the gross national product has increased 12 1-2 per cent should be borne in mind when he federal government calls for an 11 per cent increase in spending.

Ives promised that Congress would trim what it could from the budget.

"I wince, as you do, whenever I make out my tax check," he said. "But I would certainly rather send my tax check to the district director of the United States Internal Revenue Service than to Moscow."

DEDICATION IS NEAR

Womack To Speak At Center Event

James Womack, Winnfield attorney who is leading the 1957 Easter Seal campaign in Louisiana, will be one of the speakers at the dedication of the Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation center here next Sunday.

Womack will share the speakers stand with Willis C. Gorthy, director of the Institute of Crippled Children of New York City, at the 2 p.m. program.

The local center was built from a $60,000 donation by the Carolyn Rose Strauss Foundation and a $60,000 grant from the federal government, but it will be owned and operated by the Society for Crippled Children and Adults, inc. It will be supported entirely by Easter Seal funds. It is the first rehabilitation center in the South to be built apart from a hospital or other type institution.

Womack, a World War II veteran, who lost his left arm, his right hand and part of his sight in combat, is "just visiting around" with Easter Seal volunteers and professional staff working in the Easter Seal program.

"When I talk with parents of crippled children who are being helped by the Easter Seal program; when I talk with therapists and find out how badly more of them are needed — then when I talk with our volunteers and find out how slow contributions are coming in, I wonder what's the matter with us," Womack said.

Gesturing emphatically with the prospects which replaces his right hand, the 32-year-old six-footer makes friends easily with the young patients he obviously thinks are "something special."

After obtaining answers to questions which interested him, he declared, "It's almost a miracle the way Easter Seal funds are stretched to set up services within areas where these little kids live, so they don't have to be carried long distances, away from their homes. That's important. I can't help but feel that if more people understood things like this, they would dig down and mail a little something."

Between now and Easter, when the drive ends, Womack will visit Easter Seal organizations and facilities in Lafayette, Lake Charles, New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Crowley, and a number of smaller towns.

Kasper Gets Freedom On $7,500 Bond

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 23 (UP)— White supremacy leader John Kasper, twice charged with helping stir up racial strife at Clinton, Tenn., was released under $7,500 bond Saturday after promising he would cause "no inconvenience" if granted liberty.

Kasper went before Federal Judge Robert L. Taylor after spending the night in Knox County jail. He was arrested Friday at nearby Clinton while paying his respects to the wife of a dead associate.

The white citizens council leader appeared subdued and relieved at the size of bond set by Judge Taylor. U.S. District Atty. John C. Crawford had suggested $10,000 bond.

"I would be grateful if it is reduced," Kasper told the judge. He already is under $10.000 bond pending appeal of an earlier conviction for violating a federal court order banning interference with integration at Clinton.

It was the fourth time the young segregationist has been arrested in Tennessee for alleged fomenting resistance to Negro attendance at Clinton high school.

5 Hospitalized After Accident Near Bastrop

BASTROP March 23 (Special) — Five Bastrop residents were hospitalized Saturday night as the result of a two car collision on Highway 165 about one-half mile west of here.

Police identified the drivers of the cars as William E. Smith of Bastrop who was alone at the time, and George W. Page also of Bastrop who had his wife and two children with him. Officers said all were taken to the Garnier Clinic in Bastrop.

The passengers in the car with Page were his wife, Mrs. Eloise Page, their eight-month old daughter, Patti Page, and Brenda Sue Dumas, a 12-year-old neice of the Pages.

Late reports said that George Page has possible chest injuries as well as cuts and bruises. Mrs. Page suffered a broken leg and bruises. The Page baby was cut and had several bruises and the Dumas girl was bruised and cut.

Smith was reported to have a broken leg as well as minor cuts and bruises.

MECHANICAL MAN AT SCIENCE FAIR

Ferguson, Neville; Don Andrews, West Monroe; and Warren Taylor, Neville, who tied for second place; Tommy Frazer, Neville; Ken Roberts, Bastrop Central.

OTHER WINNERS

Earth science winners in the junior division were: Jane Miles, Neville; Florette Snyder, Bastrop Central; James Earl Taylor, Bastrop Central; Robert E. Sheppard Delhi.

Junior social science winner was Jimmy Tweddle, Delhi.

Capturing group awards were Gregory Brown and Jerry Phillips, West Monroe, first place; Del Peters and Bill Faust, Rayville, second; Sonny Newcomer, Delhi, third; Bobby Ray Lowell, Rayville, and Sandra Folse, Bastrop High, who tied for fourth place.

Science teachers participating in the regional fair included: Harold Albritton, West Monroe; V. J. SHREVEPORT, La. March 23—UP—More than 150 students from three parishes exhibited science projects at the third annual Centenary regional science fair today.

The students, from Bossier Caddo, and Webster parishes were in the first through 12th grades. Their exhibits ranged from model nuclear reactors to skeletons.

Outstanding exhibits will be eligible for the state science fair at Monroe.

The exhibits were displayed in the Centenary College gymnasium. The school also held open house in their science laboratories for persons visiting the exhibit.

caller said Hill and his companion had not arrived there.

Heaviest snowfall reported was 10 inches at Sublette, Kan., with five at Sidney and Scottsbluff, Neb. The Weather Bureau warned travelers in the affected areas to stay under cover predicting heavy snow through the Oklahoma Panhandle, Western Kansas and western and central Nebraska tonight. Temperatures were expected to be in the 20s.

In New Mexico and Texas little snow fell but winds up to 83 miles an hour banked it in drifts up to seven feet.

By GERALD ARATHOON

GAZA, March 23 (UP) — An Egyptian government representative charged Saturday that Israel shifted its frontier line as much as 200 yards into the Gaza Strip during the three-month Israeli occupation of this territory.

The accusation was made by Maj. Maher Osman, Egypt's representative on the mixed armistice commission that considers violations affecting the two countries.

Osman said Israeli occupation troops had pushed Egyptian-Israeli demarcation line between 100 and 200 yards inside the Gaza sector, changing its former course.

The line is marked by a deep furrow, dug by a tractor on the northern and eastern sides of the Gaza Strip.

Osman said Egypt would ask the United Nations to appoint an international survey team to determine the exact position of the demarcation line as defined by armistice agreement of 1949.

Egypt will demand restoration of the original line fixed eight years ago, the Egyptian officer said.

One Of Quads Born In Canada Fails To Survive

MONTREAL, March 23 (UP)— One of the quadruplets born prematurely two days ago to a 34-year-old mother died in an incubator Friday night, hospital officials said Saturday.

Following the death of the tiny girl, the surviving quads were transferred to the Montreal Children's Memorial hospital which has special facilities for the care of premature babies.

Doctors said the surviving quads were in "good" condition but not completely out of danger. They were born two months premature.

The girl was the first of the babies born to Mrs. Audrey Munro during a 22-minute delivery at St. Joseph's hospital in nearby Lachine Thursday. She weighed weighed 3½ pounds. The quads, three girls and a boy, weighed a total of 16 pounds, 6 ounces.

and all pupils were sent home. Three days passed and no storm occurred but the mother of a small, too active son, sent him back to school with a note to his teacher. "Hre you take over and handle Willie. I'll look after any tornado that may strike here!"

A man in his eighties sat hour after hour on his porch and about all he said was "I'm an old old man. I am going to die soon!" One day he got a new burst of enthusiasm. He declared he would write his own obituary just as it ought to be written.

With writing material at hand he began the task. Here's how it read. "John Smith, aged 85, lifelong resident of Farmerville, died yesterday. He was born in Farmerville and lived there all his life. He married Mary Jones and proved to be a first class husband and an ideal father to his six sons and daughters.

"He owned and cultivated a 200 acre farm and took a number of first prizes for his livestock at county fairs."

Then he halted: "Say I'm still a pretty good man. I don't think I'd better die for some time yet!" and the story ended abruptly.

The eighth annual Brotherhood dinner of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, held in the Shamrock - Hilton Hotel, the past week in Houston, Tex., proved a tremendous success. One thousand tickets were sold at $50 each and this sum, minus expenses, will all go to worthy charities of the organization.

But while money was a big feature, there was also a highly important program given in which were honored four persons for their activities in behalf of religion in its broadest sense.

Those so honored were Mrs. John H. Crooker, Sr., a woman well up in years, who is noted for unselfish activities in the Catholic church; F. M. Law, another inter-religious leader, and honored as was Irvin Shlenker, a Monroe native, who is son - in - law of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Masur of this city, and who is a prominent and liberal - minded Houston banker. The fourth to be honored was General Carlos Romulo, Philippine ambassador to the United States and former United Nations president. He made a brilliant speech in which he sounded warning in which he declared that communism must be conquered and at once.

It is now announced that the Lutheran Church, for some years located at 300 D'Arbonne, will in the near future remove to Oliver Road where they had bought a lot not far from the TV station, and will erect a new home.

This will be the first church to locate in this new area, which is growing rapidly.

Mrs. Hugh L. Odom writes us that she appreciated the story in this column about the old telephone book, but that through a kindly neighbor she has one that is well preserved and was issued in Hot Springs, Ark., in 1922. It listed 2,870 phones in use at that time.

Mrs. L. M. Brinson, devout member of Our Lady of Fatima Church, calls attention to the Wednesday and Friday services at 7:30 p. m. during Lent. At each night, Rev. Father D. A. Curren, assistant pastor, will be a speaker and explain the Stations of the Cross at the Friday service.

At the Wednesday service the Rosary will be recited and the sermon topic will be: "Is Marriage a Sacrament" The pastor, Rev. Father George Martinez, will deliver the sermon.

All members are expected to attend and non - members will be welcome.

Calvary Baptist Church in Mangham will have its choir shown in a TV program at 1 p. m. this afternoon from the Monroe station. At the piano will be Miss Annette Roy and Winston DeVille will be at the organ. The solo parts will be by Charles Barker and a brief talk will be given by the pastor, Rev. L. Neal Carlson.

Quakes Now Total 60 In 'Frisco Area

shocks were being taken in stride and had become merely a topic of conversation and subject of a joke.

20,000 AT BASEBALL GAME

As a matter of fact the residents were beginning to recover late Friday. To the utter surprise of writers and players with the Boston Red Sox American League baseball club, a crowd of 20,023 turned out Friday night to Seals Stadium in the heart of the quake-shaken city to watch the San Francisco Seals play the Red Sox.

Saturday an aftershock at 9:35 a. m. which reached the magnitude of 3 evoked only minor interest and such comments as:

"We're still rockin' and rollin' "

'I'm getting so I like them."

And numerous puns about whose "fault" it is. The quakes are caused by slippage of the earth's crust along the San Andreas Fault.

WILL TAPER OFF

Dr. Perry Byerley head of the University of California Seismolgy Laboratory in Berkeley, pointed out that the aftershocks were coming with less frequency than they did Friday and "probably will continue to taper off."

Also tapering off was the flood of long distance telephone calls from worried relatives and friends of residents throughout the country.

Friday night long distance lines were clogged with incoming calls and the telephone company was quoting waits up to four hours.

Source Of Beck's $270,000 Sought

Beck is due here from Seattle Sunday night. He has stated that he "borrowed" and repaid without interest some $300,000 to $400,000 of union funds.

During his news conference Saturday, McClellan also disclosed:

—That the committee has received protests from rank and file trades union members alleging mismanagement and misuse of funds in various unions.

HEARD NOTHING FROM BECK

—That he has ordered the committee's legal staff to study what legislation will be necessary or "desirable" to insure "democratic processes" and to prevent "dissipation, misappropriation or any improper use" of union dues.

—That the committee has no plans to talk with Beck before his scheduled appearance Tuesday. He said he has heard nothing from Beck since the Teamster president confirmed he would appear with the records. At that time, Beck failed to specify whether he would turn the records over to the committee. He hinted he might take refuge in the Fifth Amendment, depending on how the records were used.

McClellan commented that Frank W. Brewster, president of the Western Conference of Teamsters, was the principal committee witness at the session which heard the testimony on the $270,000.

Brewster, McClellan said, was then the secretary - treasurer of the conference "whose duty or responsibility it was to know if any loan was made." But Brewster, McClellan added, said he did not know of the transactions until the money was repaid.

"He said he had never heard of it," McClellan said.

Kennedy told newsmen that even if Beck refuses to give the committee his financial records, "I feel we will be able to prove certain facts showing the misuse of union funds by him."

Manpower Study Scheduled

BATON ROUGE, March 23. — Problems of technical manpower supply and what can be done about them will be discussed by representatives of industry and education in a twoday conference at Baton Rouge Thursday and Friday, it was announced today by A. H. Stephens, conference chairman.

The discussions will take place at the 11th annual meeting of the Industry - Faculty Conference of Louisiana, sponsored by the industries of Louisiana and the College of Engineering and the General Extension Division of Louisiana State University. Sessions will be held each day in Pleasant Hall on the L.S.U. campus.

Principal subject of the Thursday morning session will be "Technical Manpower Supply, Present and Future," discussed by Dr. Bowen C. Dees, deputy director, division of scientific personnel and education, National Science Foundation, Washington, D.C.

The afternoon sessions will hear Dr. Cecil L. Brown, manager of scientific liaison, Esso Research and Engineering Company, on "Industry Aid for the Technical Manpower Supply Problem." He will be followed by a panel discussion, "How to Improve the Utilization of Techincal Manpower," moderated by Dr. Paul A. McKim, director, chemical engineering research and engineering department, Ethyl Corporation, Baton Rouge.

Friday is reserved for a general assembly, followed by group discussions, then a report to the general assembly by group leaders on the results of their duscussions.

A lighter moment at the conference will be a banquet on Thursday night, at which Art Briese, Hot Springs, Ark., satirist, will deliver a humorous talk entitled "Skulduggery at the Old Crossroads."

Conference chairmon Stephens is manager of technical operations, Ethyl Corporation, Baton Rouge, La. The conference is open, he said, to all persons interested in furthering relations between engineers and other industry personnel and the faculties of universities and colleges whose responsibility it is to train men for employment in industry.

Housing facilities will be available to participants in the conference at Pleasant Hall, L.S.U. campus, where registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

Democratic Party Alarmed By Shift Of Negro Voters

WASHINGTON, March 23 (UP) —The most alarming news the Democratic party is hearing from its allies in the labor movement relates to Republican inroads into the Negro vote.

These appraisals tend to discount the fact that President Eisenhower polled a somewhat larger share of the overall labor vote in 1956 than in 1952. Adlai E. Stevenson, the defeated Democratic presidential nominee, had lost of the organized labor endorsements.

On the basis of the 1956 election results, men involved in labor's expanding political activity have reached these conclusions:

—The Negro vote swing toward the GOP was the most significant change indicated by the 1956 election results compared with those of 1952 and 1954.

—While Stevenson's percentage in the labor vote showed some decline from 1952, he suffered in most cases from a stay-at-home vote rather than a shift to Mr. Eisenhower. There was a shortage of enthusiasm for Stevenson in labor wards.

—Labor needs an even more effective political action program to offset recent weakness in democratic organizations in such cities as New York, Chicago, Jersey City, N. J., and Memphis, Tenn.

—The Middle East crisis helped reelect Mr. Eisenhower, but Democrats ran better in congressional races in which their "liberal" record on domestic issues was of greater importance. Most of the labor-endorsed congressional candidates were Democrats.

In surveying the 1956 returns, the labor people found the pattern mixed. In Los Angeles, for example, Stevenson's percentage of the vote increased over 1952 in two Negro districts although Democratic Rep. James Roosevelt's declined. Stevenson just about held his own among Negro voters in Denver and made a better showing percentagewise, in Philadelphia.

The Democratic party headquarters' own review of the 1956 election stresses the shift in Negro votes to the GOP as a factor in Republican gains in the traditionally Democratic South.

Knowland Urges President To Cut Spending, Taxes

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) called on the Eisenhower administration and Congress today to "face up" to spending cuts so there can be a reduction in taxes next year.

Knowland's statement was the latest indication there will be a strong movement in Congress for tax relief in 1958, an election year.

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, served notice he will oppose next year any further extension of corporation and excise tax rates imposed during the Korean war and continued year-by-year since.

He said that there also must be a cut in individual income taxes next year. But he declined to speculate on the percentages of possible reductions in that field.

"Now is the time to put our financial house in order, looking toward tax cuts next year," he said. "Assuming that we are going to make budget cuts—and I think there will be—there will be room for personal income tax reductions.

"I doubt that Congress will pass any further extension bills after this year to continue the Korean war and excise taxes. We have gone as far as we can in that field and the administration and Congress are going to have to face up to the necessities of budget reductions."

The Senate Finance Committee is scheduled action Monday on a bill to continue for another year the 52 per cent maximum rate of taxation on corporations. The House has already passed the measure. Without final action on it the rate would drop back to the pre-Korean War level of 47 per cent.

The measure, which may be amended by the Senate committee, would call for a 15-month extension to July 1, 1958, would also continue high excise rates on alcohol, cigarettes, automobiles, auto parts and accessories.

Continuing these tax rates is expected to mean about three billion dollars in revenue.

President Eisenhower has said there can be a general tax reduction only when sound fiscal policy permits. In calling for passage of the extension bill, he said it "would be neither fair nor appropriate to allow excise and corporate tax reduction to be made at a time when a general tax reduction cannot be undertaken."

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey has said present tax rates are "too high for long continued retention and would in the long run seriously hamper our vigorous economic growth." He proposed eventual reductions "in all rates for all taxpayers when our fiscal situation permits."

Will Provides Funds For 22 Charity Groups

LAUREL, Miss., March 23 (AP)— The will of William H. Ellsworthy, who died Feb 2 while chairman of the Ellisville Merchants and Manufacturers Bank, provides annual legacies to 22 charitable, religious and educational organizations.

The will, in Jones County chancery court for probate, does not reveal the actual value of the estate.

The will provides that the legacies be paid to the organizations after certain other bequests are paid.

The 22 organizations are:

Hawthorne Cedar Knowls School, Youth Counsel Bureau, Stuyvesant Neighborhood House, Salvation Army, American Heart Assn., Young Men's Christian Assn., Madison Square Boys Club, and American Foundation for the Blind, all of New York.

National Jewish Hospital of Denver, Colo., Piney Woods Country Life (Negro) School of Piney Woods, Miss., Ellisville, Miss., Presbyterian Church, Old Ladies Home in Jackson, Times-Picayune Doll and Toy Fund of New Orleans, Baptist Hospital in Jackson, Gunnery Inc. of Washington, Conn.

Seek To Block Use Of Songs

BATON ROUGE, March 23 — UP — A suit has been filed in federal district court here to stop a night spot from playing two popular songs.

Chappell and Co., Inc., and the American Academy of Music asked for a permanent restraining order against the Club Carousel, in West Baton Rouge, to stop the club from performing "Blueberry Hill" and "Carovan."

The suit claims the songs were performed in violation of copyrights owned by the American Society of Composers, Artists and Publishers.

NO TRACE FOUND IN PACIFIC

MISSING PLANE POSES MYSTERY

TOKYO, Sunday, March 24 (AP)— The search for a missing U. S. military transport plane and the 67 Americans it carried went into the third day today with U. S. officers increasingly puzzled by their failure to find evidence of the plane's fate.

Two U. S. Navy ships and scores of planes were to converge at daybreak 360 miles southeast of here where "yellow objects" were sighted yesterday. Search craft also were investigating "considerable debris" in the ocean 80 miles east of Japan.

But Air Force officers acknowledged that what they called the greatest air-sea search ever organized in the Far East has turned up not one solid clue as to the fate of the C97 Stratocruiser which vanished early Thursday almost within sight of Japan, after a flight from California.

There was no explanation of why the plane radioed from 230 miles out that all was normal, then apparently minutes later plunged into the sea without flashing a plea for help.

Speculation centered around the possibility of an explosion aboard the plane or one of several violent rain squalls in the area literally tearing the big plane apart.

If mechanical dificulties forced the pilot to ditch in the Pacific 30-foot swells almost certainly would have wrecked the plane. But given even a few seconds, the radio operator could have broadcast a distress signal which could not have been missed.

"Whatever happened to it had to be sudden," one officer said. "There was no distress signal. The (radio) operator could at least tied down his key even in case of a sudden emergency."

The floating "yellow objects" were sighted by a search plane which first identified them as a life raft and life jackets. The Air Force said a later search over the area indicated the objects were merely "normal debris," but a more thorough search was to be made by ships and planes today.

The area is about 120 miles southeast of the point from which the plane last radioed its position. Air Force oficials said the normal drift would be in the opposite direction.

Upwards of 70 aircraft and about a dozen Japanese and American surface vessels covered an estimated 75,000 square miles of the Pacific yesterday. The search was hampered by overcast skies and rain squalls.

Col. G. L. Douglas, commanding the vast air search, said the search would continue as long as there is hope that survivors might be found.

"We keep going on the assumption there are survivors and continue until the bitter end," Douglas said.

Weary crews of search and rescue planes in the Far East have had four weeks of almost continuous flying as the result of a rash of lost planes in the Far East.

INTERPRETING — MID-EAST

Jessup, Others Believe U. S. Must Devise Plan For Mid-East, Impose It

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Dr. Philip C. Jessup has joined the ranks of those who think it is the responsibility of the United Nations to present the Middle Eastern states with a definitive plan for peace and then "make it stick."

Dr. Jessup is professor of international law and diplomacy at Columbia University and a former member of the United States delegation to the U.N.

His suggestions for what such a peace plan might include cover those recently outlined to Elmo H. Hutchison, Middle East director of American Friends of the Middle East, by President Nasser of Egypt, and go slightly farther.

For years the Arab world has contended that Israel must be destroyed.

Nasser says that if Israel will settle down for good behind demarcation lines set by the United Nations, and if she will compensate Arab refugees from Palestine for their losses, the Arabs will now agree to coexistence.

Jessup would guarantee the existence of a nonexpanionist Israel behind permanent borders and compensation of the refugees.

He would incoporate in the plan an international economic program, guarantees of international access to the Suez Canal, the Gulf of Aqaba and all holy places.

The idea of a more or less imposed peace has been kicking around for some time now. Chief reaction has been that, since the United Nations has been unable to get any action through individual resolutions already passed on all of these matters, there isn't much hope for a package deal.

There have, however, been many changes in the situation since the partition of Palestine, by which the United Nations assumed a moral obligation to carry through on the problems thus created.

For one thing, the world watched last fall in terror as the nations involved in the Middle East, large and small, brought on a most dangerous threat of World War III.

For another, the United States, which must provide the backbone of any U.N. effort, established a new position during the crisis of the Arab world.

She demonstrated that in a choice between principles and her best friends, principles come first. By so doing, she has developed a faith among the Arabs that a U.N. program backed by her can be trusted.

In addition, Nasser learned that he cannot back his boast that anyone who attacked Egypt would promptly be defeated.

Army's Tent Hospital Among Area's Largest

Facility Set For King Cole Maneuvers

By DANNY BINGHAM
(Correspondent)

RUSTON, La., March 23—What may possibly be the largest hospital in this part of the South is in operation about two miles south of Simsboro in the southwest portion of Lincoln Parish.

It is situated in the open under tents and is set up to operate in all respects as if it were under combat conditions.

A compact and highly efficient organization, the 85th evacuation hospital now counts 400 beds with the personnel and equipment and ability to almost double the capacity almost instantaneously in the event of an emergency.

MAJOR INSTALLATION

The 85th evacuation hospital is a major installation in Exercise King Cole which begins in this area on March 27. In command of the unit is Col. Walter B. Lacock.

The hospital is spread over a hillside and is completely self-contained, operating under simulated combat conditions in every detail.

The receiving station adjoins Oak Grove Road and immediately to its rear is the X-ray tent and operating room.

Colonel Lacock reports that more than 20 doctors and surgeons are on duty and this roster includes such specialists as a brain surgeon and a psychiatrist.

More than half a hundred nurses are attached to the hospital. They are from army hospitals all over the nation and many have seen duty overseas. They live in a special group of tents a short distance away and dress as do the men while in the area.

A Red Cross unit is also in the area with two professional directors on duty at all times. Their headquarters always is the center of much activity as they provide radios, books, magazines, games, ping pong tables and even vases of flowers to brighten the olive drab atmosphere of the center.

MANY SIGNS

Along the walkways, signs denote the medical laboratory, the pharmacy, fracture tent and control and operational units of all types. Colonel Lacock reports that the hospital would even have a tent soon to store the equipment of the men brought in from the field for treatment, and that arrangements would be made to ship them back to the injured or ill man's home base in the event his hospitalizaton proves to be lengthy.

The hospital is capable of caring for any and all cases of a medical nature. It offers first aid and immediate return to duty in the case of minor injuries or illnesses, or it can perform, on the spot, the most delicate of surgery. The program even calls for an "all - ready" signal in the event of an epidemic of diseases.

The ambulances attached to the hospital bring in the men from the fields of activity or from their units, and three ambulance - type helicopters each capable of carrying six men, are used to hastily whittle the sick and injured to the hospital. These helicopters now are using the grounds of Fellowship (Negro) Baptist Church, immediately across the road from the hospital, as a landing and take-off base.

Unbelievably enough, the 85th evacuation hospital is so organized that it can be set up in its entirety within one day's time, ready for service. Plans of the maneuvers call for several moves as it follows the troops during the maneuvers.

ALWAYS READY

Colonel Lacock pointed out that it is his unit's duty to care for all cases, regardless of severity, at any time of the day or night, and to be in a position where no outside assistance of any type is required. However, Colonel Lacock said, arrangements are included to handle special cases such as evacuation to government hospitals or return to home base.

Recreation areas are laid out in several localities. A softball field and volley ball court already are in operation. Movies are shown daily by the Red Cross. Special kits are prepared for every patient upon arrival and the Red Cross workers aid the men in writing letters and in obtaining special necessities.

The operating tent is perhaps the pride of the entire organization. It is in a large tent heated by hot air blowers when necessary and ventilated at other times by screened openings. Clean, white sheets line the interior completely on walls and ceilings, with the canvas serving as a floor covering. The rules of sanitation are followed to the utmost, not only in the operating, treatment and patients' tents, but in the every day lives of the men and women who operate the unit.

HUGE LIGHTS

Large electric lights illuminate the operating table while trays of instruments lay ready for use at an instant's notice, just as in the largest and most modern hospital.

Electric power is supplied from the hospital unit's own portable generator, and if one develops a failure, another is cut in automatically to provide a constant flow of the vital current.

Water is purified and all trash and garbage is disposed of in the most sanitary of manners.

Trained anaesthetists, surgical nurses, assistants, orderlies and all the other skill available to the armed forces surround the patient from the time he becomes incapacitated.

The kitchen is fully stocked with every sort of food, not only for those stationed on duty, but for those patients needing special diet.

NEAR BY

One of the most unique organizations located in the maneuver area, and working closely in connection with the hospital is the 32nd medical depot located only a short distance away.

This depot carries more than 1,000 different items of medical supplies ranging all the way from cotton swabs to the new myacin drugs. It has a 30-day supply of medicines to take care of the 23,000 men who are to take part in the Exercise King Cole.

This unit requires eight large tents in which to store the 25 tons or 50,000 pounds of medical supplies which it is estimated will be used by the army through its army field hospitals, dispensaries and other medical units during the maneuvers.

Capt. Allen T. Thompson of San Antonio, texas, is commanding officer of the depot and is assisted by one warrant officer and 18 enlisted men.

Study Shows Changes By Home Buyers

By ROBERT F. COLL

WASHINGTON, March 23 (UP)—A government study just released under-scores changes wrought in the national economy by home owners.

At the turn of the century, only 33 per cent of the nation's homes were occupied by owners in other than farm areas. Today three out of every five houses is occupied by its owner.

The study, made by the Federal Reserve System at the request of President Eisenhower, was directed at the growth and future prospects of installment credit. While it found that the chief factor in credit growth was the automobile, the home played a major part.

Noted Other Changes

The major shifts noted in spending habits was an increase in the amount paid on car payments coupled with a decrease in housing costs due to increased home ownership.

The experts noted other changes but to the borrowing and spending habits of the family that owns its own home, especially in the on time purchase of appliances. They pointed out that when a home owner purchases a washing machine on time he is substituting an asset for a service paid for in the past on a continuing basis.

As an example, they pointed out that commercial laundries only have doubled their business since 1929 despite the mushrooming population. The dry cleaning trade, for which there is no home substitute, tripled in the same period.

Another reflection of home ownership was in movie theater admissions. The economists found the home owner is more likely to get his entertainment in front of a television set—another substitute for pay-as-you-go spending.

Women a Factor

They even detected home ownership in the do-it-yourself craze. The man living in his own house is mainly responsible for the boom in washing machines, dryers and freezers. In contrast, ownership of a television or a radio had little relationship to home acquisition.

Finally, the study pointed out that women have emerged from the kitchen and into the economic mainstream. They have more leisure and a better chance of getting a job to supplement the family income.

With this emancipation has come increasing pressure from housewives for more labor-saving devices. The manufacturers have responded with an increasing flow from their assembly lines.

FARM INCOME HIGH

U. S. farmers are reaping an annual estimated income of more than $12 billion, the best level in 2½ years, according to the Department of Agriculture.

AGAINST A BACKGROUND OF CLOUDS

VOICE LEVEL IS ADJUSTED
S2C George O. Croft, member of the 228th Signal Company, from Muncie, Ind., adjusts the voice level of a telephone circuit in one of the control rooms connected with the operations of the complex communications system in Ruston to be employed by the Army in Exercise King Cole starting March 27. Men such as Croft receive the finest and most detailed training in all types of electronics. (Photo by David Shepherd.)

NEW CONCEPT

Communications System Complex

RUSTON, La., March 23 (Special)—The most complex communications system ever used by the U. S. Army during training maneuvers will operate during Exercise King Cole which gets under way in Louisiana, March 27. It will continue through April 16, and will be followed by Exercise Sledge Hammer.

The very latest in Army Signal Corps equipment and new concepts in communications will be tested during King Cole. And Ruston is one of the three "nerve centers" of the vast maneuvers.

24 CENTERS

Twenty - four communications centers are scattered throughout the state of Louisiana, stretching from the Arkansas border to the Gulf of Mexico, and from the Mississippi River to the Texas border.

At nine of these centers are found all - aluminum walk-out towers, some ranging in height to 204 feet. Perched atop of these towers are big dish - like antenna to replay the pulse waves as they are sent out over the micro - wave network.

The use of micro - wave or ultra high frequency (UHF) equipment in the field is relatively new to the Army, although it has been in commercial use for quite some time.

FIRST TESTED

The Army's micro - wave radio-telephone network first was tested during Exercise Sage Brush held in the Louisiana maneuver area in the fall of 1955. But, the UHF equipment will be tested much more extensively during King Cole. It is estimated that one-third of the 23,000 troops participating in King Cole operations are signal troops.

The micro - wave towers are capable of sending out 45 voice channels (telephones) at one time, and the antennas can be shifted so that messages can be transmitted in any direction.

The elaborateness of this equipment can be further emphasized by the fact that each one of the 45 radio - telephone circuits is capable of transmitting 16 teletype circuits or all 45 can transmit a total of 720 teletype circuits.

RATED HIGHLY

One reason the UHF equipment is held in such high esteem by the Army is that it is almost impossible to intercept its messages. To intercept a message sent out over the micro - wave relay system, it would be necessary to have exactly the same equipment plus being in direct line with the micro - wave signal. The UHF equipment must transmit on a line - of - sight basis meaning that no objects, either man - made or natural, can be in the path of the transmission.

In the past it has been comparatively easy for enemy troops to "tap into" a telephone line and intercept messages. The UHF setup does away with the necessity of laying miles and miles of wire. Each tower can relay messages along a radius of approximately 30 miles.

One amazing feature is that all the heavy radio - telephone equipment requiring so many volts and amps of power can operate off regular household current.

Strange as it may seem, the chief hazard to this vast King Cole communications network hasn't been caused by "enemy" troops, but by unsympathetic Louisiana cows knocking down tower guy-wires.

Franciosa Hottest New Star On Hollywood's Film Stage

HOLLYWOOD, March 23 (AP)—The hottest new star in town — probably the hottest since Marlon Brando — is a handsome, rugged Italian who has yet to be seen by the general public.

But the word is around the trade and it's just as safe to predict major stardom for Anthony Franciosa as it was for Brando five years ago.

Ironically, five years ago Franciosa was hashing food in a cafeteria. Since then he has bummed around the Orient and become a star pupil of the Actor's Studio — the alma mater of such as Brando, Jimmy Dean and Carroll (Baby Doll) Baker.

Like Brando, he scored first with a meaty part in a potent Broadway hit. Franciosa was the brother of the dope addict in "Hatful of Rain." Some critics have called that performance the juiciest since Brando's Stanley Kowalski of "Street car Named Desire."

It was so potent that Hal Wallis, a King Midas among Hollywood producers, signed him to a movie contract between the first and second acts of the play.

But Franciosa only signed for a picture a year with Wallis. Before he starts work in May for Wallis as the star of "Obsession" with Anna Magnani and Anthony Quinn, he will have done three multimillion-dollar pictures for three other studios.

The trio are the movie version of "Hatful of Rain" with Eva Marie Saint; "A Face in the Crowd" for Elia Kazan and a top comedy role with Jean Simmons in "This Could Be the Night."

DON HALE

Emmanuel To Feature Youth Service Sun.

The Emmanuel Baptist Church extends an invitation to the friends of the young people of Monroe to attend the youth services that will be conducted at the church on Fifth and Breard Sunday, March 24 at 7:30 p.m.

The special service has been arranged and will be conducted by the young people of the church. The church music will be under the direction of Alvin Thames and special music will be by the girls ensemble of Louisiana Baptist Children's home and under the direction of Miss Pope, who is head of the music at the home. Miss Charlotte Walker will serve as the church pianist, and Lynn Hammons will serve as the Training Union director.

The preaching service will be under the direction of Don Hale. Don is a junior at Neville High and has been active in the athletic program of the school. He has lettered two years in football and one year each in track and baseball.

Don surrendered to the ministry about a year and a half ago and since that time he has served as royal ambassdor counselor in five state R. A. camps and attended the training camp at Ridgecrest, N. C.

He is now serving as R. A. counselor at the Baptist Children's Home and has been selected to serve on the staff at four R. A. camps on the state level this year.

Siegfried Enke Tells Of Escape From Iron Curtain

SIEGFRIED ENKE

The Luna Assembly of God Church, Tuesday night, will hear the story by young Siegfried Enke on first hand information of Communism for he was imprisoned and tortured and ultimately made his escape. Wednesday night he will tell his story at the First Assembly of God, West Monroe; on Thursday night at the Central Assembly of God, Monroe and on Friday night in the Bastrop Assembly of God.

He will tell first hand of the threat of communism, of how parents and family members suffered torture and death at the hands of Communists. He traveled throughout Europe and many parts of the United States in gospel mission work.

He has an urgent message to churches and all Christians.

"When I was 17 years of age I was called upon to serve in the German Navy during the last World War. When I was 18, I was captured by the British and put into a prison camp. Soon after that Germany lost the war. When I was released from prison, I tried to go home and find my loved ones again. I never reached home because the Communists had been there in the meantime and destroyed my home.

"My father, a minister of the gospel of Jesus Christ, was stabbed in the back and later shot at the altar of the church. My mother was taken and she died in a camp on the way to Siberia. Both of my sisters were taken by the Communists; one 23 years of age, and the other not quite 14.

"My older sister had to work in the Siberian coal mines during the day, and at night all those girls were molested by the Communistic soldiers. When she was finally released, she was expected to die. However, she arrived at a German hospital. Her weight had dropped to 64 pounds. She is still suffering from the ill treatment that she received.

"My younger sister managed to escape with two other German girls. They would walk at nights because they had to hide during the day from the Communists. When she reached safety, she was taken sick with tuberculosis and she still suffers with that sickness. One of my brothers was tortured severely and died as a result of it. The other was released from prison camp with tuberculosis and then died later on."

Lutherans Are Buying Site On Oliver Rd.

Trinity Lutheran congregation, presently located at 300 D'Arbonne Ave., Monroe, is progressing in its plans to establish a new church plant, according to an announcement made by its pastor, the Rev. Arthur Betz.

A block of real estate has been purchased on Oliver Rd. where the first unit of the new church plant is expected to be erected during the course of this year.

The planning committee composed of the Edward Reinhardt, William Hochstetler, Albert Herbert, studying requirements for immediate need, is proposing to the congregation the erection of a chapel-educational unit. The chapel is to provide seating room for 200 worshippers while the educational unit will offer facilities for the church school, meeting rooms, office, and social gatherings.

Trinity Lutheran congregation is affiliated with the Lutheran Church — Missouri Synod, the second largest Lutheran church body in America, with a communicant membership of 3,000,000 souls. This Lutheran Church organization conducts the largest system of Protestant Parochial grade and high schools in our country. Eleven pastor and teacher preparatory schools, two seminaries, and Valparaiso, university also belong to the school system. In September of this year a $7,000,000.00 senior college for ministerial students will be dedicated in Fort Wayne, Ind.

The mission program of this church body is world-wide with 1957 budget requirements placed at $14,000,000.00. The world-wide Lutheran Hour now celebrating its 25th anniversary, as well as the television program "This Is The Life" are being sponsored by this organization.

The Stations of the Cross will be explained; the Rosary recited. Talks will be made by the Rev. Father Dennis Curren, assistant pastor, and Rev. Father George Martinez.

MY ANSWER

By Billy Graham

Question: Your Sunday afternoon broadcasts irritate me until I can hardly stand them. You have a lot of nerve to talk as though you know all the answers.

H.T.M.

ANSWERS: I regret it very much if at any time I have ever gives the impression that I think I have all of the answers. But, I am sure both by faith and experience that the Gospel works. When I speak with assurance, it is because God has given us this revelation of truth in His Bible which speaks to the needs of men everywhere. You have but to look around you or read your morning newspaper to know that sin is rampant in the world. The Bible gives us the answer to the sin question because Christ came to save us from the guilt and penalty and power of sin. For each of us, there are multiplied daily problems but the Bible tells us that God is concerned about all of our personal lives. He offers to guide us, to help us, to strengthen us, and to keep us within the circle of His love. As I write this, I am thinking of a man who only a year ago was a drunkard, separated from his wife and family and losing daily for the devil. One day he surrendered his wrecked life to Jesus Christ and got up from his knees a new person. That man today is a radiant witness for the transforming power of Christ in his business, of which he is the head, and in the circle of friends who formerly knew how rotten his life was. The messenger of such a Gospel is nothing, but the Gospel he preaches is the very power of God to save and change men.

CUT HEATING COSTS

Studies by the University of Illinois have shown conclusively that insulation saves heating fuel. The researchers compared identical houses, one with properly installed mineral wool insulation and the other without any insulation. They discovered it cost less than half as much to heat the insulated house as it did to heat the one without insulation.

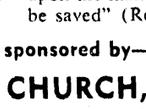
BAPTISTS BELIEVE...
CHRIST IS THE ONLY WAY TO HEAVEN

Have you ever lived at the end of the road? From such a place there is only one way out. The man who has sinned is at the end of the road in his personal life. For him there is only one way out. Repentance is the only road to peace and forgiveness from sin; it is the only escape from eternal punishment for sin. Christ warned that "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish" (Luke 13:3).

How can we "repent and believe" as Christ demands? To repent, we must change our minds toward sin, toward ourselves, and toward God. We must turn from sin, and trust in Christ to bring forgiveness for our sins. When any sinner responds in repentance and faith to God's offer of salvation through Christ, God works a miracle in his heart. This miracle the Bible calls a "new birth" (John 1:12-13 and John 3:7). This transformation makes an individual a "new creation in Christ." The Apostle Paul wrote, "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold all things are become new" (2 Corinthians 5:17).

Do you want to be saved from the ruin that sin brings? Then turn to Jesus, who said of himself, "The Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost" (Luke 19:10).

"God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life," (John 3:16). Man becomes a Christian when he puts sin out and puts Christ at the very center of his life. There is no other road to take.



When we realize how much God loves us we begin to see our sins and realize how much we need God's forgiveness. Our own experience confirms Paul's statement that "all have sinned" (Romans 3:23).

The prophet Isaiah who lived many years before Jesus, told us not only that all have sinned, but foretold the good news that God would provide his Son, Jesus, to bear for us the penalty of our sins. "All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the Lord hath laid on him (Jesus) the iniquity of us all" (Isaiah 53:6).

Jesus offers you this salvation from sin as his free gift and as an expression of divine love. You may accept it today.

Are you refusing God's offer for sin that destroys spiritual life? He offers you eternal life on the simple conditions of repentance from sin and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. Begin now with the prayer which Jesus promised God will understand, "God be merciful to me a sinner" (Luke 18:13). If you believe, "Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved" (Romans 10:13).

LAKESHOR

Historical Church To Be Restored

By CHARLOTTE SHINN
Staff Correspondent

BASTROP, March 23 — Shortly after the Louisiana Purchase in 1803 men began to explore the great territory. Some came on Bayou Bartholomew by boat. These men brought their families, their plows, their oxen, their rifles, and their Bibles.

They brought their plows to till the soil, their oxen to pull the plows, their rifles to guard their log cabins and to supplement the food from the soil with wild game, and their Bibles (because this great nation was founded on religious freedom) to provide them with spiritual insight and devotion, to be used in burying their dead and for marrying their children. (We shudder to think what would have happentd had they brought facism or communism).

They came from the north from what is now Arkansas. They came from the south up the Ouachita river by Bayou Bartholomew. They came by wagon, on foot — but they came.

The settlers of this particular community organized the Bartholomew Methodist church, located on what is known now as the Old Bonita Road. The church is known to have been in existence in 1835 (possibly earlier) and the original building still stands today. The upper story originally housed the Masonic Lodge.

Mrs. A. C. Volk of Bastrop said that her grandfather was a charter member of that lodge and she used to play in the cemetery as a child.

As we of the present generation look upon this old building we can see the plugged holes in the floor which once held the posts supporting the rail separating the masters and their slaves. The four corners are supported by columns hewn from the wood of the forests. The rafters are poles cut from nearby woods. The board shingles were rived by hands which cleared the fields, tilled the soil, and were the very taproots of our American heritage.

This grand old building is the oldest in Morehouse parish. It is believed to be the oldest church structure in use in the state. When first organized circuit riding ministers from Vicksburg preached to the settlers.

Anyone could walk for hours through the spacious cemetery reading epitaphs and dates on the tombs of persons having lived 100 years ago or more.

About two years ago the membership of this church realized that the structure was badly in need of repair. They began to inspect and do some repair. Then they realized the job would prove a very costly one, and one which the relatively small membership (100) could not afford.

The cheapest method for them would have been to provide a new and more modern building. After some discussion over the parish the job of restoration was considered.

It was suggested that some civic club accept this challege. The Bastrop Rotary club responded, and a committee was appointed to investigate.

Allen T. Turpin, a Monroe arcih tect, was contacted and he agreed to donate his services. His estimate for the restoration was approximately $8,000.

After several meetings with the church committee the Rotary Club began definite plans for the fund raising drive.

A public meeting was held in the Police Jury Room in the Court house in Bastrop on Tuesday March 19.

Representatives from civic club, the V. F. W., and various churches were present. The history, architecture, beauty and spiritual influence of the building was sketched. Harold Runyon, co-chairman of the Rotary committee, gave a brief history of the church. Mrs. Vera Lee Roper, chairman of the church board of education gave a report of the membership. She cited the need of an adequate place of worship for the sake of the youth in the community.

Herbert A. Sisson, chairman of the board of the church, related the need of immediate action and gave a report on the actual condition of the building. Woodrow Cain co - chairman of the Rotary committee, expressed appreciation and outlined the various routes and plans of activity.

A drive begins Sunday for the purpose of restoring this great bulwark of the past and enabling her to continue her place of service for future generations of that community.

Volunteers will make a canvas of the entire Bastrop area as well as most of Morehouse parish. There are a number of china plates bearing a picture of the building which will be for sale. The W. S. C. S of the church has compiled a book of selected recipes which will be sold also.

The D. A. R., in the near furture, will erect signs directing tourists to the historic structure.

The First Methodist church in Bastrop has already made a contribution of $500 and several sizeable contributions have been received. Anyone desiring to contribute may simply send their contribution to — Rotary, Bastrop, La.

Enos James, Jr. Case Closed

OAK GROVE, March 23 (Special) — A "threatened" investigation of the West Carroll parish James case" by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People today had failed to materialize.

Parish officials at Oak Grove said they had not received indication that any investigation is in progress, or that one is contemplated. They reported no one had arrived here to obtain information, nor had any requests been received concerning the case.

Enos James, Jr., 24-year-old Negro, was sentenced at Oak Grove on March 11 to 10½ years in the state penitentiary on a charge of attempted manslaughter. Charged with a bill of information filed against him, James pleaded guilty when called up for arraignment in district court for West Carroll parish.

The case resulted from James having fired three shots from a .22 - caliber pistol at four white persons riding in an automobile the night of March 17 on highway No. 17 north of Oak Grove.

A. P. Tureaud, NAACP attorney, of New Orleans, issued a statement on March 12 to the effect that he would conduct an investigation of the "trial and sentencing of James, to determine if any civil rights were violated. Since that initial statement, however, he has remained publicly silent concerning the case.

James, when called up for arraignment, declined the court's offer for appointmeat of an attorney to represent him in the proceedings and proceeded to plead guilty to the charge against him.

FUTURE GOODYEAR SERVICE CENTER
Tom Scott, left, owner of Scott Truck and Tractor Company, and Jake V. Thrash, manager of the Goodyear Service Center, look over the new building being constructed for Goodyear. The service center will move into the building about June 1. Located at the corner of Louisville Ave. and N. 16th St., the building will have about 7,000 square feet of floor space and will include a well-equipped retread plant. Parking facilities will be provided for 62 cars. Scott owns the building and will rent it to Goodyear.

DESPITE FOREIGN POLICY ORATORY

By HERB ALTSCHULL

BONN, Germany, March 23 (AP)— Despite the sound and fury of political oratory on foreign policy West Germany's critical national election this fall is likely to be decided on this most familiar issue: The pocketbook.

This was the considered judgment today of many foreign political experts in the West German capital.

Some rumblings of economic politics could be heard in the struggle of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government to head off a sharp increase in the price of bread.

Adenauer's economic chief, Ludwig Erhard, said the government must head off a spiral of price and wage increases.

Inflation will come if the government allows a round of wage-price boosts, he said.

Erhard's statement appeared to be directed at an expected opposition Socialist charge that prices are too high and wages too low.

The bread price increase permitted was three pfennigs (three-fourths of a cent) in 2.2-pound loaves and four pfennigs (a cent) in 3-pound loaves. The bakers wanted an across-the-board five-pfennig boost (1¼ cents).

There is almost full employment in West Germany and the industrial machinery is still spinning at capacity.

But the West German worker is paid less than those in other European lands. The German Industrial Assn. reports that 75 per cent of German wage earners make less than 600 marks ($150) a month.

The extent of the Socialist shift to economic issues may be seen when the Bundestag debates plans for a common European market Thursday. Socialists have been speaking up quite a bit in opposition to some aspects of the program.

One foreign political expert said the foreign policy issue "seems to have become a kind of me-tooism with not much to choose between the parties."

Both Adenauer's Christian Democrats and the Socialists, he said, announce themselves as vigorously in favor of steps to reunity this divided country.

"It's rather like being in favor of mother," he said. "everybody's in favor of reunification."

The Socialists say West Germany should be prepared to pull out of the North Atlantic Alliance in order to gain Russian approval of reunification.

The Christian Democrats say West Germany must never sever its military ties with the West.

But both parties are anti-Communist and neither trusts the Russians. And neither has come up with a detailed program for bringing off reunification.

The Socialists talk of a Europe-wide security system as a substitute, with the Soviet Union and the United States as members.

But they have never defined this security system, and the party chief, Erich Ollenhauer, has said he would not quit NATO without the approval of the Western Allies.

"It's really not much of an issue for the voters," one foreign analyst said. "The pocketbook is."

Stolen Auto Sought

Police were conducting an area-wide search Saturday for an automobile reported stolen from the 100 block of N. 4th Street late Friday night.

The car was a 1949 blue Ford owned by Henry C Nappier of 1305 Tim Street, West Monroe. It was taken between 8 and 11 p.m. Friday.

Th two-door sedan has chrome missing from the right rear fender, and it carries Louisiana license 443-815.

Audie Murphy, the most decorated American hero of World War 2, is also a member of the Texas National Guard.

Review Of Financial, Oil, Gas News

Surplus Problem Plagues Businessmen During Week

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, March 23 (AP)—Surpluses plagued businessmen in several lines this week.

With spring in the air and hopes for a business pickup riding high there was talk of too much aluminum, too much food, too much cloth, too many appliances, too many medium-priced cars, too much gasoline and too much oil.

Cutbacks were announced at a number of key spots. Demands were heard for tighter curbs on imports.

Farmers told the Department of Agriculture they intend to plant 334 million acres to major crops this year. That's 3.2 per cent below 1956 and the smallest acreage devoted to important crops since 1917. Barring a sudden rise in yields per acre the reduction could push farm prices up.

Sharp reductions in the maximum permissable production of oil were decreed by conservation agencies in Texas and Louisiana. With the European oil crisis nearing its end, the Texas oil "allowable" for April will be reduced by more than 224,000 barrels a day.

Steel producers cut back a little this week; scheduled output of 2,302,000 tons was the lowest so far this year and 2.3 per cent below the like week last year. Behind the curtailment: Falling demand for automotive steel.

In Detroit, the industry picture was mixed. Production of some makes was trimmed sharply while others produced to the hilt. Among those stepping on the gas: Ford, Plymouth and Chevrolet. Slowing down this week were many of the leading medium-priced makes: Buick, Oldsmobile, Pontiac, Mercury.

Best news for auto retailers was the greatly improved balance between sales and production. New car inventories March 1 were slightly higher than 729,000, as against 903,789 at the same time last year. Even so, with the advent of the peak spring season the accent in most auto showrooms would be on the "hard sell."

Elsewhere on the business front, the first week of spring brought the first signs of a possible easing of the tight - money situation. Dealers in bankers' acceptances short-term loans for financing shipments of goods trimmed their interest rates a quarter of a percentage point; the U.S. Treasury sold its latest weekly issue of 91-day bills at an interest rate of 3.641 per cent, lowest in five months.

Wall Street, however, appeared unimpressed. William McChesney Martin, chairman of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System, said he sees no "conclusive trend" that the money pinch is lifting. And home building complaining that mortgage money is as hard to find as ever.

Business pricing policies returned to the spotlight this week. Cement manufacturers in the East raised their prices for the second time in six months. Other businessmen continued to bemoan the constant rise in costs of material and labor. Walter S. Hallanan, president of Plymouth Oil Co., told a congressional committee that the recent increase about 29 cents a barrel in the price of U.S. crude oil was not enough to cover the higher cost of finding oil. And the U.S. Steel Corp., said in its annual report that the "cost-price inflation is in danger of becoming a permanent feature of American life."

Prices of new cars ond some home appliances may go a little lower this spring. That's the prediction of Ewan Clague, head of the federal government's Bureau of Labor Statistics. The bureau's cost - of - living index, published at week's end, shower consumer prices in Febrary at a record high. At 118.7 per cent of the 1947-49 average, the index was 4 per cent higher than in January and at a new peak for the sixth month in a row. The bureau said you paid more for everything last month except apparel. Costs of food and clothing made the biggest gains.

Briefly over the business scene: A government study shows that it's getting fashionable for upper income families to go into hock. More than 30 per cent of U. S. families with annual incomes of $10,000 and up now indulge in on-the-curf buying via the easy payment plan. Dun & Bradstreet says 41 appliance-TV stores failed last month. Fresh from a Miami conference with Louis Wolfson, his biggest stockholder, President George Romney of American Motors Corp., said the company will be out next year with a full line of Hudson, Nash and Rambler autos. Record 1956 earnings were reported by Gulf Oil Corp., Standard Oil Co. of California, Sheil Oil Co., and Sinclair Oil Corp. Another big oil firm, Cities Service Co., said its 1956 sales reached a new high while earnings climbed 26 per cent. The Pennsylvania Railroad earned 41½ million dollars last year—its best profit since 1945. Ford Motor Co. is betting 250 million dollars that its new "Edsel" car will make a hit next fall. Ford Vice President John S. Bugas admits that the Edsel venture contains an element of risk. But, he says, business must be willing to take a chance — "It is important that business continue to take the calculated risks that are a concomitant of progress. When a country stops producing new business ventures, it must perish just as surely as if it stopped producing children."

Stock Exchange Volume Declines

NEW YORK, March 23 (AP)—The stock market had its lowest 1957 daily trading average this week.

Prices moved narrowly, putting the market barely ahead of where it was last week. The Associated Press average was up 20 cents to $173.90.

Light trading respresented a new high in caution, so far as investors are concerned. They have been very cautious for more than a month, awaiting a more clear-cut outcome of the Middle East problem and further clues as to the predicted "leveling out" of business.

To market technicians, two statistics were enlightening. The "short interest" was the largest since Sept. 15, 1955.

The other figure was of customers' net debit balances — the amount owed to member firms of the stock exchange by their customers whose stock purchases were partially on borrowed money. This figure was the lowest since August, 1955.

The five most active issues this week were: American Motors, up ¾ at 8¼; U. S. Hoffman Machinery, off ⅜ at 10½; Royal Dutch, up 1 at 45¾; Shell Transport & Trading, off ⅛ at 23¼; and Bethlerem Steel, off ⅛ at 42.

Mississippi Reports Dual Completion

JACKSON, Miss., March 23 (AP)—Mississippi oil men today reported completion of a dual oil well in Wilkinson County and production tests being made on a potential pool opener in Lincoln County last week.

The dual well was Sunray-Mid Countinent Oil Co.'s Sarah Jensen, No. 3el, KAKE Mary. The well flowed 110 barrels of oil daily from a Wilcox sand at 7,513-17 feet and 106 barrels of oil daily from another Wilcox sand at 7,543-46 feet.

A potential Lincoln County pool opener is the Shell Oil Co. Denk-Man Lumber Co. No. 1 about a mile west of the one-well Sweetwater Field in southeast Lincoln County.

Operators were running production tests on the lower Tuscaloosa sands at 10,773-809 feet.

California Co. was running drill stem tests in its Currie et al No. 1 well in the recently found Raleigh field of Smith County. Operators logged sand and oil shows at 10,970 feet.

Other oil activity during the week:

At Martinville in Simpson County, Gulf Oil Corp. was attempting to free a stuck drill pipe in its F. F. Sullivan No. 1 at 10,719 feet.

The well is a southeast diagonal offset to the discovery well and has logged shows of undetermined commercial worth at 10,347 feet.

Martinville field also was discovered this year.

In Covington County, Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. was attempting to recover sections of drill pipe stuck in the deep wildcat Miller Aultman No. 1. Operators were attempting to core the Rodessa sand. No shows have been reported at 14,329 feet.

In southeastern Walthall County, Skelly Oil Co. was rigging for its Dexter No. 1 wildcat scheduled for 13,500 feet and the first operation in the county in some time.

FPC Member Says Florida Gas Approved

BATON ROUGE, March 23 (AP)—A Federal Power Commission member today told the Baton Rouge State-Times approval has been given for a 2,600-mile natural gas pipeline from the Texas gulf coast to below Miami, Fla.

The newspaper said the joint project of the Houston Texas Gas & Oil Corp. and the Coastal Trans-

It is estimated coastal transmission will spend 75 million dollars for new pipeline facilities, with Houston gas having an outlay of 95 million for pipelines and compressor stations and another 35 million for purchase of distribution systems in Florida.

Coastal will operate the pipeline to Baton Rouge, with Houston taking over at the first compressor station, the newspaper said.

The Houston Corp. was formed as an operating company Thursday with headquarters at St. Petersburg, Fla. It will be headed by F. E. Stanley of Tulsa, Okla.

Stanley said initially the pipeline will deliver 275 million cubic feet of gas daily, but will be expanded over a two year period to flow 415 million cubic feet daily.

He said plans are under way to serve nearly 40 Florida communities with natural gas.

School Board Asks Rehearing On Court Order

NEW ORLEANS, March 23 (AP)—The Orleans Parish School Board today asked the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals for a rehearing on the court's ruling that ordered New Orleans public schools desegregated.

Attorneys Gerard A. Rault and W. Scott Wilkinson filed the rehearing application. They stated in affirming the labor court's decision.

Rault and Wilkinson said one point on which the court erred was when it held that the suit seeking desegregation was not against the state of Louisiana.

The state cannot be sued by a citizen without its consent.

OIL AND GAS

Louisiana And New Mexico Tops In Finding Reserves

HOUSTON, March 23 (AP)—Louisiana and New Mexico made the most impressive gains last year in boosting crude oil and natural gas reserves.

With a major assist from offshore discoveries, Louisiana nearly passed California as the nation's second leading oil reserves state.

New Mexico strengthened its grasp on third place among natural gas states by boosting reserves 22 per cent. Top-ranked Texas made a 3 per cent gain and second-ranked Louisiana 7 per cent.

Six of the top 10 oil states saw their crude reserves drop a total of 220 million barrels. Louisiana erased this with a healthy 12 per cent gain of 420 million barrels.

Only three natural gas states saw their reserves decline and all three drops were minor.

There were no changes in rankings among the first 10 crude oil states but Colorado edged ahead of Mississippi as the eighth largest in natural gas reserves. Colorado boosted its gas reserves seven per cent.

Montana, with a 10 per cent gain, took over the No. 11 spot for crude, moving ahead of Arkansas, which had a three per cent decline.

The American Petroleum Institute and the American Gas Assn. gave their estimates this week.

Crude reserves last year increased 422 million barrels despite record production that exceeded 2½ billion barrels. Natural gas reserves increased 14 trillion cubic feet, the increase exceeding net production by nearly four trillion cubic feet.

Louisiana's reserves were 546 million barrels below second-ranked California. A year later Louisiana was only 96 million behind. California reserves having declined 30 million barrels.

Crude reserves at the end of 1956 totaled 30,434,649,000 barrels compared to a year earlier 30,012,170,000. Natural gas reserves at the end of 1956 exceeded 237 trillion cubic feet, compared to 223 trillion.

Country Has No Industry, But 10th In Workers

MEADVILLE, Miss., March 23 (AP) — Franklin County has no industry — and ranks 10th in the state in percentage of industrial workers among its people.

The paradox results from the fact the county is nestled between three of the state's industrial centers — Natchez, Brookhaven and McComb.

Every working day, citizens of this county leave by the hundreds for their jobs in those cities. In the evening they return to their quiet homes in the Meadville area.

The traffic between here and Natchez is the heaviest. They travel not only by private car but also by chartered bus. Car pools are popular.

Mayor R. G. Saxon is proud that his citizens have the gumption to go into other counties to get jobs. He wishes, though, that the county had some industry of its own.

Some of the commuters travel as far as 65 miles, twice a day, to their jobs. Employes of the International Paper, Johns-Manville and Armstrong Rubber plants in Natchez have chartered special buses for the 30-mile trip.

Franklin County is ready for industry. The pool of trained labor is already here. A major drawback was removed last month when natural gas systems were brought to Meadville and Bude. There is plenty of electric power, two railroads, good highways, good private stands of timber — some of the best pine in the nation.

Mayor Saxon says three of the best industrial sites in the state have been staked out — one at Meadville, one at Bude and one at Roxie. He hopes some day to keep the commuters at home.

Wheat Futures Under Pressure By Liquidations

CHICAGO, March 23 (AP)—Liquidation by longs remained a depressing influence in the wheat futures market on the Board of Trade this week.

There were some indications that the heavy selling may let up, however. Losses were only minor Friday. In one session—Wednesday—prices even moved upward.

Corn also was under hedging pressure most of the week. Rye and soybeans dipped under liquidation. Oats held fairly steady.

Wheat ended the week 2⅞ to 6¼ cents lower than a week ago Friday. Corn was ⅝ to 1¾ lower, oats ¾ higher to 1¼ lower, rye 2 to 5¼ lower, soybeans 1⅛ to 3⅜ lower, and lard 37 to 50 cents a hundred pounds down.

Rap 'Strings' As Endangering Aid Program

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP) — The Brookings Institution said tonight "political and economic strings" attached by Congress are endangering the foreign aid program.

Restrictions placed on aid, a Brookings report said, "take a heavy toll of time and manpower" and "reduce flexibility of action."

Underlining what it called a need for minimizing restrictions and giving administrators greater flexibility, it said, "is the increasing political and economic competition from the Soviet Union."

The report was made public by a special Senate committee in advance of action on the administration's $4,400,000,000 foreign aid program for the fiscal year starting July 1. It is one of a series of reports prepared for the committee, which has been studying foreign aid.

OIL WILDCATTING RISKY BUISINESS

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP)—economic risks of the search for oil is strewn with as many economic skeletons as the trail of the oiltive of being the one in a thousand wildcatter."

Thus did Walter Hallanan, president of Plymouth Oil Co. and chairman of the National Petroleum Council, emphazie to a congressional committee this week the "No industrial path in the worldthat keeps these pioneers going," Hallanan said of the wildcatters. "It is only the urge and incen-country to realize that the indivi-dual wildcatter is responsible for the fact that the we today have adequate supplies of petroleum and its products, because he has discovered 75 per cent of the oil we have in this country."

Hallanan testified before the House Commerce Committee in its double-barreled inquiry into oil price increases and operation of the emergency oil-for-Western Europe program. The council he heads is an industry advisory group set up at the request of the government.

Hallanan told the committee the number of oil wells drilled this year is the lowest in six years despite the "slight encouragement" of the crude oil price increase of last January.

"Instead of going forward to meet the continued increase in demand and to maintain adequate reserves for the future, we are not even holding our own, he testified.

"We are slipping backward, and for the simple reason that prudent men cannot be expected to assume the enormous hazards of searching for oil, knowing in advance that even if they are...successful they will receive a price for their product that will not give adequate return for their investment."

Cotton Futures Follow Erratic Course In Week

NEW YORK, March 23 (AP) — Cotton futures prices developed erratic trends this week but finished with all deliveries on the upside.

Net gains were moderate. Best showing was made by the nearer months.

Among the chief bullish factors were mill price fixing and short covering in the nearer months. Some buying was stimulated by the belief that the final loan rate on 1957 crop cotton would be higher than the previously announced guaranteed minimum and might even approximate the present support level.

Influences which tended to pull the market lower included new reports of beneficial rains in Texas, and a net decline in the 1956 loan stock during the week ended March 15.

An encouraging report on the latest sales of government-held cotton under the surplus export program was awaited by many traders.

Rumors that the official report on the March 19 auction might be delayed was interpreted by many as indicating that the government had disposed of a large volume of cotton for sale to the export trade.

Somewhat less encouraging was the latest report on domestic consumption. U. S. mills in February consumed cotton at the rate of 34,200 bales a day. While this was a slight improvement over the daily rate of 33,600 bales in January, the increase was well below the average January - February rate of gain over the past five years. The February rate was considerably lower than the year-ago consumption level of 38,000 bales a day.

Consumption for the current season through February totaled 5,278,000 bales against 5,432,000 bales at the same time last season, it was pointed out.

Exports of U. S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 203,000 bales. This compared with 156,000 bales the previous week and only 59,000 in the corresponding week of 1956. Exports for the season through March 19 were estimated at 5,268,000 bales vs. 1,020,000 bales at approximately the same time last year.

How I stunned my mother-in-law

It wasn't that I didn't like the old girl, you understand. It was simply that she thought I didn't know anything about money. One day I mentioned it to a friend.

"Do you own any common stock?" he said.

"No," I said, "but what's that got to do with my mother-in-law?"

"Do you own any bonds?" he said.

"No," I said, "but what's that got to..."

"When you own common stock," he said, "you own part of the company. When it makes a profit you get your share in dividends. If it grows the way some of 'em have been growing, the value of your stock can grow, too. While you work for one company you're part-owner of another. Income from both. Smart, eh?"

"I was talking about my mother-in-law," I said.

"When you own the usual kind of bonds," he said, "the company owes you money. It pays you interest and in the end it pays back the bond. But don't let anybody slip anything over on you. Get the facts before you buy stocks or bonds. You can't afford to risk your money on tips. Stock prices go up and down. A company may not make a profit or pay a dividend."

"Look," I said, "what's that got to do with my..."

"Get yourself a little book," he said. "INVESTMENT FACTS," it's called. It's free. Shows the records of about 280 stocks on the New York Stock Exchange that have paid cash dividends every three months for 20 to 92 years. Think of that!"

"Look, George," I said. "You've got me kind of interested. But the subject of our conversa—"

"Not only that, it tells you about the Monthly Investment Plan. With the Plan you can become a shareowner in some of the most famous companies in America for as little as $40 every three months. Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The rain check is still with us.

When the professional baseball circus struck its tent and departed from the Monroe scene at the close of last season, we figured the end of the rain check here, but the Twin City Speedway, where the stock cars have been seeking to build a fandom of their own the last two weeks, had occasion to pass out the rain stubs last Sunday.

Weather permitting, the automobiles will run again this afternoon on the dirt track off the Natchitoches and Downing Pines roads. A big crowd was on hand last Sunday to see all events except the feature race before rain made the track to slick for the final. Thus all the folks who were on hand last week can re-enter the track today on last week's stubs.

Of course, rains during the week still do not call for perfect conditions today unless warm sun and wind has had time to offset the water. At the same time, Oliver Cloyd, who constructed the track on his land, is continuing to improve the plans with the erection of bleachers and other work when he can direct the work while running his regular business.

Gerald Greenway, the speedway manager, is still busy drumming up interest among the drivers of the area, and more busy preparing cars for the races. Before the summer is too close upon us, the track conditions should be more favorable, more cars will be entering for full afternoons of racing, and the folks who like the thrills of speeding, swerving, and sometimes rolling out of control cars can get their fill. It's a sport the entire family can enjoy.

The Richland parish sheriff's department is going into the baseball business with Sheriff Earl E. Hill and his staff planning a complete program for boys 13 and 14 years of age—The Dixie League.

The program, widely recognized as valuable recreational experience and authorized by the 1954 legislature as a program to combat juvenile delinquency, and, as Sheriff Hill puts it: "Funds spent for this program will be of tremendous value to the whole parish in worthwhile results."

Plans are to equip three teams in Rayville, three in Delhi and two in Mangham. Boys of the Holly Ridge and Start areas will be invited to participate with the Rayville teams.

Down Ferriday way, George R. Perry, state director of Little Boys Baseball, Inc., is showing new growth for the eight-to-twelve baseball playing kids who have 19 leagues operating in Louisiana last summer.

All 1956 members are back for another season, Perry advises, plus the addition of Bossier City and Morgan City. Oak Grove, Metarie, Bastrop, and Jonesville are also studying possibilities of Little Boys Leagues, and they may join before the season's entry deadline on April 15.

West Monroe operated two leagues in this organization last year and plans to continue both this season.

Late M'Million 3-Point Play Saves Braves

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK, March 23 (AP) — Shellie McMillon's three-point play with 29 seconds left gave Bradley an uphill 84-83 victory over Memphis State today for the championship of the 20th annual National Invitation (NIT) basketball tournament.

An afternoon turnout of 11,327 in Madison Square Garden saw midnight strike for the Memphis State Cinderellas after they apparently had won the game on Jack Butcher's basket with 65 seconds left after once trailing by 15 points in the first half.

Most of the thrills in the nationally televised contest came in the second half after Memphis State had reeled off seven straight points to take a 10-point advantage at 64-54.

But the Braves from Peoria, had come from 21 points behind to beat Xavier of Ohio in the quarter-finals, did it again.

The underdog Tennessee Tigers led by 73-65 with 10 minutes left when three straight jump shots by big Barney Cable put the second-seeded Braves back on the beam.

A free throw by Bobby Joe Mason made it 73-32, then Bobby put the Braves ahead with a corner shot. The lead changed hands in quick succession on baskets by Win Wilfong and McMillon with a free throw by McMillon tying the score at 77-77 with six minutes left.

A set shot by Dick Dhabalt made it 79-77. With four minutes to go, Wilfong committed his fifth personal foul and left the game. Dhabalt added two free throws and seemingly sewed it up for Bradley 81-77.

But more fireworks were to come. Little 5-9 Butcher sank a jump shot and passed to Ron Ragan for a layup that tied the score at 81-81 with three minutes left.

McKoin Seeking Revenge In Match With Shields

"Irish Johnny" McKoin, hard punching Bastrop welterweight, who whipped Armando Flores, Houston, Tex., at Beaumont last Monday night, comes back to Monroe in quest of revenge when he faces Kenny Shields, Houston, in the ten-round main event of a Tuesday night boxing card at Gus Kallio's Arena.

Shields won a split decision in six rounds over McKoin here last January. It was only the second loss in his many appearances here and McKoin, who was whaling the Texan all over the ring in the last two rounds of the January match, is anxious for the chance to get revenge.

Promoter Kallio has scaled his prices down in respect to the usual charge for the past year or so as he was bringing in fighters from distant parts and such boxers as Del Flanagan, Ernie Smith and Jimmy Martinez took heavy guarantees.

"I won't have the expense load for this card," Kallio said, "and will give the fans the benefit of my own saving."

The first five ringside rows go for $2.50 per seat, and the next two rows at $1.50. General admission is $1, but Kallio will sell these seats for 90 cents if the correct change is ready.

Clarence Cook, Bastrop middleweight, fresh from the defeat of Jim Hegerle at St. Paul, Minn., two weeks ago, will serve as a retree on Tuesday's card.

Sub 4-Minute Mile Racers Get 9th Man

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 23 (AP)—Mervyn Lincoln, a 24-year-old school teacher from Stawell, Victoria, became the ninth member of the growing four-minute mile fraternity today with a 3:59 clocking in a special meet at Melbourne University.

The third Aussie to reak bthe barrier, Lincoln was barely winded after the race and said he thought he could have done even better.

His coach is Austrian-born Franze Stampfl who coached England's Roger Bannister to the first four-minute mile in 1954.

Australia's John Landy, also a schoolteacher, holds the world record of 5:58, his best time of six under-four-minute performances during his brilliant career. Jim Bailey, a student at the University of Oregon, is the other Australian to have cracked the barrier.

He becomes the fourth four-minute miler produced by Stampfl, who was brought to Australia from Oxford to develop this country's middle and long distance runners. In addition to Bannister, Britons Chris Chataway and Brian Hewson did the trick while under Stampfl's tutelage.

Other members of the international four - minute fraternity are Hungarian refugee Laszlo Tabori; Ron Delany, Villanova student from Ireland; and Gunnar Nielson of Denmark

L.S.U. Hosts A.A.U. Track, Field Events

BATON ROUGE, March 23 — (UP)—The 1957 Southern AAU track and field championships will be held on the Louisiana State University campus April 26 and 27, SAAU President Lawrence Di Beneddetto announced today.

Team entries are expected in the senior division from McNeese State, Southwestern Louisiana, Northwestern Louisiana, South - eastern Louisiana and Louisiana State.

Louisiana State is the defending champion.

In addition, individual entries of collegiate trackmen from Ole Miss., Mississippi State, Loyola and Tulane are expected.

The junior division is expected to attract many high school track and field athletes competing unattached.

The junior division meet will be Friday, April 26th, and the senior competition will be Saturday, April 27th.

The SAAU meet dates back to the turn of the century and is one of the oldest in the nation. The 1957 meet will be the first in Baton Rouge since the middle forties.

Fifteen events are scheduled for the junior division and 17 for the senior division. Both divisions will have the 100, 220 and 440 yard dashes, the half mile and mile runs, the 120 yard high hurdles and the 220 yard low hurdles, the high jump, the broad jump and the hop, step and jump, the pole vault, shot put, discus, javelin, and mile relay.

The two additional events in the senior division will be the 440 yard intermediate hurdles and the two mile run.

Greenies Shut Out On 2 Hits; Maroons Win

NEW ORLEANS, March 23 (AP) —Jim Pruitt limited Tulane to two hits today as he pitched Mississippi State to a 4-0 Southeastern Conference baseball victory. The game was stopped after 5½ innings because of rain.

The second half of the scheduled doubleheader was canceled.

Mississippi State got three runs in the first inning on two walks, two wild pitches, two errors and a single by James McNally. The final run came in the fifth inning on a walk, a sacrifice, a wild pitch and Molly Halbert's single.

Delta, Little 8 Leagues Meet Monday Night

Final organizational meeting for the Delta League and the Little Eight League for the coming season is scheduled for tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at the P. and K. Cafe in West Monroe, Don Zeigler said last night.

"We want every club that plans to play this summer represented," Zeigler said. "We've been holding open for some of our old members, but Monday night we're going to organize with those who are ready."

RING NEWCOMERS

4 Welters Put New Spark Into Boxing

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, March 23 (AP) — Four young welterweights, comparative newcomers to big time boxing, are injecting a little zest in the sport, a lift that's badly needed.

The four are Walt Byars, Tony DiBiase, Stefan Redl and Sugar Hart. Combined they have a record of 68 victories, five losses and two draws.

Byars, an ex-marine who served with the leathernecks from 1951 to 1954, is 25 and the oldest of the quartet. He also is the more advanced of the group and probably most capable of giving the top-ranking 147 - pounders a run for their money.

Unbeaten in his last 11, Walt, a an overall record of 17-2-1. The clever Bostonian whipped Kid Gavilan, the ex-welter boss, and Hart in his last two starts.

It was the win over the hard-hitting Hart that earned Byars, a part - time social worker, nationwide attention in his television debut. He is ranked ninth contender by the N. B. A.

Although he looked like a novice at times against Byars at Madison Square Garden, March 8, Hart has tremendous potential. The skinny, 5-11, 21-year-old Philadelphian had gone knockout crazy and the licking may do him a lot of good. He has a 20-2 record including 18 kayos. He had won 12 straight, including the last seven by knockouts, when Byars taught him you've got to catch a rantked 10th.

Redl, a Hungarian - born German now living at Passaic, N. J., has a 13-0 record, including 10 knockouts, for his 11 months of pro battling. Although he decisively outpointed former lightweight champion Paddy DeMarco, the superbly conditioned import is not yet ready for the ranking welters. Al (Rocky) Milone, a prelim fighter at best right now, had him on the floor twice.

At this stage, the 24-year old Redl is a good puncher, good boxer and a fine drawing card. He has developed a big following in New Jersey and at New York's St. Nicholas Arena where he has been promoted to main event class.

DiBiase is another crowd pleaser. The 21-year-old New York University geology student has compiled an 18-1-1 record. He has an unbeaten streak of 19 since losing his first bout. A solid body puncher, the aggressive youngsters give the fans plenty of action. Tony, too, is about a year away from the top flight 147-pounders.

Gents Invade Ruston Field To Face Tech

RUSTON, La., March 23 (Special) — With a chance to even up the won-loss record for the season, Louisiana Tech's baseballers will clash with Centenary College here Monday afternoon at 3 p.m.

The non-conference tussle will be Tech's fourth straight home contest this spring and will give Coach Berry Hinton's Techmen a chance to get back to the .500 mark. In the first two tilts of the season the Bulldogs dropped two to Mississippi but came back strong in the third bout to take a surprising 5-0 win over the Shreveport Sports.

Tech's starting lineup for the Monday bout with the Gents will likely be about the same as in the first three contests. That would put Curtis Allen as catcher, Billy Till at first, Clyde Thompson or Eddie Joyce at second, Glen Schuler at shortstop, Wade Scott at third, and Melvin Colvin, Bob Shores and Doug Robertson in the outfield.

Pitchers Jim Knotts, Jesse Mercer, Gene Barham and Ronnie Coil have all looked good in limited roles so far this spring and one or more of this quartet will probably get into the Monday fray.

Knotts, a Doyline senior, was the winner against the Shreveport Sports Wednesday. He went three innings and allowed the professionals only one hit. Barham worked three and gave up two while Mercer pitched the last three without a hit being made.

If the action of Tech and Centenary against a common opponent, Mississippi, can be taken as an indication, the two nines may be pretty well matched. Ole Miss trimmed the Techsters 5-2 (in 10 innings) and 14-3, while the Rebels took the Gents in two battles, 11-1 and 3-0.

Five Changes Recommended In Cage Rules

KANSAS CITY, March 23 (AP)— After three days of discussions, the nation's college basketball coaches sent to the rules committee today five recommendations for changes aimed primarily at cutting down excessive fouling and effectiveness of the big men.

The rules committee, headed by Tony Hinkle of Butler College, will meet Sunday and Monday.

The coaches recommended:

1. That the first six personal fouls in each half, not in the act of shooting, carry only a one-shot penalty. After these six fouls, the one-and-one bonus rule goes into effect in which a bonus shot is allowed if the first free throw is made. On penalties in the act of shooting, two shots will be given as usual.

2. That players of both teams be prohibited from touching the ball on rebounds when it is on the rim or in the cylinder, the imaginary area above the rim of the basket. This is designed to prevent tap-ins when the ball is in the particular position and to cut down the easy 'stuff" shots of players like 7-foot Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas.

3. Out-of-bounds balls in the backcourt may be taken out at any part of the end line, disregarding the 12-foot restraining line under the basket now in effect.

4. The clock to be stopped on every whistle and time to be resumed when the ball comes in contact with a player in bounds. This includes time outs when the ball goes out-of-bounds. This recommendation carries with it the suggestion that there be no additional opportunitites for substitution.

5. That the 1947-58 rule requiring even and odd numbering of uniforms for home and out-of-town games, respectively, be abandoned.

The coaches' suggestions are normally accepted by the rules committee.

Tuesday Meeting On Docket For Little Boys Loop

West Monroe Coach Dan McClure announced yesterday that the Little Boys Baseball League of West Monroe will hold a meeting in the City Hall Tuesday night at seven o'clock.

McClure invited everyone interested in the program to attend including parents.

The registration of players for both the Little Boys loop and the Dixie League will end on Saturday, March 30. McClure stated that until that date all boys who wish to play may register at 90 Cypress Street and at the City Hall.

CITRUS CIRCUIT

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitcher Ruben Gomez, the New York Giants's annual spring problem child, and two junior members of Milwaukee's vaunted staff, kept the hurlers ahead of the hitters yesterday along the citrus trail.

A notoriously poor spring pitcher, Gomez, who reported late to training, made his first start yesterday and shut out the Cleveland Indians in his three inning stint as the Giants won 9-3.

The Braves defeated Chicago's White Sox 5-1 for their third consecutive victory as Bob Trowbrid 26-year-old second line pitcher and Red Murff, the 35-year-old sophomore limited the Sox to seven hits.

In other games, the St. Louis Cardinals tripped Cincinnati 5-1, Rip Coleman and Alex Kellner of Kansas City four-hit Washington 5-1, Philadelphia nipped Detroit 3-2, Baltimore defeated the Chicago Cubs 3-2, and Boston downed San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League 9-3.

Willie Mays hit two home runs for the Giants and Gail Harris and rookie Ossie Virgil one apiece as the Giants blasted Indian starter Bob Lemon for five runs and eight hits. Rocky Colavito homered for Cleveland.

Murff knocked in what proved to be Milwaukee's winning run in the seventh and shut out the White Sox on three hits in the four innings. Trowbridge gave up three hits in the first inning then held Chicago to a lone hit for the next four stanzas.

The Cardinals broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning for their victory, pushing across two runs and adding single tallies in the sixth and seventh.

Bob Cerv homered off Dick Brodowski in the fifth for a 1-1 tie and Kansas City went out ahead to stay with two in the sixth. Coleman, who gave up the lone Senator run, pitched six innings to gain credit for the victory.

Philadelphia used two of its three hits in the fourth inning for a three-run rally to subdue Detroit. A single by Bob Bowman with the bases loaded and a sacrifice fly brought across the final two tallies.

Baltimore scored lone runs in the fifth, seventh and ninth after the Cubs had taken a 2-0 lead in the second inning, to beat Chicago with only five hits.

Death Stalks Grand Prix

SEBRING, Fla., March 23 (UP) —The first fatality in the seven year history of the Sebring International Grand Prix of endurance occurred Saturday when 33-year-old Bob Goldrich of Chicago overturned his sports car on a dreaded "S" curve and was killed.

The young captain of the Arnolt-Bristol factory team went into a skid, hit the curbing and his car turned over as it ground to a stop, pinning Goldrich underneath.

A crowd of 30,000 watched silently as a helicopter went in at the scene of the crash, a mile and one half down the twisting 5.2 mile track, and brought out the driver's body. Goldrich was pronounced dead at a nearby emergency hospital.

S. H. (Whacky) Arnolt of Warsaw, Ind., who produces the British-American cars in this country, immediately withdrew has two remaining cars from the race.

"Several people asked us to leave our cars in the race," Arnolt said. "But we are only amateurs and there is no sense in risking the lives of our other drivers."

Arnolt said he had relinquished the wheel to Goldrich only minutes before the fatal crash.

"I told him that the car was in good condition and warned him not to take that curve too fast," Arnolt said.

"I know just what can happen when you hit that corner going too fast," he added. "I was just behind Carlos Menditiguay last year when he cracked up on that same turn."

Menditiguay, an Argentine driver, was seriously injured in the race last year. He did not enter the race this year.

"Bob and I have been driving together for three years," Arnolt said. "There's not much I can say about his death. What can you say when someone you dearly love gets killed?"

Goldrich, married and the father of two boys, started racing midgets in New England in 1939. He later switched to sports cars and made his debut here in 1954, driving Brooks Stevens' Excalibur. Since then he has driven Arnolt-Bristols, sharing the wheel with Arnolt.

He was scheduled to drive with Arnolt in the gruelling 24-hour race at Le Mans, France, next June 22-23.

C. Smith, coach.

Three Indian Hurlers Give Up Three Hits

By LEMMIE HIGHTOWER

After soaking five and one-half innings of a drizzling rain the Northeast Louisiana State Indians came to life here yesterday afternoon to sack a 4-2 win over Delta State of Cleveland, Miss. The game, opener of the season for the Redmen, was called at the end of seven frames due to the continuing downpour.

Right fielder Jim Laudadio tripled across catcher Guy Gannaway with the winning run and then scampered across the plate himself on a relay error in the bottom half of the seventh inning to give the Northeast the final margin.

Trailing 2-0 in the sixth inning, outfielder Vernon Freeman had belted the first Tribe tally through with a triple that scored John Freeman. John had been placed on first base seconds earlier by an error. A sacrifice by Homer Rouse brought Vernon home to deadlock the affair and set the stage for the seventh-frame explosion.

The rain began to increase and Gannaway was on base with a single when the Laudadio swat came.

Carroll George, the third Indian pitcher of the afternoon, received credit for the triumph. Starter "Bo" Laird traveled three innings, giving up one hit and striking out a total of six Statesmen. Joseph Gross followed Laird on the hill for two stanzas of work before giving way to George.

The two runs by Delta State came in the fourth inning at the expense of Gross. Shortstop Billy Wells lifted the lid on the fest when he was safe on an error and stole second. Outfielder "Doc" Bono socked a double that scored Wells and advanced to third on an error. John Hamner's triple brought Bono home before the rally was halted.

Starter Parker Bryant was charged with the loss, going six and one-third innings. He was replaced by Ken Lauderdale who stopped the Indian run-around with two fast strike-outs.

ROOKIE - OF - YEAR FORECAST

Kubek, Rodgers Looming As Best

By JOE REICHLER

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 23 (AP) — Tony Kubek of the New York Yankees and Andre Rodgers of the New York Giants — a pair of yearling infielders not even listed on a big league roster — were the writers' selections today to capture rookie - of - the-year honors in their respective leagues in 1957.

Kubek, the most intriguing young player in the Yankee camp since Mickey Mantle came up from Joplin in 1951, is picked to beat out catcher Haywood Sullivan of Boston, outfielder Jim Landis of Chicago, pitcher Don Lee of Detroit and outfielder Roger Maris of Cleveland for top freshman American League honors.

Others who figure to make a strong bid, include second baseman Bobby Richardson, Yankees; pitcher Bud Daley and catcher Russ Nixon, Cleveland; and third baseman Brooks Robinson and pitcher Charley Beamon, Baltimore.

Rodgers, who apparently has pushed himself into the Giants' starting lineup as the regular shortstop, is chosen over such impressive looking National League newcomers as pitcher Juan Pizzaro, Milwaukee; second baseman Casey Wyse, Chicago; pitchers Don Cardwell and Jack Sanford and shortstop John Kennedy, Phillies; catcher Danny Kravitz, Pittsburgh; pitcher Rene Valdes, Brooklyn and pitcher Tom Cheney, St. Louis.

Kubek, a .331 hitter last year at Denver, which still has title to him, is listed as a shortstop but recognized as the No. 1 candidate for left field on the Yankees. The 21-year-old, 6-3, 190-pounder from Milwaukee has shown Manager Casey Stengel and practically everyone else he can play anywhere — and do an outstanding job.

So far Kubek has played shortstop, left, right and center field and has performed his chores with distinction. In explaining his reasons for shifting his talented rookie from position to position, Manager Stengel said:

"I'm not trying to find out where he can play. What I want to know is where he can't play."

Rodgers, a 22-year-old native of Nassau in the Bahamas, came practically out of nowhere to emerge as the most exciting player in all of Arizona. Brought up merely for a look, the rangy 6-2 chattel of the Minneapolis Millers, has impressed everyone with his long - range hitting and smooth fielding.

Although he failed to reach .300 at Dallas last year, Andre hit 21 home runs and currently leads all Giant hitters in homers.

An indication of the high regard others have for Rodgers was given by Paul Richards, manager of the Orioles, who revealed he offered $100,000 for Giants' newest glamour boy.

One of the best looking rookie players in Florida has been Sullivan, the 215 - pound 6-4 Red Sox receiver. The big boy, who starred as quarterback on the Florida University football team, threatens to wrest the No. 1 catching job away from Sammy White. A long ball, righthanded hitter, suitable for Fenway Park, Sully batted .295 at San Francisco last year.

Landis, a 23-year-old Richmond, Calif., flychaser, led the White Sox with a batting mark of .394 through the first 10 exhibition games, was tops in hits with 13 and runs batted in with 11. Barring a sudden collapse, he figures to open the season in right field in place of Jim Rivera.

The 6-4, 200 - pounder made an auspicious debut with the Tigers, holding the Red Sox hitless in three innings and followed it up with three more runless innings against the Yankees.

Richardson, who batted .328 at Denver is regarded as a certain major leaguer. He was considered the best player in the American Association last year.

Pizzaro, who produced 23 victories in 29 decisions, struck out 318 and walked only 48 in Jacksonville last year, recently retired 12 straight Redlegs in a four-inning stint.

Valdes made his Brooklyn debut with the bases loaded and none out in the eighth inning against Detroit. He retired the next three batters on infield popups, then added two more popups in the ninth before getting Harvey Kuenn to bounce back to the box to end the game. He followed that performance with three hitless innings against the Cardinals.

Other rookies who appear to have a good chance of making the big league grade include pitchers Fred Kipp and Bob Darnell, Dodgers; Catcher Cal Neeman, pitchers Dave Hillman and Gene Fodge and outfielder Jim Bolger, Cubs; third baseman Ossie Virgil, Giants; first baseman Ed Bouchee, Phillies; outfielders John Powers and Dick Stuart, Pirates; pitcher Bob Smith, Cardinals; outfielder Carl Powis, Orioles; infielder Frank Malzone, Red Sox; pitcher Roger Howard and catcher Earl Battey, White Sox; pitcher Ralph Terry and first baseman Marv Throneberry, Yankees; second baseman Milton Graff and outfielder Jim Pisoni, Athletics, and pitchers Ted Abernathy and Dick Hyde; outfielder Neil Chrisley and second baseman Dick Harris, Senators.

Wham Report For Wildlife Unit Tuesday

Negotiations between the Ouachita Unit of the Wildlife Federation and the International Paper Company concerning regualtions on Wham Brake will be reported on at a meeting of the unit Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Virginia Hotel.

Vice-president Bob Downing will make the report and all interested outdoorsmen are invited to attend. Club members are urged to be present.

Jack Rushing will report on the seasons selected at the past federation convention at Alexandria and a membership drive will be organized also.

Two duck hunting films will be shown at the meeting, President Bud Tidwell said. Two door prizes will be given also, he explained.

Downing was selected to represent the local club in its dealings with International Paper Company. The company recently announced that several meetings will be held in regards to the regulations.

OUTDOORS

By DION HENDERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

A basis for settlement of one of the bitterest disputes between wildlife and agricultural authorities appears to be evolving on the highest national level.

And out of that settlement may develop a formula that would make fish and game a paying crop for the farmer — in other words, some practical form of the long-debated "wildlife subsidy."

Two obviously related developments — one in the Department of Agriculture, one in the Department of Interior — provide grounds for the speculation.

From agriculture comes a spelling-out of a revised wetlands drainage program. Signed by D. A. Williams, administrator of the Soil Conservation Service and P. M. Korger, administrator of the Agricultural Conservation Program, the joint "guidelines" memo is directed specifically to S.C.S. and A.C.S. groups and officials in Minnesota, South Dakota and North Dakota.

The memo specifically directs that hereafter not only will wildlife values be weighed in connection with proposed drainage projects before they are started, but — and here's the major point — they'll be weighed by fish and game officials. And the wildlife people will have a stated period in which to suggest modifications or make alternative proposals to landowners involved.

The actual rules for determining whether wetlands are suitable for inclusion under subsidized drainage programs aren't changed, but the inclusion of wildlife people in the investigative stage means an end to what many fish and game leaders charged hotly was "cheating" on the definitions.

Crux of the new order is a section that directs the agricultural field men involved to establish and encourage policies directed at improvement of habitat for waterfowl and other wildlife; to inform farmers "about the significant wildlife values of the wetlands involved and call to their attention the alternative opportunities of improving the site for wildlife," including practices under the soil bank; to consider with the farmer "ways of replacing the significant habitat values that will be lost by drainage," and:

"If the farmer's decision to drain the area is not altered, and if the pothole is a permanent one and of apparent significant wildlife value, inform the farmer that the S.C.S. cannot give him further drainage assistance until the state fish and game agency has had a reasonable opportunity to inspect the area, make a determination of its wildlife value and if found valuable for wildlife, make him an alternative proposal for maintaining and improving the area for wildlife."

And that "alternative proposal" brings into the open the rest of the developing situation: remuneration for raising the public game crop on private lands.

Ross L. Leffler, assistant interior secretary for fish and wildlife, include in the prepared text of a address scheduled for delivery to the north American wildlife conference earlier this month, a reference to some of the forthcoming recommendations in the service's new 10-year management program.

Specifically, he referred to a recommendation that landowners be compensated directly for land management practices beneficial to fish and wildlife.

That's a fair sketch of the "game subsidy" idea that many game managers have been saying may come — and come soon — or the quantities of games needed for large scale public hunting will go.

Leffler didn't deliver that portion of his speech to the conference. Sources close to the assistant secretary say he skipped it — but didn't withdraw it from his distributed text — because he wasn't prepared to go into details which certainly would have been brought up in a question — and — answer program scheduled after his address.

And those same sources say that formal enunciation of the proposal awaits only the time when those details can be worked out.

Demons' Track Team Defeats S.L.I. Rivals

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 23 (AP)—Northwestern State College defeated Southwestern Louisiana Institute 63-23 today in a dual track and field meet halted by rain after 10 events.

The meet had been scheduled as a triangular event, but Northeast State did not show up.

Hurdler M. B. Childress and fieldman Harold White each won two first places. Childress won the 120-yard high hurdles in 15:1 and the 220-yard low hurdles in 24:5. White won the high jump with a leap of six feet, three inches and took the broad jump with 21 feet, five inches.

SLI had only one first place. Billy Calloway won the javelin event with a toss of 190 feet, six inches.

Promised Land Cops Gold Cup Race At Bowie

BOWIE, Md., March 23 (AP)—Promised Land, one of three entries of Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs, romped home in front of 14 other three-year-olds to win the $35,750 Governor's Gold Cup race at Bowie today.

A neck back in the seven-furlong race was Mister Jive, two and a half lengths in front of Nah Hiss. Pro-Brandy, one of the favorites, lost his rider a quarter-mile from the finish when he clipped the heels of another horse.

Promised Land paid $8.20, $3.80 and $2.80. Mister Jive, $5.20 and $4 and Nah Hiss $4.80.

20-SECOND PITCH

Rule Changes Get Second Lookover

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

Major league managers and club officials predict the 1957 season will see more rhubarbs than ever unless two changes are made in the playing rules.

The two rules which have the umpires as well as the managers and players confused are those which prohibit a batter from stepping out of the box once a pitcher toes the rubber, and the one requiring a pitcher to deliver the ball within 20 seconds after receiving it on the mound.

Al Lopez, manager of the White Sox, is especially opposed to the changes, which are designed to speed up the game. The 20-second rule has been in the books a long time but this is the first season in a longwhile that umpires have been directed to enforce it.

Manager Frank Lane of the Cardinals agrees, that the new rule actually amounts to "legalizing the quick pitch."

"It is absurd," Lopez claimed. "Under the rule, a pitcher could knock a batter down and then deliver the next pitch before the batter had a chance to get back in the box."

"It just won't work," Lane agreed, "unless the umpires adopt a uniform code which will protect the batter as well as the pitcher."

Lopez pointed out some of the situations which already have arisen and which could lead to a lot of arguments this season:

With a man on third base and rookie pitcher in the box, the batter could step out of the box, although it is not legal for him to do so, with the result that the kid pitcher would stop his windup, thus committing a balk. It happened against the White Sox in an exhibition game against the Tigers.

Technically, a batter could not call time if he got some dirt in his eye, or if there was a sudden whirlpool of dust, as the pitcher toes the rubber. For under the rule, only the umpires can call time once the pitcher gets set in the box.

If a pitcher does not deliver the ball within 20 seconds, a ball is called on him. Actually, this rule has not caused any trouble for it is in effect only when there are no runners on base.

Lopez pointed out that a pitcher, with a count of two strikes and one ball on the hitter, could dust him off, receive the throw back from the catcher, toe the rubber and pitch again before the batter has a chance to get set.

"If that isn't legalizing the quick pitch I don't know what it is," Lopez said.

Umpires Confer

Cal Hubbard, umpire-in-chief of the American League, said he has been holding a series of meetings with managers, players and umpires in an effort to iron out the problems.

"We are going to have to work things out so the umpires will protect the batter as well as the pitcher," he said. "Otherwise, there are going to be a lot of time wasting arguments this year."

Neither of the rules can be changed unless a special meeting of the rules committee is called to clarify or rescind them.

Vanatta Will Debate Tiger Coaching Job

MEMPHIS, March 23 (AP)—Memphis State basketball coach Bob Vanatta was quoted today as saying he expects to talk to Louisiana State University officials about the head coaching job there.

However, the Memphis Press-Scimitar said Vanatta added the "only reason" he would accept an offer would be for such a high salary he "couldn't turn it down."

The Press-Scimitar said Vanatta was contacted by LSU officials and asked to be in Kansas City for the NCAA meeting but was unable to attend because the dates conflicted with State's later invitation to the National Invitational Tournament.

The Press-Scimitar, in a story from New York by sportswriter Buck P. Patton, quoted Vanatta as saying:

"I don't think they (LSU) could offer me enough money to leave Memphis—that would be the only reason I would go . . . if they made it so much I couldn't turn it down. I don't think they will do that.

"I expect LSU to contact me again and I will talk to them. I would be crazy not to do that."

The story added that "probably around $10,000" annually would be sufficient to lure Vanatta away from State. His salary here has never been disclosed.

LSU coach Harry Rabenhorst has advised officials that he is quitting at the end of the season.

Quast Upset By Johnstone At Pinehurst

PINEHURST, N.C., March 23 (UP)—Mrs. Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Ia., upset pretourney favorite Ann Quast of Marysville, Wash., two-up, Saturday in the quarterfinal round of the North and South Women's Amateur Golf Championship.

Darkhorse Anne Richardson of Columbus, Ohio, ousted Mrs. Paul Dye Jr. of Indianapolis, Ind., one-up on the 21st hole in the day's most exciting match.

Miss Richardson, who dropped out of Ohio State University last fall to devote her entire time to golf, played courageously after a bone slipped out of place on her left wrist on the second extra hole.

Barbara McIntyre of Toledo, Ohio, last year's medalist, trounced Cynthia Sullivan of Harrisburg, Pa., 4 and 2, and Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore, Md., edged Mrs. N. S. Woolworth of New Canaan, Conn., one-up.

Mrs. Johnstone meets Miss Richardson and Miss Downey plays Miss McIntyre in Sunday's match over the sprawling, sand-spotted No. 2 course here.

BOWLING

With Tommy Higgins

League Leader

Leading the Kegler League this year at the local pin arena is Maurice Johnson's Clover Leaf Guernsey—captained by Casey Jones, who incidentally still has his thumb in a cast as the result of the Memphis incident.

Building his squad around such veterans as W. H. (Sonny) Durham, Walter Cash, Mutt Carroll, Luke Coonrod, E. B. Peddy and himself, Jones has brought more winners than any other captain in the city.

Besides leading the league by four points, the Clover Leaf team holds high team series with 3,097 and third high team game with 1,080.

In the all-important individual department, Mutt Carroll has tossed the highest game of the year—a booming 279. And as you bowlers know, that's one pin away from the sacred "300."

Teammate Sonny Durham holds high series for the league. His 673 is the second highest thrown in league this year.

Cash and Peddy, old reliables for the team, wear the only "700' patches in Monroe. Walter threw his big series in the Major League while E. B.'s 700 was thrown in the scratch match game held in New Orleans the past year. E. B. also placed third in the big affair, displaying some fancy pin toppling.

Women's Tournament

In the Women's 11th Annual Louisiana State Tournament being held in Monroe, the Melcancon Plumbing team from Houma leads with a sizzling 3,107.

The Falstaff team from New Orleans leads scratch bowling with 2,711. All events scratch is headed by Carol Fortunato's 1730, while Florance Rosenthal (Lafayette) is leading singles with 720.

S. Davis and L. Haorala (Bogalusa) are ahead in doubles with 1,255.

Out of the 10 top positions, five of them so far belong to Monroe teams. Beacon House is third; Lee's Jewelry sixth. Falstaff, seventh, Clover Leaf, ninth, and Ballards, 10th.

Women's 200 Club

The women's "200" club welcomed two new members this past week as Pearl Loftin and Jo Ann Higgins joined the elite group.

Pearl bowled a 207 game and Jo Ann a 202 for their very first 200 games in league play. To them, a big congratulation.

Ethel Lancaster, with a 223 game; Norma Brown's 216, and June Girod's 205 highlighted good wood toppling in the Tuesday night Ladies League.

Men Also

The men also turned in some good scores, headed by Pete Gonzales' 630 series, Russell Bates' 612, Al Huffman's 610 and lefty Ed Villa's 607.

The Continental Laboratories Bowling team set a brand new Major League three-game series with 3,107. This is the same team that did so well in the ABC tourney at Fort Worth.

50 Area Cagers On All-State

10 From Twin Cities Named To All-Stars

HAMMOND, La., March 23 (Special) — Fifty northeast Louisiana basketball players were named on all-state high school teams announced today by T. H. Waters, commissioner of the Louisiana High School Athletic Association, following a poll of schools throughout the state.

Thirty of the northeast sector players won first team positions, while 20 others were second team choices. The selections covered boys and girls in all of the state's five classes—triple-A, double-A, Class A, Class B, and Class C.

"Jeep" Sanders and Shelby Aulds of West Monroe High were named on the triple-A boys' second team. On the triple-A girls' first team were Peggy Long, Carol Shipp, Mary Welch, and Virginia Rogers, all of Ouachita, and Sue White, West Monroe. No second team was selected for AAA girls.

Jonesboro-Hodge landed three players on the Class AA first team -- Charles Pixley, John Bailey, and Burl Brashear. Neville of Monroe landed Bob Groves and Freddy Southerland. Neville also put John Blake on the second team along with Charles Plunkett of Jena.

Bastrop's girls put three players — Lois "Dinky" McGough, "Tuffy" Puckett, and Linda Burks —on their double-A all-state team. Bastrop also put Sally Wheat on the second team.

The area failed to land a player on the first Class A boys' team, but Jesse Walker, Jimmy Sullivan, and Hugh Priest, all of Winnsboro, are on the second team, along with "Buddy" Eiland and Mickey Haye, Farmerville, and Shephard, LaSalle of Olla.

First team Class A girls include Barbara Thompson and Willis, both of Oak Grove; Barbara Leggette and Irma Jean Johnson, both of Lake Providence; and Taylor of LaSalle. On the second team is Yates of Oak Grove.

Robert Knight, Grayson; Kenneth Futch, Holly Ridge; and Ragan Edmiston and J. B. Edmiston, both of Simsboro, are on the Class B first boys' team, while Max Lewis, Simsboro; Billy Joe Phillips Baskin; and Newton, Epps, are on the second.

Mangham's state champs put Kathleen Arrant and Patsy King of the first Class B girls' team and has Rosalyn Thames on the second along with Gray and Jarrette both of Baskin.

Troy Lowe, Choudrant, Ainsworth, Enterprise, and Harkins, Hico made the boys' Class C first team, while the second team includes Jimmy Moore, Chatham, Milton Linder, Fort Necessity, Odom, Hico, and Crawford, Enterprise.

Class AAA Boys

Class AAA Girls

First team: Long, Shipp, Welch, and Rogers, Ouachita; Rochester, Carpenter, Allen, and Penn, Istrouma; Comier and Welch, Jennings; Honeycutt and Lecroy, Baton Rouge; White, West Monroe; Stone, Bogalusa. (No second team).

Class AA Boys

First team: Pixley, Bailey, and Brashear, Jonesboro-Hodge; Jacob, Covington; Johnson, Natchitoches; Groves and Southerland, Neville; Nattin, Bossier; Rogers, New Iberia; Byrd, Springhill. Second team: Blake, Neville; Mouton, Cathedral; Benoit, Crowley; Ashworth, DeRidder; L. Fowler, New Iberia; Cooper, Springhill; Albert, Thibodaux; Plunkett, Jena; Clements, Eunice; Yates, Pineville.

Morey Will Meet Holland In Finals

NEW ORLEANS, March 23 (AP)— Dale Morty, defending champion of the New Orleans Country Club invitational golf tournament, eliminated his Indianapolis, Ind., neighbor, Don Essig, 7 and 6 in the semifinals of the 20th annual tournament today.

Morey, seeking his fifth title here, will meet Tim Holland of Miami, Fla., in the finals tomorrow. Holland defeated Curtis Person 2 up in his semi-final match.

Essig, a freshman at Louisiana State University, staged the major upset of the day in the morning quarterfinals when he beat Eddie Merrins of Alexandria, La., the 1955 winner, 1 up.

At the same time, Morey, 36-year-old former member of the U. S. Walker Cup team, had his easiest round of the tourney when he defeated Wheeler Farish of Gulfport, Miss., 9 and 8.

Rain began falling on the 6,558-yard country club course when the semifinalists reached the fifth hole.

Persons had advanced to the semifinals by whipping David Dixon of New Orleans, the tourney medalist, 2 up. Holland's quarterfinals opponent was John O'Connell of New Orleans, who went down 3 and 2.

Morey lives only a short distance from Essig, but said today's match was the first time they had ever met in tournament play. It was Morey who suggested to Essig that he attend LSU.

Summary:

Don Essig, Indianapolis, Ind., beat Eddie Merrins, Alexandria, La., 1 up.

Curtis Person, Memphis, Tenn., beat David Dixon, New Orleans, 2 up.

Tom Holland, Miami, Fla., beat John O'Connell, New Orleans, 3 and 2.

Big 8 League To Open 12th Season June 1

RUSTON, La., March 23 (Special) — North Louisiana's Big Eight Baseball League will start it's 12th season June 1 with Minden playing at Ruston, Bernice at Homer and Bastrop at Springhill. A thirty-game schedule will be played with playing days Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. All the games will be played under lights.

The Big Eight will be faster this year than in previous years due to the fact that each club will be allowed five major college players, also three professional players provided they are from the local area. Team rosters have been reduced to 15. Ten of the 15 can be out of town players. High school players can be carried without being counted on the 15-player roster.

The Big Eight is in good financial condition with a bank balance of $1,250.00. Larry Fox is president, (his planned resignation was rejected) G. L. McIllvene is vice president and treasurer, and Johnny Collins, secretary.

The policy of the league is the developing of young ball players. Each season about eight of the players sign professional contracts. Two of Minden's former players, pitcher Terry and first baseman Thornberry, stand a good chance of playing with the New York Yankees this season. The entire team that Louisiana Tech used in playing the Shreveport Sports Tuesday played last season in the Big Eight.

The Bastrop Barons will have Ed Head, former Brooklyn star pitcher, and recently manager of the Monroe Sports, as their team manager this season. The Ruston Ramblers won the regular season schedule and Bernice, the smallest town in the league, won the Shaughnessey play-off.

12 Prep Grid Aces Aim For Northwestern

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 23 (Special) — Entry deadline for the 19th running of the Northwestern Relays has been set for Monday, Walter Ledet, relays director of host Northwestern State College, announced this week.

Covering a two-day span for the second year, the high school portion of the relays will be run off Friday, while the college thinclads will perform Saturday.

For the first time in relays history, college teams from outside the state will compete in the N.S.C. Relays. Lamar Tech and Stephen F. Austin of the strong Lone Star Conference in Texas are among the 1957 entrants.

Both of those teams and Mc Neese State of the Gulf States Conference will be aiming at putting an end to Northwestern's four-year reign as N. S. C. Relays champs. Among the "dark horse" entries are Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Southeastern Louisiana College, and Northeast State College, all G.S.C. schools.

Defending champs in high schol divisions are Class AAA Byrd of Shreveport, Class AA Eunice, Class A DeQuincy, Class B Iowa and Class C Moreauville.

Close Entry List Monday For Relays

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 23 (Special) — Twelve outstanding high school gridders have signed letters of intent to play football at Northwestern State College next fall, head N.S.C. grid tutor Jack Clayton said today.

Nine linemen and three backs were listed among the group, which represents all parts of Louisiana from the northern most part of the "Deep South."

Prepsters who will try out for the line jobs next fall are Alcie O. Says, guard, from Marion High School in Lake Charles; Paul Robinson, end, 180, Minden; Jerry Didier, guard, 205, Byrd High; Herbert LeJeune, tackle, 135, Oberlin; Octave Bernard, Jr., tackle, 225, Raceland; Ronnie Heckel, tackle, 200, Slidell ("little" brother of N.S.C.'s first string Samson, Bert Heckel, also a tackle); Johnnie W. Cox, 190, center, Coushatta; Max Yarbrough, tackle, 205, Coushatta, and James Summerlin, end, 190, Mansfield.

Gulfstream's Rich Pot Won By Bardstown

HALLANDALE, Fla., March 23 (UP)—Calumet Farm's Bardstown proved himself king of the handicap division Saturday with a romping half-length victory over stablemate Faibus in the $126,600 Gulfstream Park Handicap before a crowd of 24,851.

Needles, D. & H. Stables 195 Kentucky Derby winner, uncorked his famed stretch rush too late to catch the one-two punch thrown at him by Mrs. Gene Markey's star-studded Calumet stable.

Bardstown, shouldering high weight of 130 pounds, along with jockey champion Bill Hartack thus won his third major states of the Florida winter racing season. The five-year-old gelding previously had captured the $50,000 Tropical Park Handicap and the $100,000 Widener Handicap.

Despite his heavy burden, Bardstown ran the mile and one quarter in 2:00 2-5, which was three-fifths of a second off the track record on a fast track.

The Calumet entry of Bardstown and Fabius, betting favorites of the big crowd, paid $3.20 to win and $2.70 to place. No show betting was permitted because there were only six betting entries in the field.

Fabius, ridden by Eddie Arcaro, finished a length in front of Needles, just as he did in last year's Preakness Stakes. Hasty House Farm's Platan was fourth, four lengths back of Needles, and was followed in order by North Cone, Call Me Lucky and Piecesofeight.

IMITATES YANKEES

By JERRY LISKA

"Casey Stengel has some fine Yankee players but basically his success has rested on Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra, plus good shuffling of his bench," Farrell said today.

The new pilot of the second-place Tribe conceded the Yankees had an exceptional bench but added: "You don't make good reserves unless you use them frequently."

Farrell, who came up through the Indians' farm ranks, said "My success in the minors has been trying to work the same kind of formula. I've had good bench ball players and I liked to use them."

The 43-year-old Farrell directed Indianapolis to two American Association pennants in the past three years, winning the Little World Series last season.

In 12 minor league seasons, Farrell missed a first division finish only twice. Among four pennant winners was a 1953 Reading Club which won 101 games in the Eastern League.

"We're moving players around on this Cleveland team and it doesn't hurt us a bit," Farrell said. "I like a versatile man, who can jump in at more than one position and do the job. The only way to make sure he does is to keep him from getting rusty.

"I'm supposed to be nuts on speed. Sure, I want speed. So do 15 other managers in the major leagues. Sometimes, though, guys with average speed are a lot better ball players than men with great speed. It's what they do under fire that counts."

Farrell steers away from any direct rebuttal to suggestion in some American League quarters that the Indians may have more worry holding second from the Detroit Tigers than trying to overhaul the Yankees.

"I know Johnny (new Tiger Manager John Tighe) has some good ball players," commented Farrell. "The Tigers have done a good job of rebuilding. They have been playing young players steadily and have built them into a sound club.

"But as a new manager in the American League, I don't look at any club as a weak team. Right now, they all look tough to me."

Expect Bitter Duel At Kallio's Arena

"That's just what I want!"

These were the words of "Wild Bill" Steddum last night when the balding Texan learned of his Monday night wrestling date with Chris Averoff at Kallio's Arena here.

The match will hold up one-half of a double main event program for the evening. A four-man tag match between the Curtis brothers and the combination of Bernard Hodgmyer and Jack Dugas is listed on the other end of the card.

Steddum continued in a long-distance telephone conversation, "Nothing could please me better. I'm tired of his showing off for the fans — and that's all he does. Dugas said a lot about what he was going to do last week but didn't carry through. I don't intend ot fall down on my threats like that."

Steddum, who usually wears a smile through even the most severe storms in the ring, seemed somewhat bitter during the talk which he ended with: "I don't like Averoff. I don't like anything about him."

Averoff, a current favorite at Kallio's, met Steddum for the first time last Monday when the pair collided in a semi-final duel. Averoff won the battle on a disqualification handed to Steddum by Referee Loy Scarborough. The aging Waco, Tex., grappler had refused to release a head - lock on his victim.

Promoter Gus Kallio had this to say: "I don't know whether I should have arranged this match. I think it will be a real battle but you know the way Steddum is. You remember what he did to Jack Curtis back there a few months ago. I'm just afraid he'll cause some real trouble."

The Curtis brothers - Hodgmyer and Dugas affair also promises to be a rugged battle. The Curtises, Jack and George, will climb into the favorites' corner while Hodgmyer and Dugas are certain to rule as villains. In weight advantage the Curtis clan will be underdogs to overweight Hodgmyer and his seasoned partner from the Canadian timberlands.

Both halves of the main event will have a 90-minute time limit with two falls needed to win.

The program will open with two short time limit preliminaries.

The first match is scheduled for 8:15 o'clock.

McGehee Will Lead Louisiana Tennis Group

BATON ROUGE, March 23 (AP)—The Louisiana State Lawn Tennis Assn. today elected William R. McGehee of Baton Rouge president.

Other officers included Gerald C. Kerr of New Orleans, first vice president; Fritz Ball of Shreveport, second vice president; Carver Blanchard Sr., of New Orleans, secretary; and James Bendernagel Sr., of New Orleans, treasurer.

McGehee was named Louisiana delegate to the Southern Lawn Tennis Assn.

Tournament dates and sites will be announced later.

Labor Unions Among Top Businesses In America

By MAUREEN GOTHLIN

WASHINGTON, March 23 (UP) —Just how big is the labor union business?

Big enough for many of them to have millions of dollars invested in government-backed mortgages, to build expensive headquarters buildings, to invest in multi-million dollar housing projects and office buildings, and for a few to invest in stocks and bonds.

Several unions even own or control banks or insurance companies. A couple have lent money to businesses, and one is engaged in an outright business venture with employers.

Union business is big enough for some with memberships ranging from 100,000 to one million to pay their presidents salaries ranging generally from $20,000 to $50,000 a year plus expense accounts and for union leaders to hold business meetings at the most expensive resort hotels. It is well-known that a number of these leaders of workers ride in chauffeured limousines and some maintain several homes.

NO ACCURATE FIGURE

There is no accurate figure on the net worth that has been built up by the roughly 200 national and international labor unions from dues averaging around $3 a month from 18 million members.

The total financial worth has been estimated at somewhere around $700 million, with an annual income of perhaps half a billion dollars split roughly 50-50 between national and local treasuries.

Several billion dollars, perhaps, could be added to this to represent reserves of pension and welfare funds which some unions, alone or jointly with employers, administer.

The money accumulated in all health and welfare funds and pension trusts is estimated at more than $30 billion with an annual income of several billion. But employers control the administration of funds for about 90 per cent of covered workers.

TREMENDOUS FINANCES

The finances of unions today are tremendous compared to 20 years ago when many couldn't borrow a dime and a lot of union leaders worked for love instead of money. Yet it is a pittance compared to business assets which in manufacturing alone run to more than $200 billion (mostly in plant, equipment and inventories). In business, the $200,000-a-year salary is considered the bench-mark of the top executive bracket.

But the enrichment of union treasuries in recent years has provoked AFL - CIO President George Meany, a $35,000-a-year man, to object to what he called the philosophy that money can cure all the labor movement's troubles. He has put it this way:

"When we started we had no money. We did have spirit and we had people ready to fight, and the people who were opposed to us had all the money in the world that they wanted to fight us. And they didn't win."

New Zealanders consume an annual average of 216 pounds of meat per person, as compared to 161 pounds per person in the United States.

Y-Teen Entertain At P-TA Meeting

Y-Teen girls of Lenwil school, with Y-Teen director, Miss Bess Sharp, presented a program on the work and ideals of the Y-Teens at a recent meeting of the Lenwil Parent-Teachers Association.

Each girl told why she joined the organization, a branch of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Next meeting of the P.-T. A. was set for April 16. The meeting will be designated as Fathers' Night.

HIGH FIDELITY

GERSHWIN UNIVERSALLY POPULAR

By PRESTON McGRAW
United Press Staff Correspondent

The record companies, since the high fidelity boom started, have hastened to get George Gershwin's concert music down on high quality records.

Gershwin's music is unique in that it takes on a broader section of listeners than most. Most of the highbrows can abide it, if they don't outright like it.

It goes well with the moderates and it has enough of a jazz accent to be liked by persons who got most of their musical education by poking nickels into jukeboxes.

AMBITIOUS PROJECT

One of the most ambitious Gershwin projects in a long time is MGM's "The Music of George Gershwin projects in a long time lp's. riaa curve".

The orchestra is the Pro-Musica symphony of Hamburg, conducted by Hans-Jurgen Walther. The piano soloist is Sandra Bianca, an American.

Besides the familiar "Rhapsody in Blue" and an "American in Paris," the records contain six other pieces of Gershwin music, a survey of his concert music.

"RHAPSODY IN BLUE"

The Hollywood Bowl symphony orchestra, with Leonard Pennario at the piano, also has recorded "Rhapsody in Blue" and "An American in Paris" within the year (Capitol P8343, 12-inch lp. riaa curve".

London's Mantovani recorded "Rhapsody in Blue" with his orchestra earlier for London ll-1262, 12-inch lp. frrr curve". While older than the MGM and Capitol records, it nonetheless is of high quality.

Capitol has recorded a sort of survey of music about and vaguely relating to the night in "Nocturne," by the Hollywood Bowl symphony orchestra, conducted by Carmen Dragon. It is a high quality record, the music is familiar and well-played.

GREIG'S "NOCTURNE"

It includes such pieces as: Greig's "Nocturne;" Schumann's "Traumerei;" Schubert's "Serenade;" Wagner's "Evening Star" and Brahm's "Cradle Song."

MGM has recorded the music from "Johnny Johnson," Kurt Weill's first score for the American theater. The music, first heard in the theater in 1936, was recorded by an orchestra conducted by Samuel Matlowsky, with some movie stars singing.

Weill, a German, was another man who composed in a jazz accent, and listeners will be interested in comparing his methods with those of Gershwin.

Parties For Mrs. W. E. Gregory Fill Monroe Social Calendar

Society this week is centering about Mrs. W. E. Gregory, of Culver, Indiana, who arrived Wednesday as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seymour. That evening Mr. and Mrs. George Weaks entertained with a dinner party at their home on Riverfront. Their guests included with Mrs. Gregory and Mr. and Mrs. Seymour were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Biedenharn, Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Rivers, Mr. and Mrs. George Snellings, Mrs. Haydn Cutler, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Woods and Mrs. W. J. Riley.

On Thursday Mrs. W. J. Riley and Mrs. V. H. Rivers entertained with a luncheon at the Country Club. A green cloth with blue Dutch iris and acacia decorated the table. Places were marked for the honoree, Mrs. Seymour, Mrs. Bernard Biedenharn, Mrs. Arthur Grant, Jr., Mrs. Haydn Cutler, Mrs. Harold Woods, Mrs. Marion Gray, Mrs. Foster Wallace and Mrs. George Weaks. That same evening Mr. and Mrs. Harold Woods invited friends for a barbecue supper at their camp on the Arkansas Road.

The Country Club was the setting Friday for the luncheon given by Mrs. Arthur Grant, Jr., for the popular visitor. Pink blossoms in a silver bowl formed the centerpiece for the table. Her guests were Mrs. Bernard Biedenharn, Mrs. S. E. Huey, Mrs. Guy Campbell, Mrs. Ray Rymes, Mrs. J. L. Adams, Mrs. John Eby, Mrs. Foster Wallace, Mrs. W. E. Cole, Mrs. Pete Menefee and Mrs. Seymour.

Mrs. Haydn Cutler was hostess late in the afternoon at a boatride on the Bittersweet II. A barbecue supper was served during the ride up the river. Her guests with Mr. and Mrs. Seymour and Mrs. Gregory were Mr. and Mrs. George Snellings, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Biedenharn, Mr. and Mrs. George Weaks, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Biedenharn, Jr., Mrs. W. J. Riley, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. King Stubbs, and Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Rivers.

On Saturday night one of the beautiful parties of the season was given when Mr. and Mrs. Seymour entertained for their guest with a party in their home on Park Ave. from 7 until 9 o'clock. Mixed bouquets of spring blossoms were arranged in the living rooms and the party table in the dining room was centered with white azaleas and white tulips in an antique epergne, with white candles in silver candelabra at either side. Candles burned in brass candlesticks on the terrace porch and the azaleas blooming in the garden were highlighted with indirect lights. They were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kellogg, Mrs. Haydn Cutler, Mr. and Mrs. George Weaks, Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Rivers, Mrs. W. J. Riley, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Biedenharn, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Woods and Dr. and Mrs. Dewitt Milam.

Today's compliment will be a late afternoon party with Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Biedenharn hosts at their home Bernbet.

Book Guides To Amusement Of Pre-School Set

By MARY PRIME
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP) — Stormy weather has started many a mother singing the blues, when she's hard - put for ideas to amuse her house - bound children.

Now these women can get a helping hand from another mother — a former teacher in Woodland Hills, Calif. Mrs. June Johnson has come up with a bookful of ideas on play for young children.

The book "Home Play for the Pre-School Child" (Harper Brothers, gives more than 40 ideas for simple, creative crafts that children can enjoy on rainy days, while sick in bed or without playmates.

Crafts

It tells what materials are needed, where to buy them and the cost. And the book even gives a plan for setting up a small cooperative play group.

The author said a child's preschool years may be described by a quotation from the poet, Robert Burns. " . . . Like the snow falls in the river — a moment white— then melts forever." It's up to the mother to make the most of those years.

The book begins with crafts which give youngsters a chance to develop self - expression and imagination. For example, blot painting. Drop one or two blobs of poster paint on a sheet of paper. Help the child fold it over, and let him push the paint around through the paper with his finger or fists. Then have him tell what the odd - shaped blots look like to him.

Adventure At Lunch

Sponge painting is another idea. Cut a one- or two - inch square off a sponge. Wet the sponge, squeeze it and have the child use it as a brush.

MISS JUDITH ANN BETTISON'S betrothal to Dr. Eugene Frederick Worthen is announced by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. William Leslie Bettison, of Grand Rapids, Michigan. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Carl Frederick Worthen and the late Mr. Worthen, of Monroe. A June wedding is being planned. Miss Bettison was graduated from University of Michigan, where she was a member of Kappa Delta sorority. Dr. Worthen is an alumnus of Louisiana State University and the LSU School of Medicine. He was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity and Phi Chi medical fraternity.

Talkative Wives Home Inter-Com

CONNERSVILLE, Ind. —(UP)— The latest gadget for the kitchen is a complete inter-com system which allows the homemaker to communicate with any other room in the house answer the doorbell or chat with her neighbor without even dropping the paring knife.

Parties Honor Mrs. Gulledge During Visit Here This Week

Mrs. Frederick Gulledge, of Baton Rouge, the guest this week of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milling Bernstein, on Island Drive, was complimented with a bridge party Wednesday afternoon at the Country Club with Mrs. Alden Shotwell, hostess.

Prize winners for the afternoon were Mrs. Fred Westrom, first, Mrs. William McDowell, second, Mrs. Fred Sartor the slam prize and Mrs. A. G. McHenry, Jr., consolation.

Other guests playing included, Mrs. Roy Ledbetter, Mrs. Lee Edwards, Mrs. Robert Carter, Mrs. Robert Downing, Mrs. Stan Bagwell, Mrs. C. D. Oakley, Jr., Mrs. James Ewing, Mrs. Edmund Brown, Mrs. Jack Taylor, Mrs. Thomas Fortenberry, Mrs. Jerry Ryan, Mrs. William Parker and the honoree.

Friday's compliment to Mrs. Gulledge was a luncheon at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club with Mrs. A. G. McHenry, Jr. and Mrs. C. D. Oakley, Jr. hostesses.

The guests included with the hostesses and honoree were Mrs. Ben Marshall, Mrs. Jack McCook, Mrs. William Parker, Mrs. Thomas Fortenberry, Mrs. Bolling Jones.

Slice frankfurthers into penny-size round sand brown lightly in a little butter in a skillet. Add beaten eggs and scramble. Nice for lunch with a cooked green vegetable or salad.

Vary Hamburger With New Tricks

Serve this economy meat with an onion sauce, made with A cup of water. Add a dab of melted butter and thicken with 2 tablespoons of flour.

Or, fry chopped onions in a little butter or margarine. Season to taste with curry powder and a few drops of lemon juice.

For a special cheeseburger, mold a slice of cheese in the middle of the hanburger. By the time the meat is cooked the cheese has melted inside. Or serve hamburgers with hot cheese sauce. Melt cheese spread with a small amount of milk, and add finely chopped chives.

Bake acorn squash, then scoop out the pulp and mash with salt, pepper, butter or margarine. Add sugar to taste and reheat. If there is a little leftover pineapple in the refrigerator you'll find it is delicious added to the mashed squash.

MRS. WALTER ARTHUR BENNETT

MR. AND MRS. GREGORY HARE are shown at the reception following their wedding Friday evening, March 15. Their vows were said in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Beeson on McCain Drive before members of the two families. Mrs. Hare is the former Miss Shelby Jean Dye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Dye, of Perryville, and Mr. Hare's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Hare, of Swartz. After a short wedding trip the young couple are at home on Rochelle Ave.

Cooking Tips

Hold a small damp sponge in palm of hand while unwinding a plastic clothesline. You will wipe the line clean while putting it up.

To remove lipstick or rouge stains, soften napkins with glycerine, then launder in hot soapsuds.

Try adding a dash of cinnamon and nutmeg to a glass of milk for an extra small - fry treat.

Want a switch on the old standby, macaroni and cheese? Alternate the cheese and macaroni layers with layers of chopped nuts.

Always melt chocolate over simmering water to avoid scorching.

For added zest to baked eggs line the baking dishes or muffin pans with 1 or 2 slices of partially - cooked bacon. Omit buttering the pans.

If your gelatin mold does not loosen because of an air lock, wrap a clean, hot, wet (well wrung) towel around it for a few seconds.

Bennett-Pfister Vows Pledged In Waco, Texas

Of interest to many friends here is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Marilyn Sue Pfister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell B. Pfister, of Waco, Tex. and Reverend Walter Arthur Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Bennett of West Monroe.

The wedding was a recent event in the First Baptist Church of Waco Dr. Edwin Dwyer, professor of religion at Baylor University, heard the exchange of vows before an altar banked with white gladioli, white carnations and greenery and myriads of burning Cathedral tapers.

Mr. Lindsey Reast was organist and accompanied Mr. Charles Sanford, soloist.

The maid of honor, Miss Jane Cook, and the bridesmaid, Miss Madelyn Coppin, wore pastel taffeta gowns, with fitted bodices and billowy skirts falling to ballerina-length. Their headpieces were matching and they carried bouquet. of red roses tied with satin ribbons to match their gowns.

Ronnie Bennett, of the Air Force base at Lake Charles, served his brother as best man, and groomsmen were Frank Morris, Memphis, Tenn., Roland Hill, Waco, and Glen Whitting, Buffalo, New York.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage, was wearing chantilly lace and nylon net over taffeta. The bodice of lace, featured a scooped neckline edged in embroidery, and the extremely full skirt fell to ankle-length, with lace extending from the waistline to the hips.

Her veil of illusion fell from a jeweled tiara, and for ornament, she wore a string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. Her corsage of feathered white carnations, was centered with a pure white orchid, and was caught with white satin streamers.

The bride's mother chose sky blue lace with white accents and a corsage of white carnations, while the mother of the bridegroom wore navy lace over pink satin, with pink accents and a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's table, overlaid with linen cut work, was centered with an arrangement of white blossoms, and the tiered wedding confection, flanked with slender tapers burning in candelabra, was placed at one end, with the punch service at the opposite end.

The young couple left for a wedding trip to Dallas, after which they returned to Waco, where Rev. Bennett is working on his master's at Baylor University. The bride, a graduate of Baylor, is a member of a school faculty in Waco.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Bennett, Sr., and son Danny, of West Monroe, returned to their home here Sunday after attending the wedding.

Mrs. Max Burson Party Honoree

Mrs. W. A. Strother and Mrs. W. D. Lee were hostesses recently at a shower honoring Mrs. Max Burson, the former Miss Virginia Surles of Lake Providence.

For the occasion the Lee home on Sheridan Ave. was decorated with a variety of spring flowers.

Mrs. Burson was wearing a brown sheath with matching accessories and a gift corsage of white hyacinths.

Each guest was asked to write their favorite receipe for Mrs. Burson to keep. She received many lovely and useful gifts.

Charlene May's Vows Pledged

In an early evening ceremony performed in the First Baptist Church in Kilbourne, Miss Charlene May, daughter of Mrs. Charley May and the late Mr. May of Oak Grove, became the bride of Frank Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Ward of Kilbourne.

The Rev. J. D. Cheatham read the vows before a background of white and pink gladioli and greenery with pink tapers burning in branched candelabra. Mrs. Louise Butler presented the wedding music and Miss Patsy Ashley was the soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Leon Huff, wore a gown of white lace over satin. Her tiara of lace was trimmed in seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with a white orchid and tied with long satin streamers.

Mrs. Rudolph Ward, cousin of the bridegroom was the matron of honor. She was dressed in blue net over taffeta with pink flowers in her hair. She carried pink carnations. Mrs. Bobby Barnett, sister of the bride, was her maid of honor. She wore a white lace gown and carried pink carnations. Mrs. Maxine Harris, the bridesmaid, was dressed in pink net over satin and wore a wreath of matching flowers in her hair. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Rudolph Ward served his cousin as best man. The candlelighters were Joe Mack and Carlton Ward, brothers of the bridegroom. Bobby Barnett and Donald Terrell, were ushers.

A reception followed the ceremony in the social rooms of the church. Mrs. May was wearing a suit of light blue with white accessories and white corsage. Mrs. Ward chose navy blue silk with matching duster and a corsage of white carnations.

A lace cloth over white satin covered the bride's table, and in the center was an arrangement of white gladioli and green fern. Mrs. Patsy Huff, sister of the bride, from Shreveport served the tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and Mrs. Julia Brown, another sister of Monroe, poured punch. Miss Nellie Ruth Calvert, of Forest, registered the guests.

For her wedding trip the bride wore a suit of pink silk with matching duster and brown accessories. On their return the young couple will make their home in Odessa, Tex.

Miss Bradley And Miss Eastepp Share Honors At Pre-Nuptial Party

Last Tuesday evening Miss Barbara Ann Bradley and Miss Wilma Ann Eastepp were entertained with a pre-nuptial shower by Miss Lynda Gaar and Miss Connie Pickering at the home of Miss Gaar on Bell Ave.

Mix together those small quantities of leftover vegetables and add to a cheese sauce; serve on toast for lunch. Top with hard-cooked sliced eggs if you like.

EMILY POST

Showers Are Given For Many Events

By EMILY POST

Because of the many questions asked me concerning shower details, I have chosen this topic as the subject for today's article.

Showers are friendly neighborhood gatherings held usually in honor of a bride-to-be, or in welcome of a new clergyman or new house-owners, or in expectation of the arrival of the stork. In fact, one may give a shower of almost any variety that imagination can invent. Presents given at a stork shower include everything for a new baby. A larder shower includes everything eatable, often given for a new clergyman. The shower for a bride is sometimes specified as a linen shower, or a kitchen shower, or a stocking shower, or a general shower, to which each person brings what appropriate item she chooses.

The setting for a shower can be almost anything — a luncheon, a dinner, an afternoon tea, an evening party, or even a morning coffee.

Invitations to showers are either telephoned — "I'm having a shower for Mary on Tuesday at three o'clock" — or written on a visiting card — "Larder shower for Dr. Jones" or "Stork shower for Helen." Then the day and hour. Or, any shower cards at the stationery that appeal to you would be equally proper.

It is not appropriate for the invitations to be sent out by the immediate family of the bride, because each person who accepts must shower her with a present.

If the invitation specifies linen, or kitchen utensils, or stockings, the gifts should be those indicated. Sometimes the showered presents are given in place of wedding gifts. Usually, however, they are an extra expression of generosity and of much less importance than the wedding gifts. Sometimes they are the donation of the bride's bridge club or a small sewing circle of her most intimate friends who have been busy throughout a number of weeks hemming or embroidering a set of friendship table linen or kitchen towels, each piece of which is embellished and signed by the sewer. For those who in this busy age have time for such expressions of affection, handmade gifts have a charming and personal sentiment that a bride is certain to appreciate.

Although wedding presents are sent from the shop where they are bought, gifts for a shower are brought by hand and given personally — usually upon each donor's arrival; but sometimes the packages are taken at the door and put unopened with the others on a table in another room.

In some localities all the presents are sent to the hostess several days beforehand. She leaves the packages wrapped as they are, but puts each in a uniform gift wrapping so that the whole stack of packages shall be attractively alike. For this purpose, the assortments to be found in all stationery counters, are enchanting. When all are wrapped, the presents are piled on a table, perhaps in another room or behind a screen, or perhaps in full view against one wall of the living room. Sometimes a pretty little girl wheels the gaily-wrapped packages in a child's decorated wagon and places it in front of the bride-elect.

A suggestion to make a few presents go far is to treat each present as a treasure in a treasure hunt and tell Mary to look for them. When she finds one, she will find instructions — but not too obvious — for finding the next one.

When everyone — or almost everyone — expected has arrived, Mary opens the packages one by one and thanks each giver. "Thank you, Susie — how lovely!" "Oh, Margaret, this is just what I need?" "Jane, dear, I never saw anything prettier." It is not necessary that she again thank people who gave presents by writing to each one after the party. She must, of course, write a thank-you note to those who sent gifts for her but could not be present.

After that, if the party is at tea time, the guests are offered light refreshments of tea or coffee and cakes; if in the evening, coffee or punch and sandwiches or cider and doughnuts.

A shower for a bride may be given at any hour of the day or evening. Evening is chosen when the shower presents take the place of wedding presents, and men as well as girls are invited. Originally shower presents were the kind of things, most often to wear, that girls can give to girls but which would be embarrassing to display if any men were present and therefore showers were for girls only.

Whether or not a wedding present is sent in addition to a shower gift depends upon the custom of one's community; it also depends upon how well one knows and how much one cares for Mary. And most of all it depends upon the depth of one's purse.

Couple To Wed In Early Spring

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Leach Klotz of McComb, Miss., announce the engagement of their daughter, Stephanie Zane, to Richard Cone Moore of Jonesville. The wedding will take place in the late spring at the J. J. White Memorial Presbyterian Church in McComb.

Miss Klotz was graduated from the McComb High School and is presently attending the University of Mississippi where she will receive her Bachelor of Arts degree in May. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma social fraternity and of Theta Sigma Phi journalistic fraternity. Miss Klotz' mother is the former Miss Dorothy Lacy of Magnolia, Miss., and her maternal grandparents are Mr. William M. Lacy and the late Mrs. Lacy, who was the former Miss Elizabeth Goza. Nuptial Mass Unites Couple In Ruston

Miss LaDean Ellen Black daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Black, of St. Joseph, and Pvt. Robert Dunbar, of Ruston, and Houston, Tex., were united in marriage at a recent nuptial mass in the St. Thomas Catholic church, Ruston, at four o'clock in the afternoon. The groom is the son of Mrs. Eula Dunbar, Ruston.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She was radiant in a gown of white crystalene of Cathedral length, featuring a panel of white lace in front, long pointed lace sleeves and full skirt which flowed gracefully from a tightly fitted bodice. She wore a coronet of white lace from which fell a white veil of illusion and she carried a bouquet touched with white satin ribbon.

The bride had as her attendants, Miss Mary Elizabeth Stewart, Tallulah, who served as maid of honor, and Miss Carolyn Barnes Crowley, who acted as bridesmaid. Both wore cathedral length gowns of crystallene in light and dark shades of pink and matching hats. They carried bouquets of pink roses with a touch of blue satin ribbons.

The groom chose as his best man Stephen Richardson of Franklinton. Acting as ushers were Maurice Brownell of Shreveport, Michael Nasser of Shreveport, and Roland Mason of Mansfield.

Mrs. Black chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of gray winter cotton, with black accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. The groom's mother was wearing a pink winter cotton with black accessories. Her corsage, also, was of pink roses.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with a reception at the home of Mrs. Gladys Richardson, 803 South Jones Stret, in Ruston. The receiving rooms were lovely with arrangements of camellias and ivy. The bride's table was covered with a white lace tablecloth centered with an arrangement of pink camellias and ivy. The wedding cake was three-tiered and touched with pink sugar spun roses.

Assisting as hostesses were Mrs. Clyde Livingston, Mrs. F. K. Warner, and Miss Gail Waugh. Mrs. I. V. Black, of St. Joseph, presided at the bride's book.

Following the reception the couple left for a wedding trip. The bride chose for this occasion a salmon colored sheath dress with matching jacket and black accessories.

On their return the young couple will reside at 234 East Craig, San Antonio, Tex., where the groom is presently stationed with the U. S. Army.

Both the bride and the groom attended Louisiana Tech, where the bride was a sophomore student before her marriage. The groom graduated in 1956, taking a degree in Geological Engineering.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. F. K. Warner and Mrs. Clyde Livingston, aunts of the bride from Houston, Tex.

MISS MARGARET PIERCE, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Pierce, of West Monroe, is engaged to Richard Sanders, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Sanders, of Haynesville. The wedding will be solemnized June 4, at Good Hope Baptist Church, in West Monroe.

Home Ceremony Unites Couple In Alexandria

MRS. THOMAS CLYDE STARNES, JR.

In a ceremony marked by elegant simplicity Saturday morning at the family home on Chester street in Alexandria, Miss Kay Lillie Lueders became the bride of Thomas Clyde Starnes Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Starnes of Monroe. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William Avery and the late Raymond Lueders.

Dr. J. Aiken Taylor, pastor of First Presbyterian church, officiated at the 11 o'clock ceremony in the presence of immediate family members and a few close friends. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Avery were hosts at a wedding breakfast honoring the newlyweds at Alexandria Golf and Country Club.

The reception rooms of the home were decorated with specimen white camellias, gladioli and stock and attracting much interest was a white satin Bible marked with a satin streamer and valley lilies at the center of the mantel. On either side flowers were arranged in white vases. The bridal decor continued in the massive centerpiece on the dining table and white tapers burned in branched candelabra on the buffet.

The bride was given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Avery. She wore her wedding gown of Chantilly lace made with a halter - style bodice and a voluminous waltz - length skirt. Pale blue satin bands encircled the white under skirt and a scalloped Chantilly lace bandeau encrusted with seed pearls held her shoulder - length veil of imported silk illusion. She carried a white orchid nestled in stephanotis and Valley lilies on a Bible.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Avery was attractively dressed in beige colored linen and lace with which she wore a blush pink satin hat trimmed with pearls, beige slippers and a corsage of champagne colored orchids. Mrs Starnes chose for her son's wedding an advanced spring suit of blue silk, a matching hat and slippers, and an orchid corsage.

BREAKFAST AT CLUB

Breakfast guests were greeted in the foyer of the clubhouse by Miss Sally Hebert of New Iberia, who invited them to sign the bride's book. The white blossoms combined with bridal wreath formed the decor about the rooms and at one end of the breakfast table was the traditional wedding cake. Wide satin streamers extended the length of the board and a touch of blue was noted in the tinted oridal wreath used with white camellias in miniature baskets with heart shaped handles placed along the table.

Seated with the newlyweds, their bridal party and parents were Gary Spencer Lueders, brother of the bride, Mrs. Arthur Schluer of St. Louis, Mo., maternal grandmother of the bride, Mrs. W. J. Avery and Mrs. Taylor of Alexandria, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hawkins and Miss Linda Gale Hawkins of Shreveport, La.

Later, when Mr. Starnes and his bride left for a wedding trip she traveled in a dress of candlelight linen topped with a brief jacket lined in matching silk. She wore matching slippers, a hat of toast colored straw and her bridal orchid as a corsage.

Mrs. Starnes attended Southwestern College at Memphis, Tenn., and received her degree in education from Louisiana State University where she was a member of Kappa Delta social sorority.

Mr. Starnes, a graduate of Vanderbilt University, and member of Phi Delta Theta social fraternity, is presently working on advanced degrees in foreign languages at L. S. U.

Girl Scout News

In these days when most trips children take are in the family car, it is not unusual to find that an eight or nine year old has never ridden on a train. It is not surprising, therefore, to hear that one thing the Brownie Scouts sometimes ask for is a train trip. Troops 58 and 60 joined together in planning a train trip to Calhoun recently that will probably stand out as a highlight of their Scout year.

The girls, all on their best behavior, rode the train, accompanied by their leaders, Mrs. D. T. DeMasterson and Mrs. Cletus Walters, Mrs. O. K. Davis and Mrs. John H. Brown, Jr. Parents met the girls and everybody went to the home of Mary Jane Allen's grandparents, who live on a chicken farm. After a picnic lunch the girls went through the chicken house, where they learned how eggs are weighed and graded. Climax of the trip was that each girl was given an egg to take home. Bet the railroad people were glad the girls didn't ride back on their train! Anyway according to the leaders, each girl carried an egg home and, no doubt, enjoyed it for breakfast next morning.

Trips around town to see what makes our community wheels go 'round are also fun for Scouts, as well as being informative to the adults as well as the girls. One such trip was that of Brownie Scout troop 12 to the Coca-Cola plant recently. Mr. Jim Smith took them on a tour, showing a film on the development of bottling. The girls loved seeing the bottles going around the assembly line being filled and capped. Accompanying the girls were their leaders, Mrs. G. P. Jordan and Mrs. E. R. Dunningham, and the girls' teacher at Mitchell School, Mrs. Poemleuf. This troop also had a most exciting skating party at St. Pascal's not long ago.

A few Girl Scout Week notes. Mildred Swift, always to be counted on in support of the worthwhile activities for youth, invited representatives of scouting to appear on her program on International Friendship Day. Mary Alice Yeldell, Brownie Scout, Troop 48, Susan Sherrouse, Intermediate, Troop 1, and Sandra Lea, Senior Troop 14, told of interesting activities in their troops. Miss Sarah Walton, our council adviser from national staff, told of her job in helping councils, and Annis Klie, our professional worker interviewed the girls.

Columbia troops had a birthday program, too, and turned in $5.20 for the Juliette Low Fund.

We hope many of the girls got to Pine Wood for the playday yesterday. We know a lot of them were looking forward to it. Next Sunday we'll report on details.

MISS SHIRLEY GUINN ZUMBRO'S engagement to A 1c Robert Earl Watts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Watts, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Durr. Both families of Oak Grove. Their wedding will be solemnized April 14 at 3 o'clock in the afternoon in the First Baptist Mission in Oak Grove with Rev. J. D. Chetham officiating. Miss Madge Zumbro will be her sister's only attendant and William E. Bradley will serve as best man. Larry Watts, brother of the prospective bridegroom and Jimmy Monsour will be ushers.

Cosmetics Are Big Business

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP) — We spend close to $2.5 billion dollars a year for the sake or our looks.

This puts beauty in the big business class, although not quite comparable to the dollar-volume of such heavy industries as oil or steel. The Toilet Goods Association, which tabulates statistics on sales of beauty products, said the industry ranks about 45th

Retail sales of toilet goods in 1955, the latest year for which figures are complete, totaled $1,192 million. The 1956 total should run 10 per cent higher, said TGA.

Millions For Lipstick

Dentrifices, of all things, are the top seller. Shampoos and home permanents come in the first five. TGA said we spent $120 million in 1955 on shampoos alone; another $80 million on home permanents; another $24.5 million on rinses, tints and dyes.

Our spending includes $64 million annually on lipsticks; close to $60 million for cleansing cream; $48 million on makeup bases; $47 million on solid face powder and a mere $8 million on eye makeup.

But TGA pointed out it counts only retail sales and does not include the amount also spent by men, women and children for services in barber and beauty shops.

Boom After War

Count this in too, and you get $2.5 billion in the industry, said Philip Parker, president, the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

The association said the greatest increase had been in the number of blondes. Among women with grey hair, the most popular colors are the browns.

The bidding:

East, 1 club; South, 1 spade; West, 2 clubs; North, 4 spades. East, Pass; South, Pass; West, Pass.

Opening lead: Six of clubs.

Playing the ace from a combination of cards including the ace and queen runs distinctly against the grain of most players. This combination, it would seem, was created for the sole purpose of practicing the finesse.

By the same token, in the defense of a hand, it is a rarity for a player to lead directly into an ace-queen holding. Early in life he is told to lead through strength, but never up to it. It might be more profitable to wean him on the theory that if there is only one suit available in which he finds he can take tricks, that's the suit that should engage his attention.

Today's hand provides a striking illustration of this principle. Against the four spade contract, West led the six of clubs, which East won with the queen. South followed with the nine.

The three of clubs was missing, and there was a strong presumption that West held it. It is true that South might be false carding, but the changes were that West held five clubs because it is apparent that he had very little else to justify his raise.

It was plain that one club trick and two heart tricks would not be sufficient to defeat the contract. Unless the defense could win a trick in diamonds, all was lost.

But it was mandatory that the trick in diamonds be built up before the strong heart holding in dummy would be developed, and provide a parking place for any losing diamond declarer may hold.

East, therefore, quite properly returned the jack of diamonds, relying on West to have the king. If he didn't have it, all hope was gone. Declarer won the trick, extracted trumps, and led the nine of hearts. This lost to the queen, and the diamond ace was then driven out. This permitted the defense to win two hearts, a diamond, and a club.

Note that if East had continued with a club at trick two, he would have found that it was too late to build up a diamond trick. Declarer would have ruffed and established two good heart tricks in dummy before the diamond suit could be cleared.

Use a sharp knife dipped into water when you are cutting a meringue pie. Repeat the dipping between cuts. The water may be either warm or cold.

About Homes And Gardens

THE HOME SHIFT—

With Mildred Swift

Bulbs Need Care Around The Year

That was really a snappy freeze we had a couple of weeks ago. It rushed right in and out again, but seemingly left little damage.

The only results in our garden were, a death blow to the Japanese Magnolia blossoms and the open azalea camellia blooms. Buds on all three are opening though. There was no damage to bulbs, spirea, bridal wreath or crabapple. The old white flags look a little dog-eared but the buds are opening with their usual flourish.

This is the time of year that bulbs begin to think of next year's bloom. From now on — to the gardener, they're just a blot in the lawn picture. Those floppy dead tops that do everything you don't want them to do, are just an invitation to the husband behind the lawn mower. Please Mister: Don't cut them down. Those leaves made the food that largely determines the size of the bulb for next year.

Doctors Kimbrough and Hanchey from LSU bulb test plot in Baton Rouge say not to let seed form on the bloom stalk of your bulbs. This exhausts the plants to a certain extent. Snip off these seed pods. They also advise against cutting leaves of the plant to add to your arrangement. Call 3-2251 and get our very interesting and beautiful bulletin on "Daffodils for the Yard."

Landscape Lecture

One of the most delightful lectures I have ever had the privilege of hearing was delivered by Dr. Hubert Owens, landscape architect from the University of Georgia. With Dot Breard's help we took notes and here they are in part, quoting the lecturer:

"The principles of landscape design are the same as in any art field, it is one of the fine arts. The materials divide themselves into three groups. (1) Ground forms (land, stones, mountains, water, etc.), (2) Structures (drives walks, statuary, buildings, walls, patios), (3) Plants."

"The garden space divides itself into three areas in landscaping; namely, public, service, private. Forty - five years ago the service area needed to be very large for clothes lines, chickens, pigs, washpots, etc. Now often all that is needed is a space large enough for the garbage can and in some cases, a clothes line.

"The front areas in our grandmother's day were more like the private areas today, with the front porches. Now we move the private area to the back because of paved streets and traffic. In this private area we need shade, open lawn for children's play, play equipment, comfortable seats, patios, barbecue pits where we can entertain our friends, intimately.

"The public area is the setting for the home. We're obligated to give the house a setting to show that home is the greatest thing in the world. This area should reflect dignity, restfulness, restraint and quiet. A green lawn helps to give those qualities.

"The needs of the family determine the space for each area, but the private area will need to be the largest. We no longer need acres of ground as we don't have the labor for upkeep. Grounds are smaller in this era but are more intensively developed. There are fewer flower beds and clipped hedges. Thomas Church says a home garden should be designed so that it can be maintained with two hours a week labor.

"The trend is toward more hard surfacing in our gardens, more paving with cement, brick, tile, wooden blocks, gravel, black top. We see more raised flower beds.

"Each area has its own elements. In the south we have good soil, fair drainage but lots of insects. If you like to live outside you need to plan a screened area.

"Landscaping is of three types; formal, informal and free form. The latter is what we are trying to achieve. we're still frustrated about what our gardens should look like. We've moved away from grandmother's day but we still want to cling to many of the plants and plans of those days. Example, we want to use magnolias and live oaks on lots 75 by 150 feet. They're too large and too heavy. We need smaller scale trees.

"We use three types of plants in landscaping; namely, (1) Coniferous (these give body and stability to the landscape picture), (2) Deciduous (use small per cent of these), (3) Broadleaf (use large per cent of these).

"Analyze plants for color and texture. When you use native trees and shrubs you tie your garden in with the landscape."

Some books recommended by Dr. Owens were "Modern Gardens" by Sheppard; "Landscape Your Own Home Grounds" by Alice Dunsyon; "Guide to Home Landscaping" by Korborbo; "Gardens Are For People" by Thomas Church. The dwarf juniper the lecturer recommended can be bought from our local nurseries. They're used lots in planters in Florida. Much of the same information on landscaping can be found in our bulletin "Plan Landscapes for the Family" by Robert S. Reich and Winona A. Chauffe. Espaliering Plants

A year or so ago I called to your attention some beautifully espaliered pyracanthas in the Roland Brown garden. Deborah Dr., With our new type of architecture, this type planting is being used quite extensively. Mrs. Brown has done some artistic espaliering with her plants, using the wayward vine guides to hold the limbs in place. She says first, put the plant in the ground leaning it toward the wall, trimming off all limbs on the back. Some pruning will be necessary all during the growing season.

Food In The News

Do you know how Irish potatoes taste? Most people don't says a famous chef, because we smother potatoes with butter, gravy or some kind of sauce. If you cut down on these trimmings and find the real flavor of potatoes, you'll be surprised how good they are — says he.

Here's the secret to boiling potatoes in their jackets. Drop them in just enough boiling water to cover them. Cover the pan and barely boil until tender. Drain at once to prevent them from becoming water - logged. Of the two ways of cooking potatoes in their jackets, boiling conserves more food values than baking. And are potatoes rich in food values? Why, you can get as much as a fourth of your Vitamin C needs plus some of the B vitamins when you eat potatoes daily. Also potatoes are a good source of iron, phosphorus and potassium as well as energy.

Best way to serve all potatoes, especially boiled or baked, is quick - cooked and steaming hot, for the longer they stand exposed to air, the more vitamin C they lose. Steaming hot boiled potatoes are delicious with nothing more than salt and pepper.

If you're trying to lose weight, don't be afraid of potatoes, you need the energy they give you, and one medium - sized potato has about 100 calories. Penny for penny potatoes have more energy-giving value than any vegetable.

To prepare stuffed potatoes that have few calories, just scoop the baked potatoes out of the shell. Mash and add enough skimmed milk or non - fat dry milk to soften the potato. Beat with electric beater for ten minutes. They will be so light and fluffy you'll not miss the fat. If you use non-fat dry milk powder, mix the powder with an equal amount of water before adding to the potato.

For a change you can enhance boiled potatoes with a dash of mustard or horseradish, a few dill seed, a sprinkle of onion, celery or garlic salt. Any one of those is a delicious addition. Also boiled potatoes combine well with chopped fresh shallots, including tops, chives or parsley. For a tart flavor, squeeze the juice of a lemon over boiled potatoes. Adds vitamin C, too.

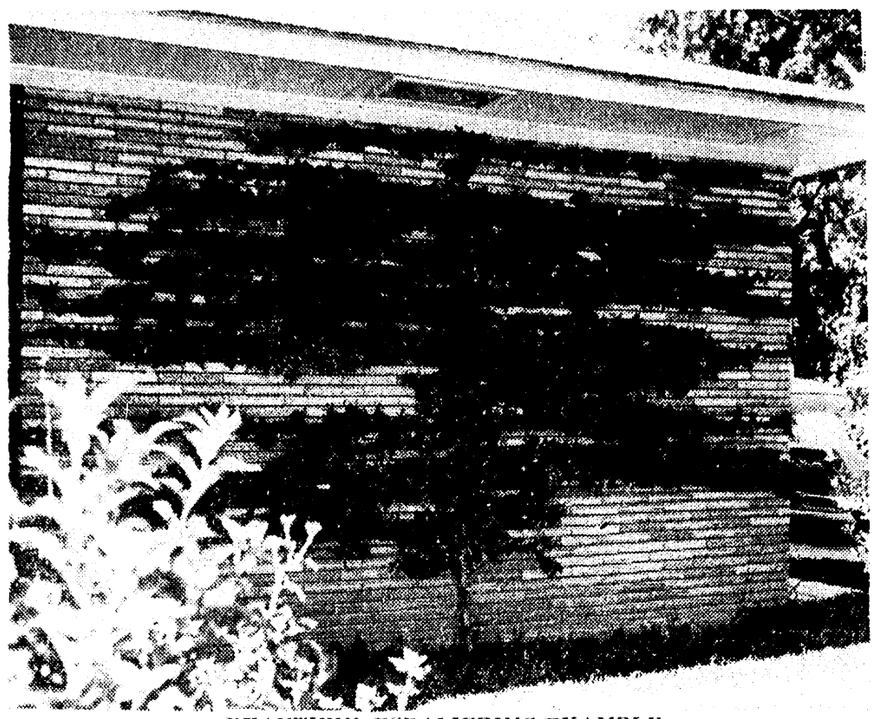
Production of the later summer and fall crops last year ran eleven per cent above a year earlier. That's the reason you're buying potatoes economically, now.

Announcements

Your Open House programs for next week are as follows: Monday, Mrs. Ethel Fuller from Tallulah will show you some good lighting ideas; Tuesday, Miss Shirline Zappa from Tallulah will be with us, subject TBA; Wednesday, Mrs. Scott will make corsages and we'll plant lawn grasses; Thursday, we'll do more gardening, and Friday, Marketing and Food preparation.

Let's cooperate with the City Beautification Committee and their helpers and really clean up. Keep a litter basket in your car for papers of all kinds. Teach the children to be litter conscious. We have one of the most beautiful cities in the South. Let's keep it that way. Be just as conscious of litter in the streets and parks as you are in your own garden. The committees can't do this alone. They need your cooperation.

See you next Sunday.



BEAUTIFUL ESPALIERING EXAMPLE

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Annuals Provide Puzzling Problem

Some amateur gardeners want special information on annuals. They are "puzzled" at all the annuals in the seed catalogues and wonder which ones to order. Even professionals are "puzzled" sometimes at the great number of annuals. We are glad that we have them, though, for annuals can work miracles in a few weeks. They are like magic.

The worst difficulty with a quick garden from annuals is drought. For this reason, it is well to consider which annuals can take the southern heat and drought and flower just the same. These are the annuals for the top of the list. Almost any list should begin with the fire - eating petunias for they can really take it. Catalogues are full of petunias for everyone's taste. For beds and garden effect, plant the single ones in any color combination or scheme you like, but do not forget the "blue" or violet ones for that hot looking garden in mid - summer. The double and fancy petunias will usually not stand up under summer rains but fall over. They can be planted near your sitting area where you can take care of them.

For evening scent, you can plant some nicotiana or flowering tobacco near the sitting area. The white ones are the sweetest. White petunias and other white flowers are showy at night. You will enjoy turning the lights on them.

For low edgings in the really hot spots in your garden, you cannot beat the annual portulaca. Do not order the mixtures but get separate colors and set them out according to some color arrangement for the best effect. They will flower in the very, very worst drought. Another hot weather defying edger is the little zinnia-like plant called sanvitalia or creeping zinnia. For blue in a low edging, you can use the dwarf blue petunias and that delightful and almost real blue annual cynoglossum variety called "Firmament." This is the bluest thing you will see in a hot summer garden. Set the plants about six or eight inches apart. You can grow them where they are to stand and thin them out, if you like, by transplanting part of them to other spots in the front of the border.

Spring Flowers Seen In Show By J. A. Wright

An interesting curved pine branch with pine flowers was selected for the first design. The pine needles were sheared very close to the flowers giving a clean-swept rosette effect. Lower in the design, in the curve of the branch, strength and depth were achieved by placements of iris foliage. Lovely white daffodils with yellow trumpets followed the graceful line. A cluster of pine flowers, completely stripped of foliage, enhanced the line on the right. The container was a large black compote. Narcissus were var. Mrs. E. H. Krelage.

The second arrangement was vertical in design, and the container a hand-moulded cylinder, chartreuse shading into brown. The vertical line was established with a tall cluster of narcissus foliage (bound with wire for stability). Lovenest narcissus were placed in an irregular pattern to follow the vertical line. They were skillfully arranged to show the individual beauty of each flower. Glossy foliage of he cleyera japonica was tucked in at the base of the design unifying the plant material with the container. The color scheme was subtle and well planned.

A small bamboo container held the next design which was oriental in feeling. Tall branches of flowering almond in the bud stage were the primary placements. These were followed by secondary placements of white flowering peach, developing transition in size and leading to the focal area of three large white narcissus with creamy white trumpets. The very essence of spring was embodied in this arrangement. The variety of narcissus was Roxanne, best described as a large creamy white trumpet with round overlapping, pure white petals. If you are interested in white narcissus, this is a beauty.

A contemporary design was created in a rectangular brass container, which was placed on a black scroll base. A hydrangea stalk with rosettes of new foliage formed the vertical line. A shorter stalk was placed low in the arrangement. Lovely white narcissus followed the established line. The effect was very modern and very gay. An unusual use for this "usual" material.

The Green Thumb Garden Club of the Twin Cities will exhibit at the Garden Center next Tuesday.

The Garden Center will be closed March 27-28.

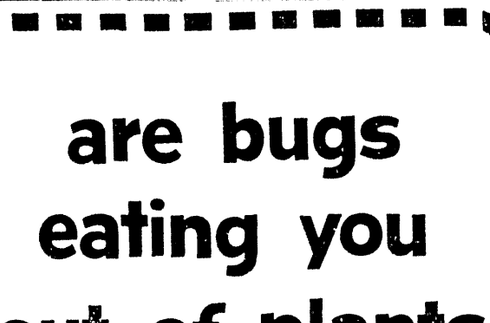
Look at your leaves for danger signs

Then apply ISOTOX Garden Spray, containing Lindane, Malathion and DDD. This time-saving spray controls nearly all varieties of destructive garden insects!



Hardened buds . . . distorted leaves? Check for Aphis. These unwanted guests love new plant growth, suck on young plants until growth is stunted, buds deformed and foliage yellowed. ISOTOX controls aphis.

Streaked blooms and foliage often caused by Thrips. It's hard to see 'em, but these little rascals distort and deaden foliage, buds, flowers and bulbs of ornamentals. ISOTOX checks infestation.

Silvered leaves usually mean Red Spider Mites. These tiny, almost invisible insects suck the sap from leaves, speckle the undersides with feeding punctures. IMPROVED ISOTOX Garden Spray M kills 'em.

Waxy filament indicates Mealybugs. These insects make a mess of your foliage, sucking out the sap and causing a waxy filament and honey-dew which attracts ants. ISOTOX Garden Spray kills these bugs.

It's as easy as watering to apply IMPROVED ISOTOX Garden Spray M with the ORTHO Spray-Ette, garden hose attachment.

TV notes

"The Black Star Rises," a special half - hour news report on Vice President Richard M. Nixon's current visit to the new nation of Ghana and six other African countries will be presented today over CBS Television. John F. Day, director of news for the network, will announce the program.

"Kamikaze," the story of the Japanese suicidal aerial attacks against the U. S. Navy fleet at Okinawa, will be told graphically by means of captured Japanese film in the 20th chapter of "Air Power" today. The film is narrated by Walter Cronkite.

Robert Cummings stars in the story of a man who attempts to live down a reputation as a gunfighter in "Too Good With A Gun" on the General Electric Theatre tonight. The reformed gunfighter must allow an innocent man to be killed or expose his past in front of the woman he loves. Co-starring with Cummings is Judith Ames.

"Studio Open" will present Hume Cronyn in the story "A Member of the Family," an original television drama by Horton Foote. Cronyn plays the role of a wealthy elder brother of a family who touches off a family conflict of jealousy and suspicion when he transfers his interest from one nephew to another.

Joey Giardello tangles with the California middleweight champion. Willie Vaughn, on the "Fight of the Week" Wednesday night. The middleweight veteran from Philadelphia, and Vaughn, will swap blows at the Kansas City auditorium in a ten - rounder.

"The Marge and Gower Champion Show" will hold its premiere Sunday, March 31 and will be shown on alternate Sundays after that. The show will feature comedy with dancing and music.

Comediennes Kaye Ballard and Alice Ghostley will play "Cinderella's" ugly stepsisters (actually Rodgers and Hammerstein have made them funny instead of ugly) in the hour and one-half musical production. The show is slated for March 31.

"Suez," the 20th Century - Fox feature film telling the dramatic story of the construction of the world famous waterway, has been selected as the first film to be shown on Premiere Performance when the NTA Film Network begins commercial operations April 1. "Suez" stars Tyrone Power and Loretta Young.

Movie-Makers Travel Farther To Get Modern-Day Backgrounds

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD, March 23 (UP)—Movie - makers are traveling farther and more frequently to expose film to new backgrounds for "location shooting."

There are few counties this side of the iron curtain — and some behind it — that haven't been photographed by junketing movie companies. But despite exotic backdrops and razzle - dazzle parties most actors dislike the idea.

"First of all it means anywhere from six weeks to six months away from home. I just got back from five and a half months of wandering around for 'fire down below,' so I know what I'm talking about."

The picture, which co - stars Robert Mitchum, Rita Hayworth Lemmon, was filmed on location in Trinidad with interior sequences shot in London. "two months in England were fine," Lemmon conceded. "But the rest of the time was the dammest succession of problems I ever saw.

"to begin with the weather was like July in New York in the middle of a heat wave. So maybe some people can get used to high humidity and bugs. Not me.

"All of us lived in the worst major hotel ever built. The plumbing didn't work. A maid slept outside my door snoring all night and singing Calpso songs in her sleep.

"Then we'd roll out at four in the morning to start for the set. Rita had to get up earlier for makeup," he said.

"We traveled by bus to the docks, then transferred to small boats for a wet ride to the camera boat and ship we were working on. The sun burned down on us for hours while we waited for the water to calm down enough for us to roll the cameras.

As an expectant mother, Miss Holliday reportedly contributed a performance richer and more delightful even than her "dizzy blonde" characterizations of such films as "The Solid Gold Cadillac" and "Born Yesterday," for which she won an Academy Award. The fancies, fears, obsessions and whims of her blessed-eventing, coupled with Judy's spectacular ability as a comedienne, has given Hollywood and advance audiences something to cheer about.

In "Full of Life," Conte plays a struggling writer who, above all things, wants a bit of peace and quiet around the house, so he can meet a few bills; babies cost money, so does a kitchen floor so termite-ridden it finally collapses under Judy's weight. The desperate parent-to-be seek help from Papa. Conte's exuberant parent, a bricklayer played by Metropolitan Opera star Salvatore Baccaloni, in his screen debut.

They persuade Papa to return with them to fix the floor; but Papa decides he's going to stick around and "help" Judy have her baby. Song - loving, wine-drinking and self-opinionated, Papa proceeds to make a pest of himself, so far as his son is concerned, and things start disintegrating. Enthusiastically supported by Judy, Papa decides to build a fireplace in the living room before he fixes the kitchen floor. He insists Richard put down on paper Papa's account of his own Uncle Ringo's adventure with bandits in Italy, and generally operates to suit himself.

Landscape Needs Well-Kept Lawns

My article got under Home Shift and Home Shift failed to get in last week. Sorry.

Ouachita Home Demonstration women learned much early southern history when they visited Natchez last Wednesday. Sixty-nine (69) made this wonderful trip. Mrs. J. R. Frantom, president and Mrs. Gertie Landrum, secretary of the 25-Year Club, did a wonderful job of organizing the group —Everything — even lunch — kept pace to the minute with the schedule. Each one making the tour expressed appreciation for the work done by these leaders.

Grasses Best for Lawns

No beautiful landscape can be developed without a turf covered lawn. This is the canvas upon which we develop our landscape picture. Acreage requiring turf grasses has increased faster than the acreage devoted to any other use. Highways and super-highways with their wide shoulders, sloping banks, and center strips are increasing yearly, the development of new residential centers one house equals one lawn and their attendant neighborhood marketing centers places its claim upon turf; parks and golf courses create their demand; and morbid thought: the number of cemeteries continue to increase. We are informed that since 1942, 17 million acres of cultivatable land has been diverted from farm use, most of which has gone into the activities mentioned. It is estimated that the Eisenhower superhighway plan will take 700,000 arable acres. Each mile of superhighway, it is estimated, takes 50 acres of land and each mile of ordinary highway 25 acres.

Turf will be required on at least one-half of the right-of-way required by a highway; at least one-half of a 100x100 lot for a residence will be in turf. Parks and golf courses and cemeteries are practically all turf. Thus, the acreage going into turf each year amounts to a surprisingly large area.

Nothing improves the appearance of any of the facilities mentioned more than well kept turf, nothing can detract more than the unkempt appearance of poorly maintained turf.

Of more than 1400 species of grasses found in the United States, only five are considered as most desirable permanent lawns in this area — Zoysia, Bermuda, Carpet Centipede, and St. Augustine. Perhaps the most popular in this area is the St. Augustine. Its advantages are: It will grow in the sun and partial shade. It also cokes out "weeds." Its disadvantage is its course blades.

Zoysia is a fine bladed grass giving a velvety looking lawn requiring less mowing. Emeral Zoysia is the newest and most popular Zoysia in the south. Zoysia is shade tolerant but requiring more watering. It is less drough tolerant. It is expensive, is much slower in spreading. It must be established by plugs.

Bermuda is recognized as a good grass where there is plenty of sun. It requires less watering. It is easy to start with seeds or sprigs. It is not shade tolerant and it is hard to confine to a certain area. Developing a turf covered lawn requires lots of "Know How." The Extension bulletin, "Make a Good Lawn" gives much information on this subject — call 3-2251 for a copy.

Appliances Need Kind Treatment

The first part of any electrical appliance to give way generally is the cord, but a little care can make it last a great deal longer. Good care of appliance cords is a matter of safety as well as economy, since defective cord may be the cause of an accident or of damage to the appliance. So be kind to your appliance by following the following suggestions: When disconnecting the cord, pull the plug rather than the cord itself. If there is a switch at the outlet, turn it off before you pull the plug. If there is no switch, disconnect the plug from the wall outlet first by grasping the plug and pulling it straight out.

Disconnect the cord from the outlet each time you finish using the appliance and disconnect it. A cord left plugged into the outlet still carries an electrical charge. In one instance a small child was severely burned by putting into its mouth the plug of a cord still connected to the outlet. Keep cords in a dry, clean, cool place. Keep cords free of kinks, knots and sharp bends, which may break fine wires. Cords may be hung over large, round wooden pegs, or over two or more hooks, or they may be coiled loosely on a shelf or in a drawer.

See you next Sunday.

Mission Is Set To Start Today

A mission will be conducted at St. Matthew's Catholic Church, Monroe, beginning Sunday March 24 and continuing throughout the week.

The missionary will be Father Jordan Schell, O. F. M., superior of St. Paschal's Friary, West Monroe and chaplain at St. Francis Hospital, Monroe. Father Jordan was air force chaplain of the fifth air force and served over seas for a year and a half. Before coming to Monroe Jordan was in charge of lay retreats at Francis Retreat House at Hinsdale, Ill.

Jordan will preach after the 6:30 and 8:20 masses every morning. The evening services at 7:30 p.m. will consist of the Way of the Cross, the mission sermon and benediction with the Blessed Sacrament.

W. Monroe Soldier Honored By Army

Cpl. Marlin N. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moore, 610 North Sixth Street, West Monroe was selected top battalion noncommissioned officer of Battery D, 495th AAA-MSL Battalion at Fort Bliss, Tex. for the month of January.

Cpl. Moore's selection was based on performance of duty and producing positive and lasting results in the launching area. He was awarded a three-day pass.

The West Monroe soldier was one of two men chosen to make a two-week tour to Panama Canal Zone.

He is a graduate of West Monroe High School and enlisted in the Army April 1956.

HOLLYWOOD BARBER'S OVERHEAD HIGH

Zsa Zsa Paid $100,000 For Haircut

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD, March 23 (UP) —Zsa Zsa Gabor is having her head shaved bald for "art" and the tidy sum of $100,000.

The glamorous Hungarian will be seen as a baldy on screen for less than two minutes. But she figures the price of having her head shaved is worth the risk of catching cold.

"I have a very thick head of hair," she said during lunch at the Derby. "It will probably cost the studio about one dollar a hair —and that is very reasonable."

Zsa Zsa is the second actress to go the nude noggin route for "Girls of the Kremlin," formerly titled "Stalin's Secret Diary." The first was newcomer Natalia Daryll.

"I play twins in the picture," Zsa Zsa went on. "In one scene I have a fight with myself and pull off the wig. We made the scene a couple of weeks ago while I was wearing a flesh-colored skullcap.

"It wasn't right. My head looked lumpy.

"My studio (Universal-International) then asked me to shave my head. I said, 'only if you make it worth my while.' So they agreed to $100,000—which is more than anyone in history was ever paid for a hair cut."

Zsa Zsa ran her hand through her long blonde locks and winked. "I'm not going to shave my head until the money is in the bank and I see the check.

Asked what she would do about her night club appearance in Las Vegas next month, Zsa Zsa said she already is having three wigs made up.

"One pink, one blue and one yellow," she said in her rich Hungarian accent. "These are decorator colors and very different. I could never be normal. I may start a new fashion in wigs."

"Absolutely not!

I don't mind being seen on the screen that way, but not in person. I shouldn't really object to being a female Yul Brynner. We look a lot alike with high cheek bones, wide-set eyes and without hair.

"This won't affect my sex appeal either. As long as I wear wigs I will be beautiful. It is lucky I'm not married now so there won't be any husband to see me at night without my hair.

"There is more than money in this for me," Zsa Zsa smiled sweetly. This is the biggest part I ever had. I play Stalin's mistress.

"It will help establish me as a real actress—and if shaving my head means more realism, then it is well worth the sacrifice.

TREMENDOUS

Novel Triumph Of Legal Biography

THE LION AND THE THRONE: The Life and Times of Sir Edward Coke By Catherine Dinker Bowen, 650 pps, $6. (Atlantic-Little, Brown.)

This tremendous volume is a triumph of legal and judicial biography and combines exhaustive legal and historical research since it was six years in the making.

Catherine Bowen, also author of "Yankee From Olympus" wears her legal learning lightly in portraying the great lawyer as part and parcel of the turbulent and colorful age in which he lived. Sir. Edward Coke and his times come to life as she paints into the pictures thousands of interesting facts without which we really would not understand the man or his period, but without impeding the pace of her story.

Coke was popularly known as "the oracle of the law," a reputation that was to serve him well in saving his life from a wrathful king. His legal learning was prodigious and he was forever scribbling notes of what he read or heard, while other men were idling by. Quite literally he restated the medieval law of England in terms of his own very different age and he was a bridge between the black letter learning of the old Year Books and the modern world.

From his days as a student in the Inner Temple, the law—the supremacy of law as contrasted with arbitrary power—was the ruling passion of his life.

And once, when representing the Crown in Star Chamber, he learned that Lord Keeper Egerton had questioned a defendant privately. He did not hesitate to tell the highest judge in England in the presence of the entire court that "God doth assist the judge in his judgement, but not in his chamber."

This is an exceptional book and is interesting reading for an ordinary layman who might not have too much interest in law.

PAST AND PRESENT

Public Favorable To New Museum

By DORIS TYNES

Public reaction to the idea of a museum for northeast Louisiana has been favorable since the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society first adopted the project and made it public last August.

It seems that people for the most part are sentimentalists, especially concerning the past deeds of generations long since gone. The passage of time colors ordinary circumstances making them seem romantic and exciting. How many times do we grow reminiscent and long for "the good old days"?

But wish as we might, days past can never again return. Though the old adage is true that history repeats itself, it is never with the same people nor the same circumstances. What is done is gone. The past is behind us, and can never be recalled.

If humanity is struggling to make each day better than the day before, then we have people who are forging ahead. We have progress. And how much better we can appreciate progress in a day of automatic washing machines and dryers, when we reflect for a moment, calling to mind the days our great - grandmothers washed by hand, down by the spring, in an old wooden washtub made by cutting a barrel in half, then hung the family wash on the rail fence to dry

Yes, we Americans have progress! And are we grateful for it? And we should be just as grateful to those who have gone before us, conquering the untamed wilderness, laying a foundation for the modern America we have today.

Mrs. Eva Davis, curator of the Old Court House Museum in Vicksburg, wisely coined the following and adopted it as a slogan: "Those who forget the past have no future." The greatness of a civilization can be measured by the degree of respect and honor shown its founding fathers, leaders, and statesmen of the past. This doesn't speak very highly of ourselves, the citizens of northeast Louisiana, for so little has been done thus far toward preserving mementoes of the past.

Others, we have learned, have had the same dream of a museum which would house relics of past generations, and records of past deeds, and in spite of their earnest efforts have failed because of a lack of cooperation from those who might have helped and didn't. The establishment of a museum is such a mammoth task as to be almost frightening, and one or two people or even an organization such as the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society of approximately forty members cannot succeed without the cooperation of people from every walk of life. Thus far we have been overjoyed with the response from the public, and all we ask now is your continued cooperation and help.

With the advent of spring, modern woman will undertake the same annual task her ancestors did — spring housecleaning Though her tools will be different, her aim will be the same: The complete and total eradication of every speck of dust and dirt in her home. All over northeast Louisiana homes will be "aired," scrubbed, painted, redecorated, etc.

About Jazz Chicago And New Orleans

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK, March 23 (UP)—Minneapolis is a long way from New Orleans, but a promising jazz band leader named Harry Blons has done a lot to shorten the distance.

Blons plays a fine Dixieland clarinet and the ensemble work of his band is in the tradition of New Orleans.

Thus far Blons has been an unknown quantity, outside his Minnesota orbit, but Mercury now is introducing him to Dixie fans around the country on a fast moving LP, "6 On A Dixie Beat."

The band is especially good on fast tunes and has put a lot of ideas into the 10 numbers, especially "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." It also shines on marches such as "Under the Double Eagle," and "National Emblem."

Larry Brakke on the trumpet, Earl Irons on the trombone, Warren Thewis on the drums, Hod Russell on the piano and Bernie Sundelmeyer on the bass round out Blons' combo.

"Clarinet Marmalade" gives Blons a vehicle for demonstrating his sharp clarinet technique. And Irons should be singled out as a potentially great jazz trombonist.

Speaking of New Orleans and great jazz trombonists, two new LP's that are worth many hearings are "Jam Session on Bourbon Street" with two bands participating (Vik) and "Jack Teagarden: Jazz Great" (Bethlehem).

The Vik jam session, Vol. 3 of its Dixieland festival series, brings together a double band headed by George Girard, a promising young trumpet player who died only a few weeks ago. Among others performing at this session, which is devoted mostly to jazz standards, are Santo Pecora, Harry Shields, Lester Bouchon and Roy Zimmerman .

Teagarden's session for Bethlehem records is a notable one because of the fidelity of its reproduction. Teagarden, who needs no support, gets fine help anyway from Ed Hall on the clarinet, Jimmy McPartland on the trumpet and Walter Page on the bass. Most of these numbers are jazz greybeards but after hearing Teagarden and his band nobody should complain.

Human Nature Described In Religious Novel

THIS MYSTERIOUS HUMAN NATURE By James M. Gillis, C. S. P. (Charles Scribner's Sons $3.50).

A very good book on religon. In it, Father Gillis has devoted his talent to the encouragement of virtue by positive precept and to a relentless exposure of moral failure.

His earlier volume So Near to God set forth the truths of Catholicism as they applied to the individual soul and assisted the search for perfection. In the present book he reverses the medal and shows how Christians may and must employ their faith as a touchstone — a standard against which to measure the fashionable deceits to which modern man is exposed in the name of progress and humanity.

For more than 26 years, Gillis was editor and principal editorial writer for the Catholic World.

WHAT, THEY COME BY MAIL NOW?

Uniqueness Makes Excellent Photos

By JOHN OLDENBURG
Camera Editor

Last week it was kittens, this week it's babies, next week who knows, someone said . . . Well, that just proves that a picture is to be found anywhere and the subject can be almost anything . . .

Mrs. Vernii Ates, Rt. 3, Monroe, La., sent this interesting picture of her six and a half month old son in the mail box, to your camera editor this week and sure enough we had to do a double take to make sure our eyes were not going bad. This is strictly original and deserves a word of commendation.

In her accompanying letter, Mrs. Ates stated that she shot this picture with a Brownie Hawkeye, 620 camera. It was taken in mid-afternoon at about 7 feet from the subject. The pix itself is of fair quality as the background more or less disturbs the central subject by casting a deep shadow around it. Also while we are picking it apart, may we suggest that more of the impact of the story behind the pix would have been apparent at the first glance had the photographer moved over to the side of the mail box just a little to show an oblique angle of the box.

Babies are one of the most fascinating subjects a photographer can shoot at as they are forever showing off moods as unconcernedly as if the photographer was never present. It is always best to have plenty of film on hand for a baby - shooting session as you may have to take many rounds before you capture that prize yawn or stretch and always be ready at almost a moments notice to shoot. So mothers take notice. If you want to capture some of the cute little things that only your baby can do keep a camera at hand and cocked at all times . . . Bath time is an especially good time to take pictures.

By the way, there are a number of interesting books on photography in our local library and they are well worth your while to browse through and pick up some of those hints from the professionals . . .

Thanks to all you folks that have sent in pictures and letters they are very encouraging and also interesting . . . We are going to try and use as many of your pix in our column as we can . . . Keep them coming and watch this space for yours.

Guide To Good Reading Now At The Ouachita Parish Public Library

FRANCES FLANDERS, Librarian

Among the new books added to the library collection this week there is only one fiction title but there is a wealth of informative material. The fiction title is a mystery by Doris Miles Disney, who is one of the best writers of mystery stories. It's title is "Method in Madness." This is a most exciting story set in a mental institution and it is one that you will long remember.

COOK BOOKS

The cook - book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library is one of which we are justly proud and we are always adding titles to this group. The newest one is called "Foods of Old New England." It was compiled by Marjorie Mosser and the introduction was written by Kenneth Roberts. This is a fascinating collection of recipes and will be most valuable to our patrons.

HISTORY

Students of history who like a very scholarly work will want to read volume one of Eric Voegelin's work colled "Order ond History" which is being published by the L. S. U. Press. This volume is called "Israel and Revelation." It is a profound study of Hebrew thought and institutions set against the background of Egyptian and Mesopotamian cultures. This wook will be of world - wide interest to historians, political scientists, philosophers, theologians ond all serious students of the origins and development of Christianity and Western civilization.

WAR, RESCUE STORIES

Stories of rescue at sea are always thrilling and exciting. This week we have a new book of this type which has had wonderful reviews. It's title is simply "Rescue." It's a record of long adventures against odds, of hair-raising escapes, of dramatic and agonizing victories over death The men the author writes about are the air rescue men of the United States Air Force. Stationed in outposts around the world, they stand ready twenty-four hours a day to bring help to those who need it — above all to do anything in their power to save human life. Another true story of action and daring is "The Last Parallel" by Martin Russ, which is based on a war journal kept by a Marine who served in the Korean War. Where other war books have been superficially romantic, this one is specifically realistic, sometimes wildly funny, always touchingly real. Martin Russ's journal is a triumph of personality over grinding fear and fearful boredom.

One of the great problems arising from the last two wars are the many children who have been left homeless all over the world. They live in great city streets and hide in the ruins of bombed buildings. They have had to learn early to live by their wits. They represent a great tragedy to the people of the world. John C. Caldwell has travelled all over Europe to find out about these children. He has written about them in a new book, which he calls "Children of Calamity." Don't miss this book. Everyone who reads it will want to do something for the children. Each of us can do something. A most unusual new book is called "The Strange Case of Constance Flood" and was written by Willa Okker Iverson. This is a story of a very exciting court contest over property. If you like an exciting story of intrigue and mystery be sure to read this one.

SCHOLARSHIP BOOK

In recent months we have had numerous requests from high school students in regard to scholarships available to them. We have just secured a wonderful book on the subject called "You Can Win A Scholarship." The compilers of the book are Brown, Weiner and Kaplan. Here can be found lists of all of the scholarships available and also samples of test that the applicant may be given. We classified this book so that it could circulate, because we felt that the user would need to take it home and study.

We invite everyone to take advantage of the resources of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. There is certain to be something here to appeal to every reader.

Story About Hitler Plot Good Reading

CONSPIRACY AMONG GENERALS By Wilhelm von Schramm (Charles Scribner's Sons, 215 pps, $3.95).

This is an excellent story about the plot to kill Hitler in the closing months of World War II.

It is set against the backdrop of the Normandy Landings and the steady Allied victories at Coutances, Avranches, Mortain, Falaise, Orleans, Chartres and Paris. It is a drama of immense proportions staged within the German high command.

The attempt on Hitler's life failed and the conspirators in Berlin either swallowed poison or were shot before the day of the plot was out.

In Paris, however, far from Berlin, there was still the hope of successfully completing the coup and then dealing with the Allied forces in an attempt to save Germany from total destruction the general staff forsaw under Hitler's leadership. For the officers involved it was a perplexing choice between loyalty to a leader and duty to their country.

DEATH OF A MAN

One Of Best Books Written About A Man Waiting Death

DEATH OF A MAN By Lael Tucker Wertenbaker (Random House, $3.00).

This is one of the best books ever written aobut a person who knows he has only a short time to live because of a disease — cancer in this particular case.

In this moving, agonizing true and honest account of the death of her husband, Mrs. Wertenbaker relives the last months of their life together in New York and Cibourne, France.

Dying of cancer, he maintained his zest for living and met death with magnificent courage. As an old Basque peasant said: "He is too fine a man to die and I am sad."

The book will cause raised eyebrows in some circles because it deals with suicide and the thoughts of it. Too many it will also seem un-Godly.

Whether you agree with what he did, the book is one you will not put aside until you have finished it.

Random House has also come up with a number of other good books for March. One, The Rain and the Fire and the Will of God, makes for excellent reading. It seems in the farm country of rural Alaama, nothing much seems to happen during the heat of the summer. But 14-year-old Jack Haywood found plenty to keep him occupied — harassing the neighbors, entertaining another 14-year-old from the North. A fresh and original novel of youth by Donald Wetzel, author of A Wreath and Curse.

Another good one is Tennessee Day in St. Louis By Peter Taylor, talented author of A Woman of Means and The Widows of Thornton. Taylor again writes of the South with authority and love. The action takes place during one day in the life of a displaced Southern family.

'Grosse Fugue' Is Interesting

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK, March 23 (UP) — Let no musician kid you—there are musicians by the thousands who don't know what Beethoven's "Grosse Fugue" is about, if, indeed, it is about anything. This is difficult music beyond any questioning. But puzzles can be engrossing, and if you're in the mood there are two new recordings.

One is as Beethoven wrote it, that is for string quartet, played by the Koeckert Quartet, along with the composer's 16th, final, and most profoundly searching quartet (Decca-9893).

The other is the quartet form as written, but played by 16 first violins, 14 second violins, 12 violas and 10 'cellos—with eight double basses supporting the 'cellos in some passages. It is different from the other, but you can't say the music is made more accessible. The musicians are from the Philharmonia Orchestra with Otto Klemperer conducting (Angel-354-01).

A very sad new record for this reviewer is one called "Kathleen Ferrier Memorial Album" — because it recalled, all too vividly, the art of the musicianly, pure-toned singer who died in 1953 even before she had reached her peak. Yet the record is rather precious for that very reason.

BEECHAM AND BALAKIREV

It has her singing four songs of Schubert nd two of Schumann with piano accompaniment, and two of Handel and one of Gluck and one of Mendelssohn accompanied by orchestra (London-1529).

To Sir Thomas Beecham, to whom records are indebted for so much, we're now indebted for a recording of the first symphony of Mily Balarkirev who was such a perfectionist that this symphony was all but a life-time work. Balakirev, you'll recall, lorded it over Moussorgsky, Borodin and Rimsky-Korsakov as the leader of "The Five," and now we thank a conductor for returning him to life. It's not likely to be a very long return but the symphony has passing merits and interest (Angel - 35399).

The very finest symphonic recording of recent weeks, in this reviewer's opinion, is of Bruno Walter conducting Schubert's "Rosamunde" music, complete, and also his fifth symphony (Columbia - 5156). Another performance he admired a good deal was that of William Steinberg conducting the Pittsburgh Symphony in Wagner's "Siegfried Idyll," the Prelude and "Good Friday Spell" of "Parsifal," and the Prelude to "Die Meistersinger."

OLD HOMES OUTSELL NEW

The National Association of Real Estate Boards reports that for every new house put on the market in the U. S., two existing homes are sold.

Roundup Of Top Stories Of The West

In THE HELL BENT KID (Norton, $3), Charles O. Locke presents an off-beat Western. The story tells of the long flight of Tot Lehman to escape the vengeance of the Boyd clansmen who believe that he has deliverately murdered Shorty Boyd. At the end, Tot remarks, "Can't any people understand that killing a man sickens a man?" And the memory of the killings he has been compelled to commit makes him lay down his rifle and walk, unarmed, into the fire of the Boyd guns. There are some errors, such as a "twelve-man poker game;" but "The Hell Bent Kid" is different, well planned and well worth reading.

This reviewer cannot understand why Harry Sinclair Drago made the hero of DECISION AT BROKEN BUTTE (Permabooks, 25 cents) a criminal and gave him a prison record. Matt Quandrell led the Black River ranchers against Amos Stack, the local banker who wanted to grab off the entire range, but in a barroom clash was compelled to kill Stack's foreman. It was clearly self-defense, but the wily Stack bought witnesse who swore that Matt shot first and Matt was forced to hit the owl-hoot trail. He teamed up with an outlaw gang and got five years in the Colorado state penitentiary for bank robbery. In prison, Matt acted as assistant to the institution's physician and then—with only a year to serve—escaped. The long arm of coincidence is pulled out of its socket when Matt encounters a dying physician whose identity he assumes in Broken Butte, Wyo. There he meets his old sweetheart from Black River, kills four bandits who try to take over the town, and covers himself with glory. The story is overdone and a low B is generous.

By 1873 the buffalo herds of the Arkansas and the Platte had almost been exterminated. Only in the South, in the Comanche country, was there any chance of the hide hunters finding the shaggy beasts. Elmer Kelton's BUFFALO WAGONS (Ballantine, 35 cents) tells of Gage Jameson's discovery of that southern herd, of fights with the Comanches, of the hunters' rescue of Celia Westerman, a captured woman. Treachery is an ingredient, too—Jameson's companions leave him wounded on the prairie while they head for Dodge City with thousands of dollars' worth of hides. It adds up to a gripping story.

Although plugged as a "historical," Frank Gruber's LONESOME RIVER (Rinehart, $3) is just a Western which manages to be a little wilder than most. Tim Weber returns to Barkerville to learn that the town and the surrounding range are being taken over by Mike Denver, saloon proprietor and political boss. In his eleven - year absence, however, Tim Weber has become Tom Ringo, a gunman of super-superlative skill. As Tom Ringo he goes into action and the villainous Denver is forced to adopt his "Plan 3," the dynamiting of Lobo Dam.

Symphony Will Give Concert

The Twin Cities Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Harry Lemert, will present a concert Thursday night in Brown Auditorium on the Northeast Louisiana State College campus. The concert is open to all patrons of the organization and friends.

Guest artist on the program will be Leroy Anspach, pianist, head of the department of music, Centenary College, Shreveport. Anspach, whose wife is the former Miss Eloise Temple of Monroe, has appeared as guest pianist with the Philadelphia Symphony, New York Philomonic Orchestra, and the Bell Telephone Company program over a national radio network.

The local orchestry was founded five years ago and gave its first performance on May 24, 1952. Members come from throughout the Twin Cities area with 13 professional musicians journeying from Shreveport.

TIME OUT IN MUSIC

Northeast Clinic On Yearbook Set

Northeast State's annual yearbook clinic is scheduled Friday from 9 a.m. to 3.30 p.m. with meetings to be held in the Administration Building on the campus.

High school and grade school sponsors and staffs of yearbooks throughout this area are invited to take advantage of this opportunity to receive guidance from experts associated with publishing houses. General discussion periods also will provide time to exchange ideas on various phases of yearbook preparation.

"Main purpose of the event is to share information on developing more effective yearbooks," explained Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl of the Northeast journalism faculty and clinic coordinator.

A new feature of this spring's conference will be the awarding of cash prizes for yearbooks rated first, second, and third. The awards will amount to $100, $50, and $25 respectively. Books will be judged on the basis of originality, coverage, design, photography and its use, and advertising. Size or cost of the annual will play no part in selection of winners Mrs. Stahl said.

All schools participating in the clinic are encouraged to bring their yearbooks produced last year. These will be used both for display and entries for prizes. Judges will make suggestions regarding the publications with a view toward assisting staffs of future books.

Discussions to be considered during the one-day conference will include the following factors in yearbook planning and content: The all school history, themes and plans, assignment calendar, and ladder diagram.

A unit pertaining to yearbook layout will comprise combining four page elements and blank space versus white space.

Other subjects on the agenda include: copywriting, and fitting, staff organization, advertising financing and establishing the selling price, art work and photography.

Lunch will be served near Bayou DeSiard which skirts the college campus.

New Aspirin Development Under Study

IOWA CITY, Iowa, March 23 (UP)—Aspirin may be one of the research by-products of two University of Iowa scientists on drug preservatives, university officials said Saturday.

The development of aspirin in solution, instead of tablet form, has been considered impractical because it loses its effectiveness in a few days. Such a solution would be used chiefly for children too young to swallow aspirin tablets.

The research of Profs. Seymour M. Blaugh and John L. Lach was reported in the current issue of "Staff," the University of Iowa employee magazine.

Development of a stable aspirin solution would be only a minor aspect of the research, the article said.

Their primary interest is in the molecular complex formation of drugs, especially those which preservative action in drug preparation.

Their research proved, the article said, that the shelf life and solubility of several drugs, including aspirin solution and Vitamin C, can be increased by adding compounds of polyvinyrrolidone and Polyethylene glycol.

The improved solubility means, they added that when a patient takes the drug it may be absorbed more quickly into the bloodstream, speeding its action in combating disease.

OTHERS THREATEN

One Million More British On Strike

LONDON, March 23 (UP)—One million engineering industry workers went on strike Saturday and union officials threatened to pull another two million off their jobs unless wage demands are met.

The engineering walkout which affected Britain's key aircraft industry occurred as hopes were raised for a speedy settlement of a week-old strike by 200,000 shipyard workers.

The threat of a railroad strike by the 400,000-member union of railwaymen was averted Friday night when the nationalized British Transport Commission agreed to a five per cent wage hike.

Both engineering and shipyard workers have demanded a 10 per cent wage increase. A break in the shipyard stalemate was reached Friday night and both sides were believed closer to a settlement. Talks will be resumed Monday.

Leaders of the 40 engineering unions will meet next week to plan further strike strategy. Union chiefs warned that another two million workers will join the walkout by April 16 unless an agreement is reached.

Britain's worst labor crisis in 30 years was expected to result in Minister of Labor Iain MacLeod calling leaders of the Engineering and Allied Employes National Federation to the ministry Monday for peace talks. But there was little hope that progress could be made in settling the engineering strike before shipyard negotiations are concluded.

The full results of the engineering strike will not be felt until Monday.

Actress Joanna Barnes Is Completing A Novel

By WALTER WINCHELL

Vivienne Nearing, who defeated Charles Van Doren on "21," isn't the only brainy staffer on the Warner's payroll. Actress Joanna Barnes is completing a novel. She was a Phi Beta Kappa at Smith . . . Jackie Gleason keeps telling associates that he doesn't plan to work next year. This is what happens when you Have-It-Made . . . Mike Wallace's staff is hopeful that Alger Hiss will be his opening guestar when the program transfers networks. All Hiss can get is the worst of it . . . Desilu director Jerry Thorpe and Mrs. Thorpe will image in June . . . That teevee - film studio (Desi & Lucy) taught Hollywood a lesson in prosperity last year when it made $21,000,000. Still the talk of the trade . . . Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt for the film version of best - seller "Peyton Place"? . . . We can't imagine it . . . They have too much class . . . Overheard about Artie Shaw's 8th marriage: "His weddings bore me" . . . "Apparently they bore him, too!"

Red Buttons (rated washed-up by Broadway knockers) has the second most important role in Josh Logan's film, "Sayonara." Many readers rate "Kelly," the most attractive character . . . Great break for Buttons, whose B'way friends out front at the Copa last year dusted him off with: "He's made the cycle. Now he's back in the cellar" . . . Swell feature story if true: Pauline Black, dghtr of the late George Black (Britain's top legit theater showman), inherited a two-hundred - million dollar estate. But she still works as receptionist ($75 per) at Larry Mathews' beauty salon in Times Square . . . In Lindy's they were gabbing about Cholly Van Doren signing with a booking agent. Said on: "He's getting smart" . . . "You mean," retorted another, "he's getting stupid!"

That songwriters have been pirating Calypsos is no secret. However, "Rum and Coca-Cola" was copyrighted by a Trinidad publisher, who sued and collected the entire loot from that long - ago hit. Both Morey Amsterdam and his B'way publisher didn't get one Yonkey Dolla . . . The Stanley-Warner management is being sued by irate parents of a kid brutally beaten during the showing of a Rock 'n Roll picture in Phila . . . Well, folks, this is the skewp you've been waiting for: Johnny Barracuda (star at the Calypso Room) skidded on a banana peel and wound up at St. Vincent's Hospital. The Duke of Iron, another Banana Boatman, subbed . . . "The Lion's Share," a history of MGM and its stars (due April 8th), is crowded with drama. The author is Bosley Crowther, film critic for the N. Y. Times. A top-drawer job of the MGMpire.

The Met Opera set is breathless about the news from Milan. One of La Scala's leading bassos, Nicola Rossi Lemeni (heard at the Met) appeared happily wed to Victoria, the daughter of famed Conductor Tullio Serafin. He suddenly divorced her in Mexico . . . Insiders suspect the reason: To marry Virginia Zeani, very pretty soprano at La Scala . . . Prince Serge Obolensky's daughter Sylvia strolls New York's chic Avenues wearing slacks. Her late mother was society's Alice Astor . . . Jerome Zerbe is up to here in research on the life and loves of Moddom DuBarry. He is writing a tome about the old gal . . . Although they've been seeing each other a lot, intimates do not think young ex-King Simeon of Bulgaria will marry Egypt's Princess Ferial . . . Farouk's dghtr by Wife No. 1. Religion is the barrier. He's Orthodox. She's Mohammedan.

"Baby Doll," the Tenn. Williams film smash, was one of 5 short plays he wrote in 1946. A few years ago it was half of a Broadway show — the half that got raves. Its title then was "27 Wagons Full of Cotton" . . . From short play to one - actor to movie click in 10 years. And "Baby Doll" still sucks her thumb . . . Eva Bartok of "10,000 Bedrooms" (starring Dean Martin) has the loveliest eyes. Her ex - husband, Alexander Paal, a top photographer - producer, photographed them for the top of his stationery . . . Dan Evans, a handsome San Francisco chap, was spotted by a 20th Century - Fox exec in a movie audience recently. The exec reported the meeting next lunchtime to veteran showman Al Lichtmann, adding: "He looks like Ty Power" . . . "Sign him" ordered Al. "When we signed Ty Power he couldn't act"

If diplomacy is an art, then the Rembrandt of diplomats is the United Nations' Ralph Bunche. With wisdom, tact and infinite patience he is striving to settle the Middle East crisis. The immensity of the problem can be measured by his experience a few years ago: It took him several weeks to merely arrange a meeting between Israeli and Arab leaders. And it required many days before Bunche convinced the Arab chiefs to shake hands with Israel's representatives. . . . His secret is to "keep 'em talking." He once kept negotiations going for 36 straight hours until the exhausted delegates compromised and reached an agreement.

When the negotiations were completed, Bunche gifted the delegates with rare pieces of pottery purchased in advance and stored until the meetings ended. One delegate inquired: "What would you have done with all the pottery if we had failed?" . . . Bunche smiled: "I'd have smashed the damn things over your heads!"

Hearings Set On Tung Quotas

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP)—The U. S. Tariff Commission announced today that it has set May 2 for hearings on possible restrictions on tung oil imports.

The commission yesterday was asked by President Eisenhower to determine whether tung oil "is being or is practically certain" to be imported in quantities which would interfere with the U. S. price support plan for tung oil.

A 10-POINT CHALLENGE!

Visit our showroom and let one of our 8 Salesmen DEMONSTRATE to you WHY . . .

THE BIG M
MERCURY
IS 10 TO 1 YOUR BEST BUY IN '57

POINT 1. The length of Mercury.
POINT 2. The width of Mercury.
POINT 3. The room between front and back seat in Mercury.
POINT 4. The ease of getting in and out of Mercury.
POINT 5. The size of the trunk space in Mercury.
POINT 6. The advanced styling of Mercury.
POINT 7. Mercury's air conditioning heater combination.
POINT 8. Bonus in vision and opening air feeling in Mercury.
POINT 9. The competitive spirit in Mercury Performance.

POINT 10. THE PAY OFF!

The difference you pay between your car and MERCURY will make you a BIG M owner for a few dollars more than one of the little 3!

10 to 1 YOU'LL BUY A MERCURY . . . NOW if you accept this CHALLENGE.

OPEN THIS AFTERNOON

Come in and pick up your entry blank for the BIG M Dream Car Contest. Plus, we give a valuable prize each week. Mrs. J. P. Tate last week's winner.

EW CLAIM

Stamp Issued By Australia Cites Antartic

Territorial claims via stamps are not new occurrences. But every time we philatelists see such a stamp it is further evidence of how effective stamps can be as a means of propaganda and publicity.

The latest nation to publicize its land rights is Australia with long time interests in the Antarctic. Just received is a new 2 shilling blue adhesive inscribed "Australian Antarctic Territory." The design shows a map of the territory and its relation to the Australian mainland. The positions of Macquarie Heard and the French Kerguelen Islands are also indicated. At the left of the stamp is a scene showing the Australian flag being flown in the Vestfold Hills area on March 3, 1954. The design is based on an original photograph by explorers from the Australian national Antarctic research expedition.

Israel has issued two new stamps, reports Gambel's stamp department. One stamp is for their 1957 Independence Day. The 20 prutta blue and black symbolizes the 9th anniversary of that nation's independence. A 400 prutta honors the Bezalel Museum Jubilee and depicts the museum building in Jerusalem and one of its art treasures from the Middle Ages a candelabra.

A special stamp to commemorate the centenary of Dr. Julius Wagner - Jauregg's birth has been issued by Austria. The famous Austrian psychiatrist was the founder of the Wagner - Jauregg school of psychiatry and neurology. The 2.40 schilling blue stamp bears a portrait of Dr. Wagner-Jauregg who died in 1940 and his signature.

Portugal has issued a new set of four stamps honoring Almeida Garrett, poet and author. The design on all four stamps depicts a portion of the statue to Garrett which now stands in the main square of Oporto, his birthplace. He was Portugal's leading man of letters in the 19th century.

The New York Stamp Co. reports that Nationalist China has the map of China framed with floral decorations. Each bears the inscription "Recovery of Mainland." The stamps were issued from Formosa.

Stamps in the News . . . Two new stamps have been issued by Finland. One depicts the Church of Lammi and the other shows the fortress of Olosborg. . . . Western Germany has issued a new stamp commemorating the 725th anniversary of the founding of Spandau, now one of the suburbs of Berlin. Spandau, incidentally, houses the prison where the Nazi war criminals are kept. . . . The Vatican expects to issue two new sets shortly. One will honor Saint Domenico Savo of the Order of the Salesians. The other is to mark the fifth centenary of the Capranica College in Rome.

Former Monroe Man Honored In Houston, Texas

A decidedly unique and in all probability unequalled tribute to the true spirit of Brotherhood is reported from Houston, Tex., where a special eighth annual dinner was recently held. It was in the Emerald Room of the Shamrock - Hilton hotel and four persons were honored.

The dinner was attended by 900 and inadvance 1,000 tickets were issued each costing $50. The dinner is reported to have netted better than $47,000 all of which goes to worthy charities, in which Brotherhood is concerned.

Those honored, at this unusual outpouring of Brotherhood spirit, were Mrs. John H. Crooker Sr., Catholic laywoman and wife of a prominent attorney in Houston; F. M. Law, civic leader and prominent executive of the First City National Bank; Irvin Shlenker, a former Monroeyen and son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Masur of this city, and last but far from least, General Carlos P. Romulo, of the Philippines, who is ever a strong voice for peace. He served as Philippine ambassador to the United States and is a former president of the United Nations.

RANCH HOMES BRIGHTER

Color stylists give the exterior of ranch homes a "lift" by painting panels in the entrance door a bright accent color. The "rancho," a panel door of ponderosa pine made especially for modern ranch homes, has three equal-sizes panels which are ideal for the accent color treatment.

BLONDIE-- I THINK WE CAN AT LAST AFFORD A MINK COAT FOR YOU
OH, DARLING!
YOU'LL LOOK GORGEOUS SWATHED IN LUXURIOUS MINK, DEAR
IT'S TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE
WHY DIDN'T I HAVE AN INSPIRATION LIKE THIS YEARS AGO?
PET SHOP
DAGWOOD-- WHAT HAVE YOU IN THAT BOX?
YOU'LL SEE
A PAIR OF MINKS--- WE'LL RAISE THEM, AND IN NO TIME WE'LL HAVE ENOUGH MINKS FOR A COAT
OH-SO THAT'S IT!
YOU'LL BE THE FINEST LADY IN THE EASTER PARADE THIS YEAR-- THEIR HOUSE IS FINISHED
DADDY, WE OPENED THIS BOX AND THE TWO PUSSY CATS IN IT RAN AWAY
THEY JUMPED OUT THE WINDOW
SPREAD OUT IN ALL DIRECTIONS -- WE'VE GOT TO FIND THEM DID ANYBODY SEE TWO MINKS GO BY?
I LOOKED EVERYWHERE, BUT I COULDN'T FIND THEM
IT'S NO USE-- THEY'RE GONE
OH, GOODIE-- HERE COMES DADDY
YOU'LL HAVE TO FORGET THE MINK COAT, DEAR-- I COULD ONLY FIND ONE

COME ON, BOYS! DINNER IS ON THE TABLE!
JUST A SEC, ALICE.
YEAH. JUST A SEC, MOM.
BOY! CAN OL' COWBOY BOB EVER FIGHT!
YEAH!
I CAN FIGHT, TOO, IF I'M PUSHED FAR ENOUGH!
HUH? OH, SORRY HONEY! COME ON, DENNIS. LET'S EAT.
WHO WAS THAT MAN AND LADY THOSE OUTLAWS WERE PUSHIN' AROUND, DAD?
THEY WERE COWBOY BOB'S IN-LAWS, DENNIS.
HIS WHAT?
HIS IN-LAWS.
OUTLAWS ARE THE BAD GUYS. AREN'T THEY?
YEP.
WELL, WHAT ARE IN-LAWS? ARE THEY GOOD OR BAD?
HUH?
I SAID, ARE IN-LAWS GOOD OR BAD?
WELL...
ANSWER THE BOY, HENRY.
I TELL YOU WHAT, ALICE. YOU ANSWER THE BOY!
THAT'S NOT FAIR!
THAT'S A TOUGH ONE, HUH?

CAPTAIN EASY

by Leslie Turner

A LATE NEWSCAST SAID TH' PLANE SPOTTED ON MESA DE VACA DIDN'T LOOK DAMAGED, NICK. SO NO ONE WAS LIKELY HURT! A HELICOPTER IS TO PICK 'EM UP AT DAYLIGHT!
WE MUST GET THERE FIRST! IF THAT BABE LIVES TO TESTIFY, BOLO WILL BURN!
SEVERAL HUNDRED MILES FROM THE MESA
I'VE HUNTED IN THAT WILD AREA. A TAXI PLANE LANDED US AT A PUEBLO 23 MILES FROM IT AND WE HIRED A JEEP. BUT AT NIGHT... I DUNNO...
THEY WILL FOR ENOUGH DOUGH! C'MON
SO, LATER THAT NIGHT
WE NEED YOUR JEEP TO DO SOME HUNTIN', GERONIMO. HERE, THIS OUGHTA BUY THAT RELIC!
THEN, AFTER MILES OF ROUGH TRAIL, THE MESA LOOMS UP...
NORMA, WAKE UP! I HEARD A CAR IN THE DISTANCE! IT MAY BE HELP... BUT STAY HID TILL WE KNOW!
WE DON'T NEED HELP, EASY! WE'RE ALL SET TO TAKE OFF AT DAWN!
WHEN NICK COMES OVER THE TOP EASY IS WAITING
HEY, THERE, WHO IS IT?
OH! I'M DR. BUNDY. I WAS AFRAID YOU MIGHT NEED MEDICAL AID
THANKS, BUT I DIDN'T GET A SCRATCH!
GET THOSE HANDS UP, PAL! NOW WHERE IS THAT GAL WITH YOU?

GOOD HEAVENS! THERE'S HALF A MILLION DOLLARS HERE!
SIR, WHY WERE YOU CARRYING SO MUCH MONEY?
I... I DON'T KNOW.
AND YOU DON'T EVEN KNOW WHERE YOU GOT IT?
I DON'T REMEMBER ANYTHING... UNTIL YOU KIND PEOPLE BROUGHT ME INTO YOUR HOME.
OF ALL THINGS. HALF A MILLION CASH, AND HE DOESN'T REMEMBER WHO HE IS, WHERE HE LIVES OR—DO YOU HAVE A WIFE? A FAMILY?
I... I DON'T KNOW.
IMAGINE! NO WALLET. NO MEANS OF IDENTIFICATION. JUST AN OLD SUITCASE STUFFED WITH BEAUTIFUL HUNDRED-DOLLAR BILLS.
NOW, LOOK, SIR. TRY TO REMEMBER. THINK!
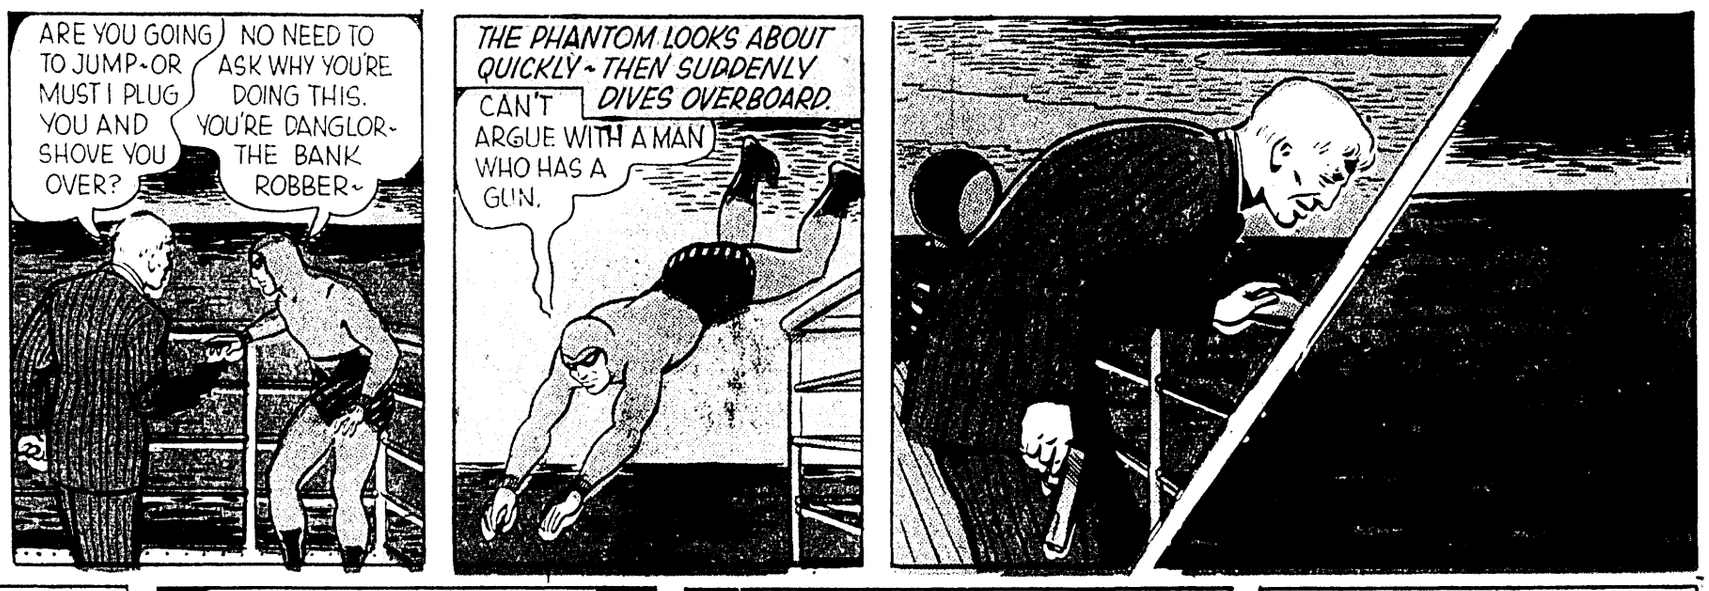
YES, ROSCO. HE NEEDS SLEEP.
THAT POOR MAN! AT LEAST, THOUGH, HE HAS NO FINANCIAL WORRIES.
WELL... I'M NOT SO SURE OF THAT. SUPPOSE SOMEBODY SHOULD STEAL THAT HALF MILLION OF HIS?
OR SUPPOSE IT'S NOT REALLY HIS! SUPPOSE HE EMBEZZLED IT!
GOOD HEAVENS, BROTHER!
OR SUPPOSE HE'S A COUNTERFEITER!
OH, DEAR GOODNESS!
3-24
OR SUPPOSE HE'S A BANK ROBBER! OR A SAFE-CRACKER!
MERCY SAKES! THEN WE'D BE GUILTY OF HIDING A FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE! WE'D BE ACCESSORIES TO THE CRIME!
4 A.M.
SOME PEOPLE ARE ALWAYS RUNNING AROUND LOOKING FOR EXCITEMENT. BUT ME, I ONLY NEED TO STAY AT HOME.

The PHANTOM

By LEE FALK and WILSON McCOY



ARE YOU GOING TO JUMP~OR MUST I PLUG YOU AND SHOVE YOU OVER?
NO NEED TO ASK WHY YOU'RE DOING THIS. YOU'RE DANGLOR~ THE BANK ROBBER~
THE PHANTOM LOOKS ABOUT QUICKLY~THEN SUDDENLY DIVES OVERBOARD.
CAN'T ARGUE WITH A MAN WHO HAS A GUN.
THE PHANTOM LEFT THE SHIP. HE FLEW INTO THE AIR LIKE A BIRD~ BACK TO THE JUNGLE
THE GHOST WHO WALKS IS GONE.
HE WILL NO LONGER JINX THIS SHIP.
THE GHOST WHO WALKS~WHAT MALARKEY! HE'S IN THE OCEAN, A THOUSAND MILES FROM LAND~ THAT'S THE END OF HIM!
NOW THEY'LL BE POSITIVE HE WAS THE BANK ROBBER~ THERE'LL BE NO MORE SEARCH. I'M SAFE~WITH ALL THIS LOOT!
BUT IN THE SHIP'S WAKE, THE PHANTOM REACHES A TRAILING ROPE. HIS QUICK GLANCE HAD TOLD HIM WAS THERE!

For taste and food-energy... AMERICA'S CHAMPIONS AGREE

English Channel Swimmer FLORENCE CHADWICK says I LOVE KARO SYRUP ON WAFFLES

All-Time Basketball Star BOB COUSY says MAN, KARO SYRUP TOPS EVERYTHING

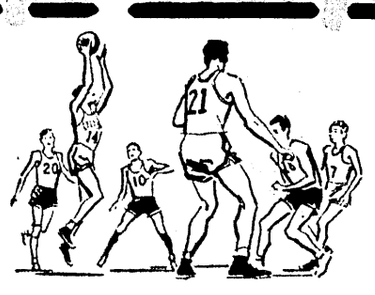
MICKEY MANTLE... Home Run Champion, Star of the New York Yankees, and the American League's "Most Valuable Player" in 1956. Won the Triple Crown for highest batting average (.353), most home runs (52), and most runs batted in (130)... all in the same year.

FLORENCE CHADWICK... One of the world's greatest distance swimmers. First woman to conquer the English Channel both ways 1950-51. Set a new official record of 13 hours, 55 minutes in 1955. Also swam the Bosporus, Straits of Gibraltar and Catalina Channel.



BOB COUSY... "The Houdini of the Hardwood," and professional basketball's (the Boston Celtics) most accomplished all-around player. A consistently high scorer, famous for his behind-the-back dribble, speed, and flashing offense on the court.

THE BOY WHOSE FATHER WAS IN THE SHAFT DURING THE STUMPHILL MINE EXPLOSION HAS HURRIED HOME — BUT AT HIS INSISTENCE, THE TEAM STAYS ON TO PLAY FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP! IT IS THE FINAL PERIOD AND THE SCORE IS TIED...

THE TEAMS ARE PLAYING HARD, SHARP BASKETBALL — ONE MISTAKE AND THE OTHER SIDE SCORES! THEN, AS VALLEY ACADEMY DRIVES IN TO BREAK THE DEADLOCK...

OH-H-H, THERE'S A WHISTLE!

WOW-W!—I HATE TO DO THIS... BUT IT'S WHAT I'M PAID FOR!...

HOLDING!

THAT'S THE FIFTH PERSONAL FOUL ON KRUSE! HE'S OUT OF THE GAME!....

OFFICIAL'S TIME OUT

STUMPHILL HAS NO SUBSTITUTES!

BUT THE TEAM MUST GO ON WITH FOUR MEN!

I-I'LL BET THOSE STUMPHILL KIDS CAN STILL WIN WITH ONLY FOUR PLAYERS!

YOU'RE OUT OF YOUR MIND! NAME YOUR PRICE!

—YOU'RE COVERED!

A BET'S A BET! HOW MUCH WILL YOU PUT ON STUMPHILL TO WIN?

HERE'S FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS THAT SAYS YOU'RE WRONG!

MISS CALHOON, YOU'RE UNDER ARREST FOR MAKING A MONEY BET WHILE ON STATE UNIVERSITY PROPERTY!

WHAT?! SHE'S ONLY BEEN WITH US ONE DAY!

AS FAR AS I'M CONCERNED, LET HER QUIT! SHE DOESN'T KNOW HOW TO COOK, ANYWAY!

THAT DINNER SHE SERVED LAST NIGHT WASN'T EVEN FIT FOR YOUR BROTHER!

IT'LL BE A PLEASURE!

YEAH! SHE WANTED A RAISE AFTER ONE DAY ON THE JOB-

IT DIDN'T TAKE HER LONG TO FIND A NEW JOB, EITHER! SHE SAID SHE HAD ONE WAITING!

RESTAURANT

YOU HAVE A COMPLAINT?

THE FOOD IS TERRIBLE! I WANT TO SEE THE MANAGER!

ANYTHING WRONG, SIR?

TAKE THIS BACK TO THAT NEW COOK AND ASK HER IF SHE CAN'T DO BETTER!

SHE JUST QUIT, SIR... SHE WAS MAD BECAUSE YOU WOULDN'T GIVE HER A RAISE!
